

NEGRO IS SAVED FROM MOB.

Action by Sheriff Averts Threatened Lynching.

Savanah, Ga., Feb. 15.—After a threatened lynching in Claxton, Ga., early this morning when twenty-five or thirty angry men stormed the Evans county court house and shot out many window panes, Andrew Jones, an aged negro, who was saved from the mob through the efforts of Sheriff T. W. Rogers, was brought to Savannah this morning in an automobile.

The negro had been taken into the court house by the sheriff for safekeeping as there is no jail in the county. The trouble started about midnight when the men demanded that the officers release the negro into their custody. When the sheriff refused they opened fire but none of the shots took effect. J. G. Rogers, brother of the sheriff, T. L. Nevils, N. H. Hodges and H. N. Lewis assisted the sheriff in trying to disperse the crowd.

According to the story told by the sheriff, John Horton, a young man and a companion named Kemp, approached the negro on one of the principal streets of Claxton and began beating him. They accused him of turning up a party of moonshiners and knocked him down when he denied this. As a result of the row Horton received a wound in the right side. It is believed he will recover.

Later the sheriff placed the negro under arrest and took him to the court house about 10 o'clock Saturday night. Two hours later the mob attempted to force an entrance at the door. Early Sunday morning the sheriff succeeded in getting the negro into an automobile, arriving here a few hours later. The negro is being held at the county jail.

An Effective Break.

A dusky doughboy, burdened under tons of medals and miles and miles of ribbons, service and wounded chevrons, stars et al., encountered a Twenty-seventh division scrapper in Le Mans a few days prior to the division's departure for the states.

"Whar yo' all be scrappin' in dis yar war, boss?" meekly inquired the colored soldier.

"We've been fighting up in Belgium and Flanders with the British," replied the New Yorker, proudly.

"Well, we ben down in dem woods—wacha call 'em woods 'way down south?"

"The Argonne?" suggested young Knickerbocker.

"Yes, yas, dem's de woods—d' Argonne."

"You know our division was the first to break the Hindenburg line, colored boy," exclaimed the Twenty-seventh man.

"Was it you wot did dat trick? Y'know, boss, we felt dat ol' l'ne sag 'way down in d' Argonne."—The Gas Attack.

He Was On The Right Track.

Dr. J. M. Buckley, the Methodist divine, was asked one day to conduct an "experience meeting" at a colored church in the south.

A colored woman arose and bore witness to the preciousness of her religion as light-bringer and comfort-giver.

"That's good, sister," commented Dr. Buckley. "But how about the practical side. Does your religion make you strive to prepare your husband a good dinner? Does it make you look after him in every way?"

Just then Dr. Buckley felt a yank at his coat-tails by the colored preacher, who whispered ardently: "Press dem questions, doctor; press dem questions. Dat's my wife!"—Ladies' Home Journal.

Yet.

A zealous excise officer was sent to Ireland to try to locate several "moonshine" stills which were known to exist.

Meeting a native, the excise officer approached him, saying:

"I'll give you five shillings, Pat, if you can take me to a private still."

"Troth, an' I will, sir," was Pat's reply, as he pocketed the money. "Come with me."

For many weary miles over mountain, bog and moor they tramped, until they came into view of a barracks. Pointing to a soldier seated on a step inside the square, Pat said:

"There you are, sir, my brother Mike; he's been a soldier for ten years, an' he's a private still."—Vim.

They Couldn't Help It.

Two friends met in the Strand the morning after an airplane raid.

"Any damage done your way?" the first asked.

"Damage! Rather!" answered the other. "Father and mother were blown clean out of the window. The neighbors say it is the first time they've been seen to leave the house together in seventeen years."—New York Globe.

Couldn't Maybe—In a Trap!

"England really did dig deeply into its resources during the war," insists Lord Northcliffe. "I am reminded of the old woman who had come up from the country to see her daughter married in London.

"Motorbuses and taxicabs were out of the question, and she was a little nervous of having a 'growler.' She chose a man with a good-tempered face, and timidly inquired:

"There is no fear of your horse running away, is there? He's not afraid of motors, is he?"

"Bless you, no mum," said the genial cabby. "Why, he didn't even shy at railway trains when they first come in."—Los Angeles Times.

He Carried On.

Papa—Yes, there certainly seems a difference. He was all "holler" last night.—Tit Bits.

MERITONE ONLY THING TO HELP

Nervous Troubles of Seven Years Gone and She Now Sleeps Soundly.

"For seven years I suffered and I couldn't find a thing that would help me but one bottle of this new medicine, Meritone, has made me feel like a new person," said Mrs. Mary Arledge, of 908 Union Avenue, Chattanooga, Tenn.

"Nervousness was my chief trouble," Mrs. Arledge continued. "I dreaded to go to bed at night because I couldn't sleep. I just tossed and rolled about the bed all night, and, of course, when morning came, I felt so badly I could hardly get up.

"Meritone was recommended so highly that finally I started taking it.

"One bottle of Meritone has done me more good than any other medicine I ever tried, and has made me feel like a new person. The nervousness has left me entirely and I can go to bed at night now and sleep soundly until morning. The tired, worn-out feeling I used to have is all gone and I feel good all the time."

Meritone is sold exclusively in Bamberg by Mack's Drug Store.—adv.
