Parasite That Attacks Both Cedar and Apple Tree With Bad Results

It may seem strange that a parasite should attack the stems and leaves of the cedar and produce these tumor-like growths, but this is only one-half of the story," says Frank D. Kern, writing of the parasite known as "Cedar Apples," in Boys' Life. "The other half is the climax of strangeness. The parasite leads a 'double life.' In its other stage it lives on the apple tree, chiefly affecting the leaves, but sometimes the fruit. Wild crab apples and cultivated apples are both affected. The apple grower speaks of it as 'orchard rust,' and on the apple it produces an entirely different effect. From its appearance one would never suspect its relation to the 'cedar apples.' Yellowish or reddish spots first appear on the apple leaves. On the upper side of these spots small dots develop and later become blackish. On the under side of the leaves delicate feather-like projections develop. In the fall, winter and spring, the parasite lives on the cedar. It goes back and forth by means of tiny 'germs' known as spores, which are carried by the wind. This history of the parasite suggests that it would find conditions best where cedars and apples grow close together, and such is the case. On the apple this rust is a serious disease in some localities. The best method of prevention is the destruction of the cedars in the vicinity. It is not likely that the wind will carry the spore for more than a few miles. The state of West Virginia has a law regarding the destruction of cedars near apple orchards. The parasite does not spread from apple to apple nor from cedar to cedar. Some varieties of apples, resist the attacks better than others. I have seen Stayman Winesaps practically untouched when Grimes Golden in the same orchard were badly affected."

Cure Detailed.

"Got a hacking cough and a headache? Well, I've a little wood you could hack, and it might cure your headache."

"Much obliged, mum; but my headache ain't the splittin' variety."—London Opinion.

WILL PRAISE FERROLAX AS LONG AS HE LIVES.

Atlanta man says that Ferrolax has done him more good than all other medicines combined.

"If it were possible for me to sell the good FERROLAX has done me, there is not enough money in the country to buy it," said G. T. Giles who lives at 142 Orme Circle, Atlanta, Ga., the other day.

"I just can't say too much for FERROLAX," continued Mr. Giles. "for it is the only medicine that has ever tried that has done me any good at all. Before I commenced taking this wonderful medicine I felt bored and worn out all the time. What I ate didn't agree with me and I would have bad spells of indigestion very often. Just walking up a flight of steps would almost exhaust me completely. My kidneys gave me lots of trouble, too, and in fact I was in pretty bad shape in many ways.

I tried different kinds of medicine, but until I got hold of FERROLAX I just seemed to get worse instead of better all the time. Everything is very different with me now, though, for FERROLAX has completely overcome my troubles, and I just feel fine and dandy all the time. My blood is in fine condition now and my entire system has been greatly built up. Now FERROLAX did this for me and that is just why I say I can't say say enough for it."

Ferrolax is sold in this county by Copeland & Farrell, Ehrhardt, S. C.

Get a bottle at this store today. Take it according to directions and if it does not do you the good you want done come in and get your money back.

Your bare word is good enough for us. Watch for the next issue of this paper and see what Ferrolax is doing for others.

BREEZY SMILES

Seems Long.

Bacon—Now they tell us that macaroni is getting short.

Egbert—I can't believe it. Whenever I have attempted to eat it, it has always seemed about the longest thing I ever tackled.

World Going Straight.

City Dweller—I do believe the world is reforming.

Suburbanite—On what theory do you base your ideas?

City Dweller—I bought a lot in the country today that was as near to the railroad station as it was advertised and it wasn't under water.

In Course of Repetition.

"Are you sure she won't repeat what you told her in confidence?"

"Quite sure," replied Miss Cayenne, "She will repeat something which sounds a little like what I told her, but which really makes the matter sound much worse."

A Tribute.

"That was a fine argument you made."

"Then you agree with me?" said Senator Sorghum.

"Not exactly. But you certainly made me wish you were on one side of the question at issue."

An Offer.

Mr. Multirox—Dear lady, don't you sometimes feel the need of true companionship and protection?

Mrs. Hunter-Mann—Yes; oh, yes, Harold, often.

Mr. Multirox—Then perhaps you'll be willing to take care of my bulldog while I'm out of town. He's very companionable and a dandy protector.

Or Cut of Her Jib.

Mrs. Styles—I understand that there are many women sailors among the Finns and Norwegians.

Mrs. Styles—No doubt they are easily recognized by the rigging.

Royalty Formerly Married Outside Its Own Circles

Britain's kings did not always seek their mates from the narrow circles of royalty. In the days of the Plantagenets, Tudors and Stuarts alliances of English and Scotch monarchs with their subjects were not uncommon. The royal marriage act was passed in 1772 prohibiting any descendant of George II, except those who were the issue of princes or princesses married into foreign houses, from contracting marriages before the age of twenty-four without the assent of the king signified under the great seal.

Music.

Music is the only one of the fine arts in which not only man but all other animals have a common property—mice and elephants, spiders and birds—like it.

Bits of Secret Far Eastern History.

The after-dinner confidential chat of a British naval officer with a French bluejacket at a Sydney ball in 1853 cost the British empire New Caledonia. Our French friend had for many days cast longing eyes on Captain Cook's discovery of 1794. So had we. But the hint given of our intention to annex enabled our rivals to land and take possession three hours before we came to the scene. Thus we lost not only New Caledonia and the adjacent isles, but the Loyalty group and the New Hebrides; for it is an open secret that the throat of the impossible New Hebrides condominium will soon be cut and France will gather in this gem of the Pacific. It may bring balm to remember that as the French beat us on the post for New Caledonia so we beat them by a nose for Maoriland in almost exactly the same way.—Sydney Bulletin.
