

CARLOS RECTOR.

Greenville Sheriff Said to Have Shot Apples Off Brother's Head.

Fiery of face, lean of waist, and rawboned, Carlos A. Rector, reformed moonshiner, who has been elected sheriff of Greenville county, to take office in January, used to shoot apples off the top of his brother's head to entertain his barefoot friends when they would call upon him at his parents' home way back in the heart of the Blue Ridge mountains.

Both Hendrix and Carlos Rector together with their brother Jeff, who followed General Pershing into Mexico and France and was decorated for bravery, were born and "raised" in a little log cabin in what is known as "Dark Corner," because for years and years it was a lair of moonshiners and still is.

Carlos A. Rector, 36 years of age, said that it was his earnest ambition some day to be elected to a seat in congress.

Women Smoke Pipes.

London, Nov. 6.—Pipe smoking seems to be on the increase among London women, and fashionable cigar stores display dainty small briars, some set with precious stones.

At one West London theatre, where smoking is permitted, two smartly dressed women were seen the other evening in a box puffing at their jeweled pipes, and soon an old Irish woman in the gallery followed sunher's was a clay "scuttie."

In a first-class railroad car between Horsham and London a quarrel arose the other day between a number of non-smoking women and another because she would not put out her cigarette at her sister traveler's behest.

"Two guineas costs will meet the case," said the magistrate.

Q. T. Stuff.

He had just returned from France. He hurried to see his girl, who certainly had not faded away during his absence.

She was glad to see him. She sat in his lap for half an hour telling him sweet nothing. "Why are you whispering so low, dear?" she asked playfully.

400 CHAPTERS ARE READY FOR 4TH ROLL CALL

Rivalry Keen Among Southern Towns To Get Quota Of Red Cross Members First.

Atlanta, Ga. Nov.—More than four hundred chapters of the American Red Cross and about three hundred chapter branches are organized in the southern division for the Fourth Red Cross Roll Call, November 11-25.

"By organization is meant that these chapters and branches have chairmen, committees and the enthusiasm to make the Fourth Roll Call a sure success in their communities," said J. L. McMillin, southern division manager of the Red Cross, today.

"We have reports from every one of them that they are only awaiting the date to begin the campaign. First the workers themselves will renew their memberships in the Red Cross. Then every old member will be called upon to re-enlist under the Red Cross banner.

The southern division includes the five states of Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Florida. Last year the division, for its population, made as fine a record as any part of the country in enrolling Red Cross members.

A friendly but keen rivalry exists among the various chapters to be the first to report that their quotas are secured. A different system has been used this year in assigning quotas to the various chapters.

Thus, the Roll Call this year is more than ever a local proposition in each community. When local people subscribe to the Red Cross, they are subscribing to meet local needs, and for every dollar paid for membership in the Red Cross, fifty cents will be kept by the local chapter to finance its plans for next year.

"We challenge every other chapter in the southern division to beat our Roll Call record," wrote one Roll Call chairman in North Carolina. "We intend to be the first 'over the top', for we are laying our plans to get our full quota of members early in the morning of November 11."

This spirit is typical of the way the vast majority of chapters are awaiting the Fourth Roll Call. It is a rare exception where chapters are not thoroughly organized and plans worked out to secure the quota of members easily and quickly.

Hundreds of newspapers throughout the southern division will co-operate with the local Red Cross chapters to make the Roll Call a success. Speaking of the view with which most Americans regard the Fourth Roll Call, one Atlanta paper already has called upon Atlantans to join the Red Cross in the following editorial language:

"The Red Cross Roll Calls are not 'drives', not attempts to raise large sums of money for untried causes, but they are institutions in the nation's life, the one time of the year when the American people, old and young, are asked to renew their memberships in the organization that is so expressive of the national spirit and so great a benefit to the nation as a whole.

"The American Red Cross is different in this respect from the Red Cross of other nations, in most of which it is maintained by large contributions from the wealthy. The American Red Cross is essentially democratic. It was founded by the American people. They maintained it for nearly forty years. In the war, thousands of them found it the opportunity to serve their country ardently sought.

"So, today, the Red Cross belongs to the American people. It gives them the chance they all want in their lives to do some good in the world. Spend their dollars for memberships in the organization that is so expressive of the national spirit and so great a benefit to the nation as a whole.

"That is what Red Cross membership dollars can do. It would seem that no American citizen, with the good of his country and his own community at heart, would refuse to join.
