UNION MAN'S BODY FOUND.

Pettus Lancaster Disappeared Two Weeks Ago.

Union, August 5.—The dead body of Pettus Lancaster, the young man who disappeared in the West Springs neighborhood two weeks ago last Tuesday, was discovered this morning about 9 o'clock in an abandoned gold mine shaft in the West Springs neighborhood. The shaft is 35 feet deep. The water was pumped out of this shaft and it was examined thoroughly by the searching party more than two weeks ago. It is now believed by many that the body was placed in this shaft after foul play. Young Lancaster disappeared on the afternoon or night of the violent storm which ushered in the recent flood. He was journeying on foot from Glenn Springs and returning to his father's home when last seen and it was supposed that in the storm he lost his way and fell into one of these mines, there being a number of them in this section of the country. His hat was found near the bank of the creek which was swollen far beyond its bounds. Sheriff Fant and the coroner are on their way now to West Springs to make a thorough investigation. The funeral and burial will be held at Sulphur Springs Baptist church late this afternoon.

The Kaiser's Father.

Whenever any indisposition of the kaiser is announced the recollection of the malady of his father is naturally recalled. It was in May, 1887, that the three German physicians, Gerhardt, Bergmann and Tobold, declared that the Crown Prince Frederick had cancer of the larynx. Dr. Morell Mackenzie, the celebrated English laryngologist, denied the presence of a cancer, and proposed to charge himself with the treatment of the prince. The Crown Princess Victoria, daughter of Queen Victoria, decided that her husband should follow the advice of her countryman.

The princess and her husband established themselves for a time at San Remo. It soon appeared that the German doctors were right in their diagnosis. The cancer could no longer be denied. Prince Frederick refused to allow himself to be operated upon. In the meantime the old Emperor William died and the prince returned to Berlin, where he became Frederick III.

On the 5th of June, a year after the first serious attack of the disease, Emperor Frederic succumbed. Dr. Mackenzie then declared that he had dissimulated as to the cancerous nature of the disease "through motives of humanity," and wrote a pamphlet justifying his course. Frederic, in 1887, at the time of his death, was 57 years old. The kaiser William II attained that age on the 27th of last January.—Indianapolis News.

THOS. B. FELDER STABBED.

Doorkeeper of Georgia Legislature Charged With Crime.

Atlanta, August 3.—Thomas B. Felder, prominent member of the Atlanta bar, and well known for the part he took in the South Carolina dispensary cases several years ago, was stabbed and seriously injured here tonight. G. K. Vasson, of East Point, Ga., doorkeeper of the lower house of the Georgia general assembly, was arrested, charged with the stabbing, which took place in the lobby of the Kimball house in the presence of scores of legislators. It was said by legislators that the affair grew out of Felder's recent efforts before a committee of the house to defeat a bill by which the city of Savannah charter would be amended to permit vote on recall of city officials.

Felder, representing certain prohibition elements, claimed the recall of Mayor Pierpont, of Savannah, was sought by those favoring the bill. The attorney and house committee recently exchanged hot words over the bill, which was tabled today, but Vasson declined to explain his interest in the affair, merely issuing a statement saying he was not the aggressor in the altercation which preceded the stabbing. Witnesses said, according to the police, that Felder and Vasson exchanged words over the tabling of the bill. Felder was stabbed in the abdomen. At a local hospital it was said the wound was not necessarily fatal.

CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGNS.

A Trade Paper's Advice to Cities of the South.

The city administration of Baltimore has started out to "make Baltimore the cleanest and most healthful city in the United States." A special committee on plan and management, which includes in its membership the mayor, the health commissioner and the commissioner of street cleaning, has compiled a pamphlet of suggestions to citizens, householders, factory owners and others, the list comprising a number of fundamental requirements for effecting sanitary conditions in the home, the premises, the street and the workshop. These pamphlets are for gratuitous and widespread distribution and are intended to secure the citizens' cooperation with the health authorities in their efforts to eliminate unsanitary conditions.

This is a work that other cities, and even villages, everywhere, and particularly throughout the South, should vigorously undertake. While the South has been the leader in many sanitary movements—Asheville, N. C., originated the anti-fly crusade, for instance; Southern physicians cleared this country and substantially the entire world of the yellow fever scourge, and New Orleans and the State of Louisiana have a stricter observance of sanitary laws than almost any other community in this country—yet the longer summer season of the South subjects the section to greater danger from unsanitary conditions than is encountered further north.

Disease finds a prolific breeding place in dirt, in filth and in foul air. Sunshine, pure air and diligent scrubbing of everything on which dirt has found lodgment are the prime ministers of health. Cleanliness, universal, omnipresent and eternal—cleanliness of person, of clothing, of bedding, and of every nook and cranny of the home place, front and back, upstairs and downstairs, and into the cellar, and everywhere around about the yard—will do more to ward off disease and keep the family in health than all the remedies in the pharmacopeia. But all home cleanliness will be minimized in its value if officials permit dirty, unpaved streets and other unsanitary conditions to prevail.

It is to be hoped that Baltimore will do a thorough job, and that the example may spread until all over the land cleanliness may indeed be enthroned alongside of Godliness.

It will then be a much pleasanter world for those who survive, and the number of survivors, especially among the infant class—the helpless and preponderating victims of the unsanitary state—will be immeasurably increased.—Manufacturers' Record.

Pea Soup.

A congressman received almost daily letters from a constituent asking for garden seed, with emphasis on peas. The demand for peas got so heavy that the congressman was moved to write this letter:

"I am sending you half a dozen more packages of peas as requested. Say, what are you trying to do down there, plant the whole State in peas?"

The reply came a few days later.

"No; I'm not planting them, but they make bully soup. Send along some more."
