The state fair is being held this week; the Andrews fair was held week before last; the Orangeburg fair will be held next week, and the Walterboro fair will be held the week following. The Bamberg fair, as usual, will not be held this year.

The predicted railroad strike will probably not occur, certainly not on as extensive scale as first threatened. The differences will be merely patched up; they will not be adjusted. The condition will remain the same, and steps will be taken at once by the railroad employees to stage another strike. The thing will have to occur some time, and many people will look on the patching up of the thing as unfortunate. While there are so many unemployed people throughout the country is about the best time to stage a strike, and inasmuch as it is bound to happen, it might as well happen now when everybody is just about tuned up for it to occur.

The Aiken agricultural society has taken steps to secure an expert in meat curing to coach the pork producers of that county in the gentle art of curing bacon. If the Aiken people really want their meat cured by the finest known method, they ought to send to Bamberg county and get a real artist in this line. Than Bamberg cured meat there is none finer in the world. The Chicago packers could take lessons a long time from our farmers and still not learn all about curing meat. Any member of the Bishop family, of Ehrhardt, or the Rhoad fraternity, of Hunter's Chapel, or any one of a score of other families in this county, could tell Aiken farmers more about curing meat in an hour than any "foreigner" could in a week.

The railroads, while holding a mighty grip on the country, are not so powerful as they once were. This was strikingly illustrated the other day when a musical comedy company, now playing in the south, announced that it would give its scheduled performance in Charleston regardless of the threatened strike. The company carries a personnel of over one hundred persons, and has arranged, it is stated, for fifty trucks and as many automobiles to transfer the players and the property from Columbia to Charleston. When the railroads increased passenger and freight fares almost double normal rates, they lost a great share of business they will never regain. In normal times a person preferred to go on the train to Columbia from Bamberg rather than drive through the country. Now, when a party desires to spend the day in Columbia, Augusta or Charleston, they go in a car more often than on the train. During the present week, there will be scores of persons from this section to visit the state fair. It would be a safe guess to predict that most of them will go in automobiles. They can make the trip thus for less than half the cost of railroad fare, and they may leave Bamberg when the train leaves and get in Columbia by comfortable travel before the train arrives there. With the building of good roads, the automobile travel has been increased, and it is not at all likely the roads will ever regain this lost business.

A LITTLE KNOWLEDGE.

Young Paris Reporter Makes Amusing Blunder.

Sir Ernest Cassel, the English financier, who recently died in London, was once the victim during a trip to Paris, of an amusing blunder on the part of a young reporter of the staff of an English newspaper published in that city.

The young reporter, possessing that amount of knowledge of French which is considered dangerous, felt that the announcement of the arrival in the French capital of so important a person as Sir Ernest needed something to distinguish it from the arrival of ordinary mortals registering at the hotels.

With the fine sounding phrase "captains of industry," in his mind, the young man wrote, "Sir Ernest Cassel, the well known chevalier d'industrie, has arrived in Paris and is staying at the hotel . . ." This characterization, though composed of words ordinarily ascribing honor or knighthood, when combined takes an ironical meaning denoting a swindler or sharper.

Sir Ernest treated that description of himself as a great joke but the young reporter was nicknamed by his colleagues "the Chevalier," a name which sticks to him yet.

CARLISLE DEFEATS A. R. C.

Local Boys Repeats Performance of Last Thanksgiving.

Richmond Academy, of Augusta who on last Thanksgiving day chartered a special train to come to Bamberg to see their foot ball team trim Carlisle, but who were so badly disappointed, as Carlisle trimmed them on that occasion by a score of 26 to 6, again went down in defeat before Carlisle on their own field last Saturday by a score of 34 to 25. According to the Augusta Chronicle the Academy boys have been waiting for a year to get a revenge for their first defeat, as last year upon their visit to Bamberg they had won eleven straight games and was counting on an easy victory here, but, as stated above, were badly disappointed.

The game last Saturday was a hard fought, bitterly contested affair, with both teams appearing to possess a good offense with little defense. In only a few cases was either team held for downs; possession of the ball meant a touchdown unless it was lost by a fumble or by an intercepted forward pass.

The star of the game for Richmond Academy was Sherlock, who played right half. He is well known in Bamberg, having played base ball here during the past summer with the Williston team. The stars for Carlisle were Large, Cantey, Smith and White, and the whole line of Carlisle on offense was good; it opened up holes through which the backs had little difficulty in gaining.

Breaking it Gently.

A New York silk merchant went to the bank to get his note renewed.

"I am sorry," said the banker, "but it will be absolutely impossible for me to renew your note."

The silk merchant's face paled. After a moment of thought he looked up at the banker and asked:

"Were you ever in the silk business?"

"Why, of course not," answered the banker.

"Well, you're in it now," said the silk merchant as he picked up his hat and went out.—Cincinnati Enquirer.
