

CARLISLE SCHOOL CLOSES BEST SESSION IN HISTORY

Major Henry C. Tillman Delivers Annual Address

Monday evening in the Carlisle auditorium the final commencement exercises were held. The large hall was packed long before the exercises began. At 8:30 o'clock the marshals ushered in the graduating class with the others who took part in the programme. The audience stood while Rev. Peter Stokes offered prayer. Colonel Guilds in a few well chosen words then introduced Major Henry C. Tillman, of Greenwood, who delivered the commencement address. Major Tillman is himself a young man and his address to the graduates was inspiring. In every sentence he showed how fully he could appreciate the feelings of the three young men who were just commencing the battle of life. He asked to be considered the builder who should try to outline a few of the plans of life for the structures that were now taking shape. The fundamental of any edifice is the foundation and there are four corner or foundation stones that must be at the base of any successful life. The first of these stones is honor. This was the stone that lay at the heart of the French and American boys in their fight to overcome the selfish ambitions of the German war lords. The cornerstone of health is next in importance. The mind and soul that God has given must not be housed in an inferior temple. The figures revealed recently of the physical unfitness of our young men is appalling. Education in its broadest sense is the third basic stone of the successful life. We shudder to think that one out of every ten men who went to France could neither read nor write.

The cornerstone of service is the fourth necessary stone. Service, not of self but of others. Millions of men and women in obscure paths of life have and are living lives upon which no trace of self is to be found. The speaker cited instances of heroism that were based on this stone of service.

Major Tillman received thunderous applause when he had finished.

Colonel Guilds then presented diplomas to Harry Snyder, of Batesburg, S. C., Edward Dudley Sanders, of Hagood, S. C., and Charles Moyer, of Bamberg, S. C. These young men received many beautiful gifts during the intermission that followed the presentation of diplomas. Harry Snyder received a thoroughbred chicken which caused much amusement for the audience.

Rev. S. O. Cantey presented the scholarship medal to Jack Meadows of the junior class. This medal is presented to the student who makes the highest average on all subjects for the entire year. The winner's average was 91.1. Everett Still, also of

Annual Sermon By Rev. W. J. Snyder

The annual baccalaureate sermon was given by Rev. W. J. Snyder, commissioner for Lander college, at Trinity Methodist church Sunday morning. The cadet corps and friends were held spell bound for thirty-five minutes, so eloquent was the appeal made by Rev. Snyder.

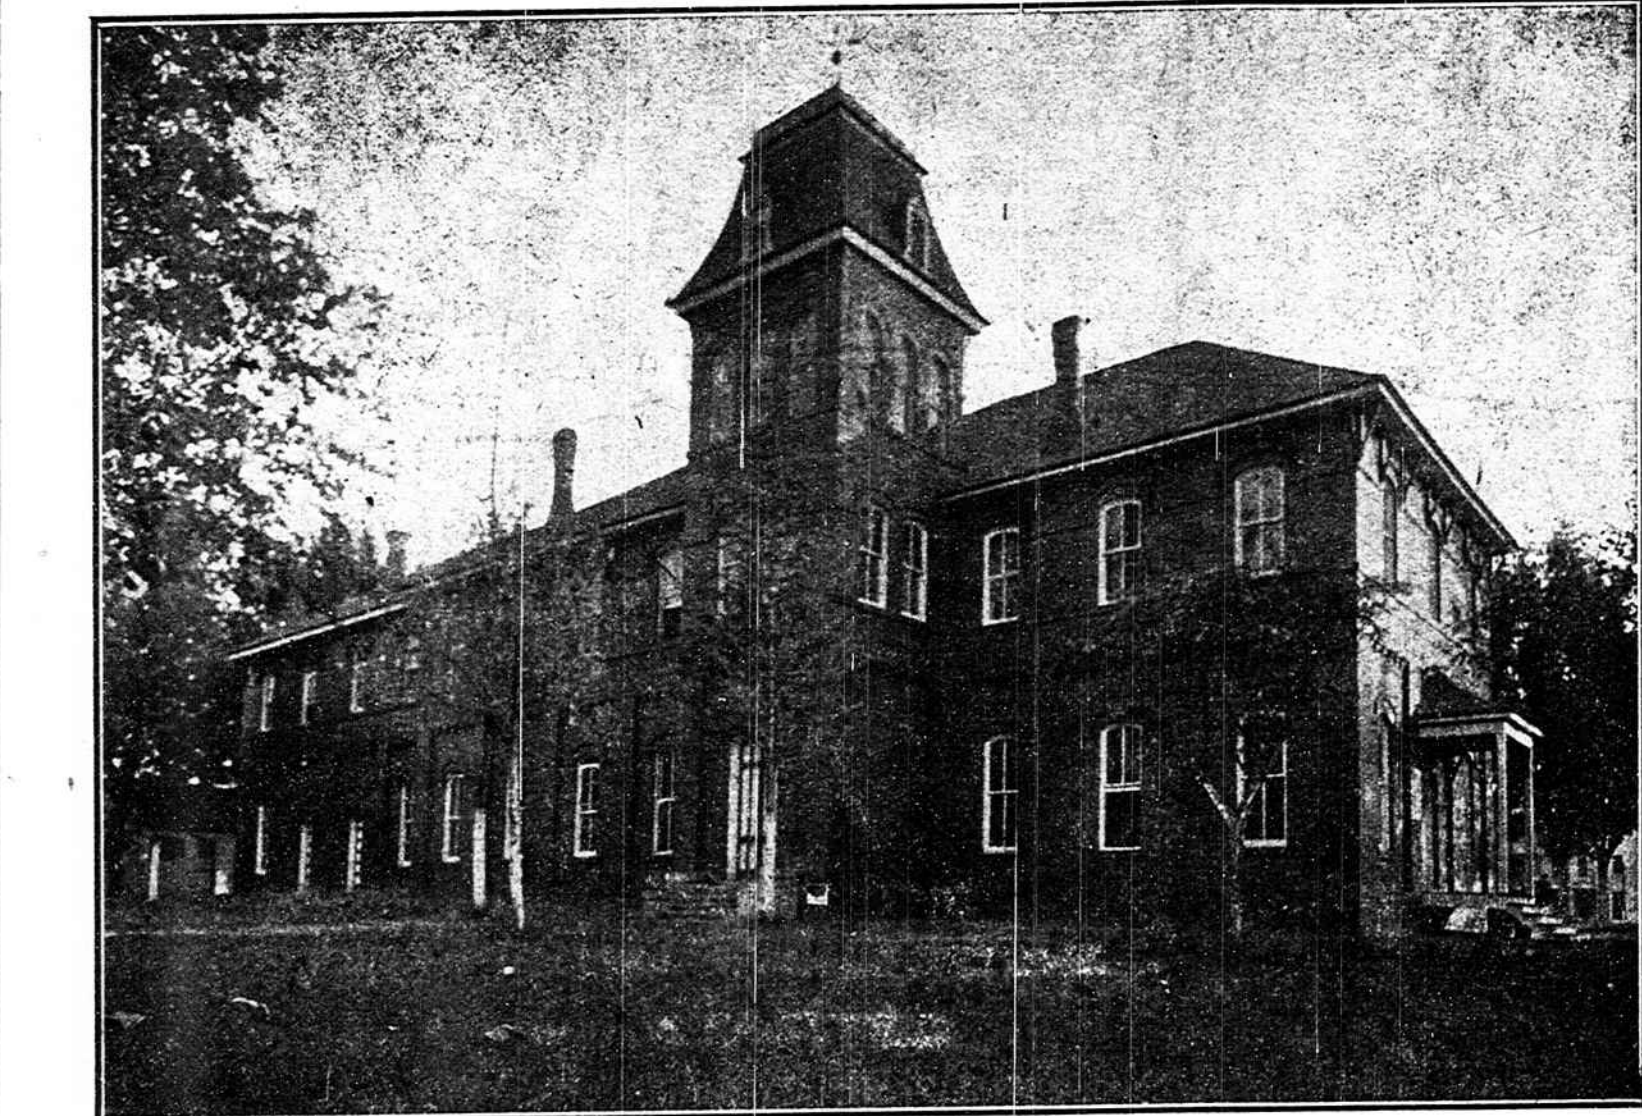

The speaker outlined the need for trained men in every walk of life. The challenge of a life of service must be accepted by the boys who are now being trained in our schools. The challenge to be Christian men was especially issued to the students of Carlisle. The Christian life, Mr. Snyder pointed out, was not an easy one. No really great challenge was ever issued with a small goal as the stake. Men of today do not stop to count the cost when a challenge is issued to their manhood. Several instances were cited to show the truth of this statement.

The appeal made by Mr. Snyder did not fall on deaf ears. More than one resolved to accept the call to Christian service.

The baccalaureate sermon was well attended, friends of the school coming many miles to be present at the second event of the commencement exercises.

Societies Debate Saturday Night

The annual commencement exercises of Carlisle School began Saturday night, May 29th, with the literary societies function. This was the debate, which has previously been a contest between the Beach and Kilgo societies. This year, however, there are three societies on the campus, the Sheridan having been organized last fall. Two debaters were selected from each society and each society was represented by one man on the affirmative and one on the negative. The query for the evening was, "Resolved, That the policy of the federal government in deporting the radicals is the only one that will produce definite and lasting results." The affirmative was upheld by Harry Snyder, of the Sheridan society; Fred Plott, of the Kilgo society, and Thomas Mimms, of the Beach society. The negative side of the question was argued by Kemeys Goethe, of the Beach society; Carlisle Patrick, of the Kilgo society, and Eugene Shealy, of the Sheridan society. Goethe gave the rebuttal for the negative while Mimms made the come back for the affirmative.

Lawrence Peebles, president of the Kilgo society, was the presiding officer, Purley Tompkins, of the Sheridan society, acted as time keeper.

While the Carlisle band played a march the marshals ushered the speakers to the rostrum.

Prayer was offered by Rev. W. J. Snyder. Peebles then made a few appropriate opening remarks and the battle of words began. Each speaker gave forceful and telling arguments for his side. Snyder for the affirmative and Shealy for the negative made especially fine appeals for their respective sides. Goethe's rebuttal for the negative produced much laughter.

Rev. S. O. Cantey, Prof. Allen and J. Carl Kears were the judges. Their decision was rendered by secret ballot, the chief marshal collecting the ballot at the close of the debate. The first ballot opened was for the negative and the next for the affirmative. The audience burst into uproarious applause when the third ballot was declared by the presiding officer to be in favor of the negative.

The school marshals who served throughout the commencement exercises were: Chief, Jack Meadows, of the Beach society; Willie Cone and Jordan Johnston, of the Beach society; Samuel Cross and Ernest Horne, of the Sheridan society; George Muckenfuss and Theo Lide, of the Kilgo society.

Only If She Could.

"Young man," said an inquisitive old lady to a conductor of an electrically driven train, "if I put my foot on that rail shall I receive an electric shock?"

"No, mum," he replied, "unless you place your other foot on the overhead wire."

Company "B" Again Wins The Annual Prize Drill

Address By Col. Guilds Sunday Even

Sunday evening, May 30th, Colonel J. Caldwell Guilds, headmaster of Carlisle school, delivered the annual baccalaureate address to the cadet corps. This, the third event of the commencement exercises, was held in Trinity Methodist church.

The annual prize drill was held Monday morning at Rhoad Park. This is always one of the main features of the commencement programme. The winning company in this drill has a beautiful sabre presented to its captain, and the flag is also carried by this company during the next scholastic year.

The medal for the best drilled cadet in the battalion is also awarded during the military part of the commencement programme. E. H. Henderson and Paul J. Zeigler were the judges. Each expressed himself as being well pleased with the fine showing made by the battalion. The following programmes were carried out:

RETURNS TO NORFOLK.

Major Griffith Inspects Malaria Work in Bamberg and in State.

Major T. H. D. Griffith, epidemiologist of the United States public health service, who has been recuperating in Columbia several days from an attack of ptomaine poisoning suffered in Bamberg, has gone to his home in Norfolk, Va. Major Griffith is the supervising director of malarial control work in several states, and came to South Carolina to inspect the work being done in this state. While in Bamberg he became ill, Capt. L. M. Fisher says, and went to Columbia to recuperate.

Major Griffith is of the opinion that Bamberg will be greatly benefited by the work being done. The malarial

J. HOUK FENDER DEAD.

A Leading Citizen of Lower Section Died Last Week at Home.

J. Houk Fender, one of the best citizens in this section of the state, died at his home on the Bamberg-Colleton county border on Monday of last week, following a long illness, aged about 62 years. The remains were interred the following day at Mt. Pleasant Lutheran church, the Rev. P. D. Risinger conducting the funeral services.

Mr. Fender was severely injured two or three years ago by the accidental discharge of a shot gun, and from this injury he had never fully recovered. While standing leaning on his gun, his hands folded over the muzzle, in some way the gun was discharged. The shot came near tearing off both hands, and for a long time he hovered between life and death, and had not recovered his health since, though this did not directly cause his death.

Mr. Fender is survived by his widow, who was the daughter of the late James Fender, and three sons and one daughter: John Wesley Fender, William Fender, James A. Fender and Miss Lola Fender.

He resided just over the line in Colleton county, his farm lying in both counties, but his residence was in Colleton. He was a substantial farmer and a solid citizen. He was a member of the Mt. Pleasant Lutheran church and a man who had hundreds of friends.

The county had two J. H. Fenders, and both are now dead, J. Hansford Fender having died some months ago. Both were fine men, and their death is a distinct loss to the citizenship of the county.

APPOINTED GAME WARDEN.

Magistrate O. J. C. Lain Resigns to Accept New Position.

Magistrate O. J. C. Lain, of Olar, forwarded his resignation to Governor Cooper Saturday, to take effect immediately. Mr. Lain had a few days previously received an appointment as game warden, succeeding J. Crum Smoak, who resigned recently. Mr. Lain will be game warden for the county, or rather his special attention will be given to game affairs in Bamberg county, but his field of activity will not be confined entirely to this county.

Mr. Smoak was appointed game warden in this county by Governor Manning several years ago. Mr. Lain has been magistrate at Olar for several terms, and in this capacity has made a good officer, and it is predicted that he will more than make good in his new position. The position to which he has been appointed carries with it a salary of $1,800.

Given Out.

"Information given out here?" asked an excited traveler as he rushed up to the Bureau of Inquiries.

The tired attendant looked at the traveler and replied: "It has."

BAMBERG AND DENMARK TIE.

Exciting Exhibition Game Played in Denmark Monday.

The Bamberg and Denmark teams of the Tri-County league played an exhibition game of ball at Denmark last Wednesday afternoon, the game not to count in the official standing of the clubs. The game went ten innings, the final score being a tie, 5 to 5. There was some excellent fielding and the game was interesting throughout. Warren, pitching for Bamberg, was fortunate to receive sensational support from his teammates. Aside from pitching Bamberg outplayed the home team. The only weakness of Cox for Denmark was his wildness. With the exception of this he appears to have the goods, and as a home boy is probably the best all round pitcher in the league. The feature of the game was a clean home run by Gibson for Denmark in the fifth inning with the bases full tying the score. Denmark again tied the score in the seventh inning with another long home run by Bruner. Gibson also saved the game for Denmark by a fine catch in left field off the bat of Large, and Baxter at second made a beautiful catch of a line drive by "Gyp" Rentz robbing him of a hit and doubling a runner off first.

Charlie Rentz did his usual hitting with a double and a single, while James Sanders, of Carlisle, pinch hitting for George Price, covered himself with glory by singling cleanly and later getting another hit in two more times up. He played a magnificent game at first base. But the most sensational fielding ever seen in this part of the state was furnished by "Gyp" Rentz, third baseman a la carte and pinch hitter extraordinary. He got them going and coming on all sides, and it does seem that other ball players would learn something in time and quit hitting them in the neighborhood of the best third baseman in the southern states. This lad is 19 years old, and if he cares to, bids fair to make every third baseman in the world sit up and take notice before many more seasons. In addition to playing a most remarkably wonderful fielding game, which he has a regular habit of doing, he stung the old apple for a clean three-bagger in the first inning with two runners on. This writer has seen every team in the big leagues play, every team in the Southern, every team in the South Atlantic, some in the International, and many other minor league teams play, and without any bias or partiality "Gyp's" playing at third is not surpassed by any third baseman ever seen on a southern diamond.

It is to be regretted that the Bamberg boys kicked unduly in the Denmark game. Even if an umpire's decisions are wrong kicking never does any good, never causes him to change them, and always loses favor and popularity for the team displaying it. Two wrongs can't create a right, and good sportsmanship does not permit of general kicking throughout a ball game regardless of who the umpire is nor the accuracy of his decisions, which must be made in accordance with his own discretion and view of the play, and not somebody else's.

Batteries: For Bamberg, Warren and Large; for Denmark, Cox and Stewart.
