Lowest Price Electrically Equipped Car in the World

The Model "FOUR-NINETY" with electric lights and electric starter included in its regular equipment is the lowest priced electrically equipped car in the world.

The electric lighting and starting equipment of the "FOUR-NINETY" is not added after the car is built. It is actually built into the car and guaranteed as part of the car. No car is complete or up-to-date without this equipment, and it cannot be added satisfactorily to a car after it is built and completed.

Its electrical equipment is the two-unit Auto-

Lite system, with Bendix drive, of the same grade and type used on the highest priced cars,—not the single unit, motor generator type, so generally used on medium and low priced cars. Electric head lamps with dimming attachment and electric tail lamp are included.

The Model "FOUR-NINETY" in addition being electrically equipped,—is handsomely designed and finished, combines correct car weight and balance with valve-in-head motor efficiency, selective sliding gear transmission giving three speeds forward, and many other strong features

The Bamberg Herald

ESTABLISHED APRIL, 1891.

Thursday, Dec. 28, 1916.

The many Bamberg readers of the Columbia State learned with genuine regret of the death of Robert E. Gonzales, whose bright paragraphs adorned the editorial page of the State every day until he went to the border with the South Carolina national guard. Mr. Gonzales was, without a doubt, a gifted writer, and was considered by many as being the leading paragrapher in the country.

Let everybody remember the good roads meeting to be held at the court house in Bamberg Monday, January 8th. Be thinking about the meeting people, and when you come, don't fail to express your thoughts about what is to be done. Your suggestion may be the one Bamberg county has been needing all along. Whatever you do, don't fail to be present at the meeting. Let this meeting be a rousing good roads rally.

With reluctance The Herald feels compelled to discontinue exchanging with a good many of the newspapers of the State. The Herald is endeavoring to get through the period of high prices without advancing its subscription price. In order to do this, every possible expense must be pared down. It is a pleasure to read the exchanges. We are sorry that our time does not permit us to read every one of them carefully. The fact that we cannot continue to exchange with all of them does not mean that we do not enjoy their visits, but we just can't afford it, that's all. High prices are playing havoc with newspapers, and we hope that the time will soon come around again when we can afford the expense of sending every paper in the State The Herald. In the mean time, we shall have to content ourselves with only getting those around us.

Warding Off Trouble.

He had reformed and was full of zeal in the cause of temperance. He was holding a lecture in a workman's hall, and fearing that the audience might interrupt he hired a former prizefighter to preserve order. In glowing terms the orator contrasted home life with drunkenness:

"What is it we want when we return home after a hard day's work? What do we want to ease our burden to gladden our hearts, to bring the smile of happiness to our faces, and joyous songs to our lips?" He paused for effect, and in the silence could be heard the voice of the keeper of the peace:

"Mind, the first bloke that says 'beer,' out he goes with a bang."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

PEACE MOVEMENT IS MADE.

crete objects for which it is being waged have never been definitely stated.

Same on Both Sides.

"The leaders of the several belligerents, have, as has been said, stated those objects in general terms. But, stated in general terms, they seem the same on both sides. Never yet have the authoritative spokesmen of either side avowed the precise objects which would, if attained, satisfy them and their people that the war had been fought out. The world has been left to conjecture what definite results, what actual exchange of guaranties, what political or territorial changes or readjustments, what stage of military success even, would bring the war to an end.

"It may be that peace is nearer than we know; that the terms which the belligerents on the one side and on the other would deem it necessary to insist upon are not so irreconcilable as some have feared; that an interchange of views would clear the way at least for conference and make the permanent concord of the nations a hope of the immediate future, a concert of nations immediately practicable.

"The president is not proposing peace; he is not even offering mediation. He is merely proposing that soundings be taken in order that we may learn, the neutral nations with the belligerent, how near the haven of peace may be for which all mankind longs with an intense and increasing longing. He believes that the spirit in which he speaks and the objects which he seeks will be understood by all concerned, and he confidently hopes for a response which will bring a new light into the affairs of the world."

City of Washington.

Washington, the capital of the United States, was founded 126 years ago today, December 20, 1790. In the early days of the republic congress was engaged in a long and bitter wrangle to decide the location of the capital, and for a time the controversy threatened to wreck the infant government. At length an agreement was reached, and a site favored by George Washington, on the banks of the Potomac, was selected. In realizing the dream of Washington much vexation was experienced because of the attitude of the owners of the land, most of whom were Scotch, and had inherited the ability to drive a hard bargain. Most stubborn of all was David Burns, a tobacco planter and justice of the peace, who insisted that he "did not want a capital in his front yard. Washington argued with him for days, and Burns at last capitulated, but he exacted a good price, and also stipulated that his cottage should not be disturbed. This little edifice stood till a few years ago.

To Keep You Guessing.

Read the riddles aloud to the family, withholding the answers, and see how many can guess them:

Who was the first man spoken of in the Bible? Chap. I (chap first.)

Who was the first woman spoken of in the Bible? Genesis (Jennie's Sis.)

At what time of day was Adam created? A little before Eve.

Spell "Adam's Express Company" with three letters. E-v-e.

What one word in the Bible represents the father calling his son and the son's answering? Ben Hadad (Ben, ha-dad).

Who was a very short man spoken of in the Bible? Nehemiah (knee-high Miah.)

Who was the strongest man spoken of in the Bible? Jonah, because the whale couldn't keep him down.

Who was the greatest orator spoken of in the Bible? Samson, because he brought the house down filled with his enemies.
