DO YOU RECOGNIZE IT?

Truth About Harding's Telephone Communication With Cuba.

(Being stenographic record of all that transpired over, on and adjacent to the wires involved in the epoch making ceremony.)

President Harding—Hello! Is this central? Well, central, get me Cuba, please.

Central—Numbah, please! (snap-snap-pr-r-r-r click-click buzz-z-z-z).

President Harding—There's only one number there.

Central—(Click-click buzz-z-z-z) The potty what called you has hung up.

President Harding (Nettled a bit.)—No party called me, central. . . . Listen, I want to get connected with Cuba.

Central—So do a lot of people. Whatcher doin', taking case-lot orders?

President—Such impertinence! This is the president of the United States talking and—

Central—That's what they all say. Numbah, please (click-click buzz-z-z-z).

President—Kindly cut the comedy. It has been arranged that the first telephone communication with Cuba be opened today. I understand everything had been arranged for me to say a few words with the president of Cuba.

Central—Numbah, please?

President—Darn it, central there is no—

Central—I'll givyer infermashun. (Snap-snap—click-click buzz-z-z-z gr-r-r-r-snip-snip.)

Information—Numbah, please?

President Harding—My dear young woman, I'm trying to get connected with President Menocol of Cuba.

Information—President Whoacall? President—Menocal! Menocal! What's his initials?

President—I forget them—but he's quite well known in Cuba.

Information—Is it a new telephone?

President—Very new. Just opened today. Now if you'll listen a minute I'll explain. America has been linked with Cuba by telephone for the first time, and as a ceremony befitting the event I am to say a few words over the phone with the president of Cuba. I supposed all the connections had been arranged beforehand. Now, if you will—

Tenor Voice—Is Mabel in?

President—What?

Voice—Will you ask Mabel to step to the 'phone. This is Algy talking.

President—Mabel Who? What's the idea

Voice—Isn't this J. B. Smith's house?

President—Certainly not. Please get off the wire.

Central—Pardon me. Wires crossed or sumpin. Justa minit. Numbah please?

(There's a confusion of sounds upon the wire, including a deafening clap which nearly burns the president's ear off.)

Central—Here's yer potty.

President—Hello, is this Cuba? I wish to talk with the capitol.

Voice—Capitol talkin' . . . Yeah . . . Go ahead!

President (Reading from his written message.)—I wish the government and the people of Cuba to know how gratifying it is to participate with you in this—

Voice on wire (Interrupting)—I know, Lil, but if he said he'd meetcher there he will.

President— . . . participate with you in this ceremony, which signifies so much in the establishment of more intimate and understanding relations.

Voice—Naw, he just took me to the movies.

President— . . . between Cuba and the United States. This time is especially auspicious—

Voice—I'm not suspicious, Lil, not at all. Why do you say that?

Voice—I didn't say anything about being suspicious.

Voice—Didn't yer? I thought I heard somebody say it. D'you hear somebody else on the wire? Mebbe it's that fresh bird across the street who's always buttin' in. Some people has more noive!

President—"auspicious for the exchange of assurances that our two republics are bound together by indissoluble ties of sympathy. . . .

Babble of Male Voices—Hail! Hail! The Gang's All Here! . . . Set 'em up again!

President (startled)—Am I talking with the capitol?

Rough Voice—Sure, but I don't seem to be able to get your order. I caught sumpin' you said about a table for five but . . .

President—Is President Menocal there?

Voice—Naw, he never comes here.

President—Isn't this the capitol building?

Voice—Soitainly not! This is the Capitol Saloon and Hotel at Havana. You got the wrong number.—H. I. Philips in Columbia State.

RECEIPTS REACH $525,000.

People Buy Tickets Generously for Championship Bout.

The Dempsey-Carpentier fight for world's championship already has broken all box office records. With the date of the bout five weeks distant, Promoter Tex Rickard today announced that the receipts had reached $525,000. Thousands of seats yet remain available. Receipts of the Dempsey-Willard battle constituted the previous record of $564,525, nearly twice as much as the high mark which had been established by the Johnson-Jeffries battle when Rickard gathered $270,755.

All seats except the $5 general admission pasteboards have been on sale here for the past two weeks. General admission tickets will be sold on the day of the bout only. It is impossible to predict what the attendance will be and what the receipts will total, because it is planned to extend the size of the arena within reasonable limits to satisfy the demands. Interest in the coming bout is far greater than in any other contest he has promoted, Rickard declared.

ARTIFICIAL LASHES COME.

Women Who Haven't Got 'Em May Now Buy 'Em.

Ladies' eyelashes have become salable articles. The dressing table in milady's boudoir may now be adorned, in addition to numerous other things, that admirers assume to be natural, with artificial lashes that paste right on over the regular ones.

This innovation in feminine attractions was on display in New York recently at the American Ladies' Hair Dressing association exhibit.

Other nature savers included a half-bobbed wig to cover old fashioned long hair, thus relieving the necessity of cutting it. A parable in moving picture form was shown, demonstrating how a wife, who had lost her husband's affection, regained it by rejuvenating her rose petal cheeks.

ON THE floor of the dark touring car he found the dagger—"a long, thin-bladed dagger"—an ornament rather than a weapon—with an odd, fanciful hilt. There were stains upon the polished steel. And into his mind came the thought of the girl with the silver dagger in her hat. It was Phillip Severn who found the folded slip of paper in the false bottom of the lacquered jewel box, and that was the beginning of everything.

Here is a serial in Mr. Parrish's best style, adventure treading on the heels of adventure through a thrilling maze of mystery to an entirely satisfactory conclusion.
