THOUSANDS SEE BOLD ROBBERIES

ARMED BANDITS SEIZE JEWELS IN STORES.

One Party Captured.

First Attempt, However, Results in Clean Getaway for Daring Gang.

New York, March 12.—While Broadway tonight was crowded with theatre goers, three armed bandits smashed in the window of a jewelry store at Thirty-seventh street, kept the crowds at bay with their revolvers until they had emptied the contents of several trays into their pockets and then escaped, shooting one pedestrian who attempted to stop them.

A few minutes later three men entered another Broadway jewelry store, a few blocks up town, and, after throwing pepper in a clerk's eyes, grabbed some trays of jewelry and ran from the store. The men alleged to be members of the trio, were arrested by police after a chase.

Both robberies, committed in the heart of the White Light district, were witnessed by thousands of persons. Broadway was thrown into the greatest excitement as police reserves arrived on the double quick and, working on the theory that the robberies were committed by two different bands, raced up and down side streets and scoured the subway for the four missing bandits.

In addition to the pedestrian who was shot but not seriously injured, one other member of the crowd succeeded in getting his finger on a fugitive. He was rewarded by a crack on the wrist from a revolver but which caused his arm to fall helplessly to his side.

Seeing the crowds halt and form in a semicircle around the store, Patrolman Anthony Weigen came racing to the scene. Just as he arrived and began to fight his way through the excited throng, the robbers called it a day's work, packed the last of the gems in their pockets parted company and started each for himself to carve a way through the human semicircle. Then came gun play. Sighting a man break away from the crowd and dart up Broadway, Weigen, with drawn revolver, gave chase.

The crowds took to cover as they heard the crack of a revolver, but Weigen had missed, and the robber sped on. In front of the fugitive was a subway air hole, with the cover off, and through this hole the bandit jumped to the subway tracks 15 feet below. He narrowly missed being struck by a passing train, for the roar of its progress was heard on the street above a few seconds after the robber played his last card and won.

For after reserves had assembled in full force and searched the subway from Forty-second street down and Thirty-fourth street up they found no trace of the daring bandit and were forced to admit that he had strolled to the nearest station, jumped upon the platform and escaped.

The second robbery occurred in the store of Marcus Feldman between Forty-fifth and Forty-sixth streets, where the theatre throngs are thick.

JUDGE UPHOLDS PAPER.

Says Paper Has Right to Publish Open Court Testimony.

Chicago, March 5.—The privilege of a newspaper to publish, and the public to be informed of, any testimony given in open court, whether his testimony be true or false, was upheld in a ruling made today by Judge Oscar M. Torrison, of the Circuit Court. It is the first time on record that this question of privilege has been decided specifically by an Illinois court.

Judge Torrison held not only that a newspaper is entitled to publish such testimony, but also that the guilt or innocence of any person injured by the testimony has no bearing whatever on any action for libel brought by that person against the newspaper because of its publication.

The ruling was given in the form of instructions to the jury whom had heard the evidence in a suit for libel brought by Henry J. Earnest against the Chicago Tribune.

Alert Hubby.

"I had an awful scare this morning about two o'clock," said Mrs. Rapp. "I heard a noise down-stairs and I got up and turned on the electric light in the bed room, and I saw a man's legs sticking out under the bed."

"The burglar's legs?" asked Mrs. Tapp.

"No, my husband's legs," replied Mrs. Rapp; "he had heard the noise before it woke me."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

GREEN FOUND GUILTY.

Trap Gun Case Appealed to the Supreme Court.

St. George, March 14.—The court of general sessions which convened here on Monday morning with Judge J. E. Peurifoy, presiding, adjourned Friday morning. Several minor criminal cases came up, the majority pleading guilty, and the only case of any importance was that of the state vs. J. A. Green, charged with setting a trap gun which killed Jerry Mizell, near Ridgeville in January of this year.

This case was a rather a novel one, the first of its kind to be tried in the county, and perhaps the first to be tried in the state. Green owned a old dwelling near Ridgeville, in which no one had lived for six years, and in the dwelling was stored some old furniture, and he, Green, claimed that some persons were disturbing his old furniture and he set a trap gun to kill the ones entering the place. Mizell, as brought out at the trial, was a tenant of Green and had been used to going to the house and one day went in and the gun went off killing him instantly. The jury found a verdict of guilty of manslaughter and he was sentenced to two years on chain gang. The attorneys representing Green have appealed the case to the supreme court, Green giving bond in the sum of $5,000. He was represented by M. S. Connor of the local bar and W. C. Wolfe, of Orangeburg and Solicitor Hydrick was assisted by J. A. Hiers of the local bar.

Staging the Pieces.

A leading theatrical manager tells the following story:

"There was one chap," he said, "I couldn't get rid of. He was persistent. I refused his play seven times, and he still kept turning up with it, rewritten here and there. The eighth time he came I told him firmly it was no use.

"'But sir,' he said, 'is there no possible way you could put my farce on the stage?'"

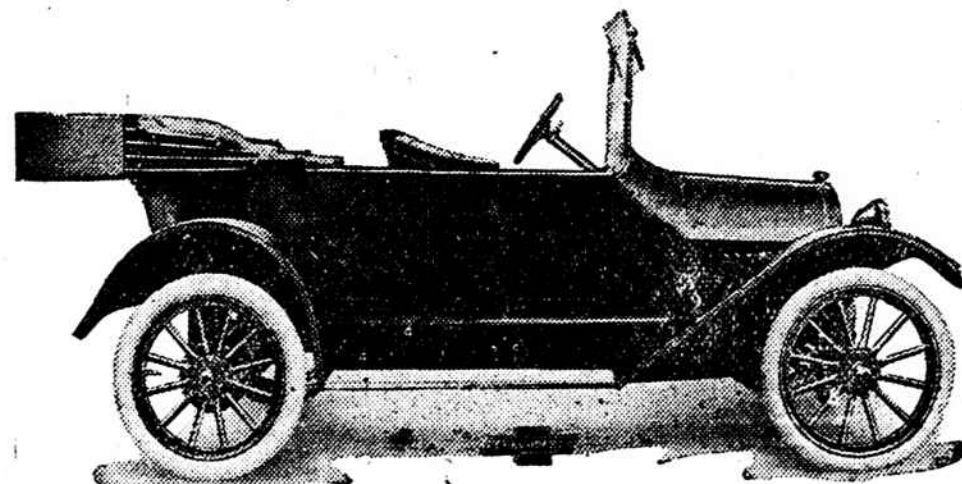

"'Well,' said I, 'there's one way, but I don't know if you'd submit—'"

"'Oh, I'd submit!' he cried. 'I'd submit to anything.'"

"'Then,' said I 'we'll grind it up and use it as a snow-storm.'"—London Tit-Bits.
