Thursday, May 4, 1916.

By the way, speaking about the newspapers and the county-to-county campaign, did you ever know of any reform movement, or any other movement looking to the betterment of the people, that the newspapers were not in favor of? And, you fellow who thinks the newspapers are trying to work a political scheme, did you ever hear of any nefarious scheme, political or otherwise, that the newspapers were in favor of? Some newspapers are in favor of everything you ever heard of, but we mean the great majority of newspapers.

Now that Bamberg has voted to install a modern system of waterworks, the next step is the installation of a sewerage system. The two go together, or ought to go together. After Bamberg has had waterworks all over the city for a few months, the people will wonder how they ever got along without the system. And so it would be with a system of sewerage. Waterworks will greatly increase the healthfulness of the town, we believe, and sewerage would increase it still more. However, sewerage will come in due time. When the further growth of the town demands it, the people will see to it that sewerage is installed.

Bamberg took a decided step forward Tuesday when her citizens voted to extend the waterworks of the city into the residential sections and to install a system of pure water that can be used for all household purposes. A city cannot grow without water. As long as Bamberg is without an adequate supply of pure water it will remain in the little country town class. You cannot possibly get out of this class unless there is plenty of water for fire protection as well as household use. The overwhelming sentiment in favor of the waterworks was quite a surprise in view of the difficulties surrounding the securing of sufficient signatures to the petitions calling for the election. There was never much doubt about the matter being favored by a majority of the voters, but a six to one vote showed very plainly that the people of Bamberg are tired of having to buy or beg their drinking water, being without fire protection, and depending on unsanitary and uncertain surface water wells for water for household purposes.

Evidently the movement to abolish the county-to-county canvass will die in the State convention. However, the sentiment against the biennial joke is growing. In fact, we believe that if every club had voted on the matter and instructed its delegates, there would have been a good chance of relegating this antiquated custom to the discard. If the clubs in this county had instructed its delegates, the county convention would have doubtless reversed its vote—although we do not mean to convey the impression that we were in favor of instructing the delegates. The people are beginning to find out that the county-to-county campaign has outlived its usefulness, that it has served its purpose, and that it now has no place among an enlightened and intelligent people. Even though the canvass will doubtless continue, we think the agitation this year will have accomplished one thing—it will not be conducted as in the past. Even those who scoff and scowl at the newspapers for being opposed to the canvass are in favor of tightening the screws on those of the candidates who use their time in vilifying and vituperating their opponents.

DEFEATED CHARLESTONIANS.

Two Seaside Teams Go Down Before Carlisle Winners.

Carlisle won two games in Charleston last Thursday and Friday, defeating Porter Military Academy Thursday, 5 to 2, and defeating Charleston high school Friday, 6 to 5. The following stories of the games are from the News and Courier:

After getting a two-run lead and playing an errorless game up to the seventh inning, the Porter Military Academy team in its game with the Carlisle school yesterday afternoon at Hampton park went to pieces and allowed the visitors to score five runs. The game ended 5 to 2 in favor of the Bamberg aggregation. Neither side earned a tally.

Robertson, who started out for the cadets, although only 14 years old, held the Carlisle bunch at bay until the seventh, when the infield collapsed. Parnelle, a lanky right-hander, with a swift underhand ball, held the cadets to one hit, a single by K. Skinner. His pitching was the main stumbling point of the defence by the visitors, as he fanned sixteen men.

Parnelle was a clown in the box; almost every time he pitched the ball he lost his balance. His great underhand ball, mixed with curves, baffled the P. M. A. batters throughout the exhibition.

Catches by Carroll in left and a running catch by Dorr were the features aside from Parnelle's great pitching. A pretty double play was made by Allen and Lewis.

Score by innings:
Carlisle000 000 500—5
Porter000 110 000—2

The Carlisle school won again yesterday. It played the Charleston high school at Hampton park, but the local team made it fight every inch of the way for the contest which went 14 innings, score, 6 to 5. And had not the visitors called on Parnelle, their crack pitcher, who the day before defeated the Porter Military Academy with only one hit, the Charleston boys would probably have won the game easily. They were battling Ethridge about the field when Parnelle relieved him.

The Charleston boys made a magnificent fight for the game and but for errors at the start of the game and another in the fourteenth inning the locals would have won.

Hanckel, who twirled for Charleston, pitched a beautiful game and deserved a better fate. He had the hard fighting visiting batters eating out of his hand. Up to the tenth inning he had allowed only two hits.

In the fourteenth Moore had rolled out when Skinner hit to Dotterer, who made a wild two-base heave. Parnelle fanned. Lenoir singled to left and Skinner counted. Lenoir stole second and counted on a single by Farnum.

High school came in for its half and Rogers, who had already walked twice, worked Parnelle for a third pass. Bahr hit to Farnum and he erred on the ball. Klenke then singled and Rogers tallied. Black, battling for Muckenfuss, fanned. Hanckel walked, filling the bases. Le Vergne hoisted to Skinner and Heinsold was called out on strikes.

Bailey Team Wins.

Florence, April 27.—Bailey defeated the Carlisle school yesterday afternoon at the fair grounds here in a fast and intensely interesting game by a score of 5 to 1. Both teams played excellent ball, the Bailey team showing the best form of the season. Only 1 hour and 25 minutes was consumed in the game.

The outstanding feature of the game was the pitching of Burress, for Bailey, who held his opponents at his mercy the entire game, allowing only two hits and striking out 11 men. The infield gave him gilt edge support.

No Further Need.

"No more shall I hear his footsteps on yonder walk just as the clock strikes eight."

"Gracious, Janette!"

"And the old parlor light will never burn low for him again."

"You don't mean it?"

"I do; and furthermore, he will never sit on this sofa three nights a week and call me pet names, as he has been doing for two years."

"I am astonished."

"And tonight I am going to burn all the old love letters in my chest of drawers."

"B-but why? Are you going to discard him?"

"Discard him! Why, you goose, I am going to marry him!"

A strange fossil with a head shaped like that of a man and body shaped like that of a pelican is reported to have been discovered near Fromberg, Mont. It was imbedded in sedimentary rock of the Mesozoic period. The body of the fossil is two feet high. The head shows a well-developed projection over the base of the brain, a large forehead and a prominent jaw.

OBTUARY OF MRS. R. C. JONES, NEE LILLIAN CALDWELL.

Three times in the last sixteen months the angel of death has come into the family of Deacon Aleck Caldwell. The first one taken was his only son, Edwin, who met with an accident in November, 1914, which resulted in his death a few days later. The next was Mr. Caldwell himself, who died suddenly on December 12, 1915. The third one was Mrs. Robert Jones (nee Lillian Caldwell) who answered the summons on Sunday, April second, in her home at Bamberg, S. C., after an illness of only nine days with pneumonia. She is survived by her husband, one son, ten years old, and three sisters, namely, Mrs. W. D. Browning, Richmond, Mrs. R. L. Heycock, Washington, D. C., and Miss Clara Caldwell, of this place.

Mrs. Jones was born in Appomattox forty-two years ago. Early in life she gave her heart to Christ, and was baptized into the fellowship of Liberty Baptist church. Her education began at home under a governess, and was completed in Woman's College, of Richmond. On December 28, 1898, she was united in marriage to Mr. Robert Jones and immediately removed to his home in Bamberg, S. C., where she resided at the time of her death. Burial services were held on Tuesday, April 4th, in Liberty Baptist church. Her casket occupied the same place where she stood as a bride more than seventeen years before. Mrs. J. R. Atwood, who officiated at the organ on her wedding day, played again on this occasion, and Dr. George Braxton Taylor, who performed her marriage ceremony, was also present and conducted the funeral services. He spoke in most loving terms of Miss Lillian as he knew her and said that he would always remember her devoted earnestness in spiritual work. During her college days she was unlike the average girl in that whenever she returned home on vacation periods, the church received her best thoughts and first attention. I have also heard many of the older members speak very tenderly of the Miss Lillian whom they knew in her youth and early womanhood and all testify that none was more loyal to her church and pastor than she. All that concerned its welfare was dear to her heart. In her new home in Bamberg, Mrs. Jones was also a true, loyal worker in Christ's kingdom; while no church could ever be the same to her as old Liberty, yet this did not deter her from faithfully entering the Master's work.

Beautiful resolutions were passed by the Bamberg Baptist church in which her home and church life were referred to as follows: "They soon established a happy home, where love reigned and Christ was honored. God blessed the labors of their hands; but prosperity did not blind them to the needs of the world or the claims of the church, so she early identified herself with the Baptist church and became thoroughly enlisted in all its work. Active in Sunday-school, helpful in music and liberal in the missionary work of the church, she will be missed everywhere, but especially in the Woman's Missionary society of which she was for a long time president."

Nature endowed Miss Lillian with a brilliant mind and rare talents. These she enriched and made beautiful by consecrating them to the Master's use. She is gone but not forgotten. The sunshine of her soul, the rich heritage of hope, the fragrance of her lips, will ever linger in the hearts of those who mourn her going. Her sufferings are over, and the body now rests in Liberty cemetery. Rev. C. W. McElroy conducted a rose committal service in the presence of a large crowd of sorrowing friends and loved ones, and the handsome floral offerings completely covered the grave. While her body thus sleeps in peace we believe that her soul has gone to that fair land where there is no more sorrow, no more sickness, no more death, where all is one eternal day and where the souls of the redeemed live on while God and eternity lasts, and

"When we've been there ten thousand years,
Bright, shining as the sun,
We've no less days to sing God's praise,
Than when we first begun."

Well can it be said of her, "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord." How sublime and comforting the words.

"I cannot tell the depth of love,
Which moved the Father's heart above,

My faith to test, my love to prove,
But some day I'll understand.
Some day He'll make it plain to me,
Some day when I His face shall see,
Some day from tears I shall be free,
For some day I'll understand."

—C. W. McElroy, in the Times Virginian. (Appomattox, Virginia.)
