Tobacco, Peanuts and Cotton for 1918

Editors Bamberg Herald: I am not a practical farmer, nor am I a prophet, but it appears to me that this is an opportune time for the farmers to diversify their crops; especially so in view of the anticipated coming of the boll weevil and the lack of potash. We can not expect a crop of cotton in 1918 without potash and with potash we can't have a full crop if the weevil comes. Would it not be better to forestall these hindrances by planting some cotton, some peanuts and some tobacco in 1918? We have some as good tobacco land as can be found within the borders of South Carolina, and if farmers will agree to plant say five acres each I am satisfied that the merchants will build a warehouse that we may have a ready market for what we make. In conversation recently with a farmer from Williamsburg county, I was told that in one small town in the county the farmers had on deposit more than $2,000,000.00, and that the banks were refusing to pay interest on deposits.

The peanut industry has proven successful in Virginia and other states and, while it may not be generally known, there are more peanuts raised in Bamberg county than in any other county in South Carolina. Any of our sandy lands with some land plaster will raise 40 to 50 bushels per acre, and these peanuts will readily bring $2.00 to $2.50 per bushel in the markets.

If the farmers would agree to plant say 10 acres each next year, I am satisfied our ginners will install the thrashing machines and will also put in the machinery to use the peanuts here.

Some planters think no money can be obtained from the banks except upon cotton as collateral. I am confident that either of our banks here will cooperate with the farmers looking to an early diversification of crops. If I can be of any service to those interested, I shall be pleased to do all I can to help them and our county in getting on the proper basis. Don't spend all of your money expecting a big cotton crop next year, for you will be sadly disappointed.

Yours truly,
H. M. GRAHAM.

Napoleon Died 96 Years Ago.

On October 16, 1815, Napoleon landed at St. Helena. He remained until his death, May 21, 1821. Nowhere in the known world could the Allies have found a more remote place of imprisonment. The island, containing but forty-five square miles, is the summit of a tremendous mountain that rises from the bottom of the ocean, 4,000 miles from London and more than 1,000 miles from the coasts of Africa and South America, the nearest continental land. The tiny speck in the ocean where Napoleon lived for nearly six years seems to typify his closing years, for St. Helena is an ancient volcano that has ceased to belch forth smoke and fire.

The overthrow of Napoleon naturally caused a reconstruction of the map of Europe, and in many ways this reconstruction prepared the way for the present titanic conflict. France was shorn of the territories that the Corsican had added. Holland was set up as an independent kingdom, which included modern Belgium, formerly a possession of Austria. Switzerland was declared independent, as were many of the small Italian States, but Austria, in compensation for the loss of Belgium, was given great districts in Northern Italy.

The Polish duchy of Warsaw was given to Russia, and half of Saxony was given over to Prussia. But there were many more changes to be made in the map of Europe before the stage could be set for the present conflict, and these we must briefly glance at to understand the present crisis.

Most important of these changes have been the creation of the German empire and the kingdom of Italy. Coupled with the former has been the growth of Prussia and the disappearance of many small and feeble German States, as well as the absorption of Schleswig-Holstein, important today because the Kiel canal has been constructed in that important neck of land. Austria has lost the hold that it possessed on Northern Italy; France has had to relinquish Alsace and Lorraine; Belgium has been created; Turkey has been forced to grant independence to Greece and the other Balkan States. All these changes have had much to do with precipitating the war of today, which may cause as radically as it was in 1815.

But the changes in boundaries were not the only influence left behind him by Napoleon. He had set up despotism upon the ruins of the ancient order, but it was a different despotism than Europe had ever known before. "I am revolution" Napoleon once said in one of those brief sentences that show he was much more than a brilliant general. He hated the abuses that had oppressed the masses, and he made it impossible for many of them to crop out again, not only in France, but in many of the nations that had been hostile to the French.

The old Bourbon line of kings was restored in France, but the French revolution and Napoleon had left the nation a desire for democracy that made it impossible to revive the abuses fostered under Louis XIV. Napoleon's rise to power shattered the medieval theory that a man could not rise above the class in which he had been born. And the necessity for struggling against his colossal ambition to dictate to Europe had aroused a spirit of nationality in hostile countries, especially in Germany. Through reforms he had introduced and his expressed belief that a unity of Italy was possible, Napoleon had also stirred many Italians into a belief that an independent Italy, free from foreign domination was more than a possibility. For a generation, however, the conservatives were able to keep stifled these sparks of democracy that had been lighted by Napoleon. But they could not extinguish them, and the new and transformed Europe of today owes much of its democratic spirit to the influence of Napoleon, the most dominating, if not the most virtuous figure in modern history.

D. R. MATHENY.

Whereas, God, in His infinite wisdom, did on the morning of the 26th ult., remove from us by death our beloved brother, D. R. Matheny;

And, whereas, we, the members of the Bamberg Baptist church, of which he was a valued member, desire to place on record our feeling of sadness in the loss we have sustained.

Therefore, be it resolved, that in the death of Bro. Matheny our church has lost a most worthy member, the community an honorable citizen, and his family a tender and loving husband and father;

Resolved, further, that we extend our sympathy to the bereaved family, and that a page in our minute book be inscribed to his memory; also that a copy of these resolutions be published in our county papers and in the Baptist Courier.

MRS. W. B. MOORE.

It was with genuine sorrow that we learned of the death of Mrs. W. B. Moore. She was one of Ehrhardt's most devout Christian women. She will be greatly missed by the church of which she was a member, and by the entire community, to say nothing of the home she left that will miss the sunshine of her Godly life.

Whenever there was sickness in the town she was there to comfort and nurse to health again. When there was death she was there to close the eyes of the dead and to do what she could to console the broken hearted. Now, that her own eyes are closed in death, she will be greatly missed in her ministries of kindness, sympathy and love. As a neighbor, she was unexcelled by any. In the home, her's was a sweet queenly christian spirit. Somebody has said that "God could not be everywhere in person, so he made mothers to represent him." She loved her little family and home. She cultivated a pardonable christian pride for both. I am sure that the fragrance of her life will prove a blessing to others.

"Hast thou sounded the depths of yonder sea,
And counted the sands that under it lie?
Hast thou measured the height of heaven above?
Then mayest thou mete out a mother's love."

"Hast thou talked with the blest of leading on
To the throne of God some wandering son?
Hast thou witnessed the angels bright employ?
Then mayest thou speak of a mother's joy."

"There is not a grand inspiring thought,
There is not a truth by wisdom taught,
There is not a feeling pure and high,
That may not be read in a mother's eye."

"There are teachings on earth, and sky and air,

The heavens, the glory of God declare,
But more loud than the voice beneath or above,
God is heard to speak through a mother's love."

To God and the word of his grace we commend the sorrowing ones

FEED OUT YOUR HOGS SIX WEEKS EARLIER.

In every lot of hogs on feed two or three weeks quickly and actually eat less than others. If all would fatten like these, the entire drove would be ready of the market six weeks earlier and to save six weeks feed is an item that you fully understand.

The hog that fattens easily must be in prime physical condition. The B. A. Thomas Hog Powder is a conditioner for hogs. It keeps their system clean and healthy and enables them to fatten quickly without falling a prey to the usual diseases of hogs. The B. A. Thomas Hog Powder is not stock food. It's straight medicine, and we took the agency because it enables you to feed out your hogs much earlier. C. R. BRABHAM'S SONS, Bamberg, S. C.

"Sulferro-Sol had just been introduced here and I tried it and am profoundly glad I did, for I have only taken three bottles and am nearly well and feeling strong as can be and doing all my own work again."
