FROM PRINCE TO PAUPER.

Each morning at sunrise, says an El Paso correspondent, an old man with silver white hair and a snowy beard may be seen walking around the plaza taking his daily exercise with his two body guards.

He is Gen. Luis Terrazas, octogenarian exile from Mexico, who lost virtually all his great fortune to the revolution of Madero and Villa. When the Madero revolution started in 1911 "Don Luis" was known as the cattle king of Mexico. His herds numbered more than 200,000 and grazed on a thousand hills and plains of northern Mexico. His estates stretched from the Rio Grande to Chihuahua city and he could ride for twenty-four hours by train over his own acres, which then numbered more than a million.

From his offices in the State capital, Gen. Terrazas governed this vast cattle empire, conducted a bank and many other industries connected with his cattle business. He and his large family lived in luxury in the marble palace on the Alamada or at Quinta Carolina, his summer home on the plains at the border from the Terrazas ranches.

His annual export averaged 25,000 head, and the "T-Running-S" brand was as well known at the Chicago, Kansas City and Fort Worth stock yards as it was in Mexico. The Terrazas holdings were estimated to be worth $5,000,000 (gold) but were not for sale at any price.

Now Gen. Terrazas and his family live in a rented house on Golden Hill. He rides to his office in an old automobile and buys his groceries from a cash-and-carry store.

The revolutionists under Madero, Orozco and other leaders killed the Terrazas cattle for food, burned his ranch buldings and looted his stores and warehouses. Then Francisco Villa acting as commander in the north for Gen. Carranza, issued a decree confiscating all of the Terrazas holdings, including the herds, lands and personal property. Gen. Terrazas was forced to flee from Mexico before Villa's advance on Chihuahua City from Juarez. He made the long trek to the border at Ojinaga with the fleeing federal column. He never returned to Mexico.

July 22 last, Gen. Terrazas celebrated his eighty-ninth birthday anniversary, surrounded by his ten sons, seventy-five grandchildren and many more relatives. He maintains an office downtown, where he attends to his private business daily and market conditions.

It is his dream to be permitted to return to his native land with suffi-

Some Big Potatoes.

Bamberg county has always been celebrated for its sweet potatoes, and it seems that she has not lost her prestige, even if the whole world is enveloped in war. Last week The Herald received a couple of "samples" which bear out our assertion that the county still delivers the goods.

Mr. Q. H. Sandifer, who farms near the city, holds the record so far. He brought in a couple of tubers of monster proportions. One weighed six pounds and the other tipped the scales at 7 1-2 pounds. Mr. Sandifer Present Condition of Mexico's For- says he gathered 270 bushels from three-fourths of an acre. We are not farmers and don't profess to be, but to a lay mind this appears to have cotton "skinned a mile" even when it is worth thirty cents. The potatoes are of the Porto Rico va-

Mr. A. J. Hunter also brought in some fine specimens. One weighed three and a half pounds and the other weighed five and one-half pounds. These are Triumph potatoes and especially fine, smooth tubers. Mr. Hunter says he also has prospects of dred thousand Austrian soldiers and a fine crop this year, though he thinks not less than 5,000 guns had been the dry weather cut off his yield captured by the victorious Italian

Don't Sell at Present Prices.

Washington, Oct. 30.-Cotton product at the present prices, in telegrams sent out today by the Cotton States Official Advisory Marketing Board to commissioners and presidents of farmers' unions throughout the South.

"The insidious work of the price fixing propagandists," said the telegrams, "which was started more than a year ago and which was vigorously renewed when the war industries board announced that it was about to assume control of the cotton situation, is having its effect. They have tried to have the price fixed at 20 cents and failing this they are now trying to break the market to about that level. It is now a question whether the cotton farmers or the insidious interests fighting cotton will win. The farmers can win by refusing to sell at these prices."
