Harsh Sentence.

Abc Cory brought the following story over from New York the other day:
 A negro charged with stealing a watch had been arraigned before the court. The judge was not convinced that he was guilty and said:
 "You are acquitted Sam."
 "Acquitted," repeated Sam doubtfully. "What do you mean, judge?"
 "That's the sentence; you are acquitted."
 Still looking somewhat confused, Sam said: "Judge, does dat mean I have to give the watch back?"

LADIES ARE WORRIED.

Consternation in Harem as Sultan Takes to Flight.

The sultan's wives and ladies of the harem are overwhelmed with grief and dismay over the flight of the sultan, relates a dispatch from Constantinople, Turkey. They did not know he was going.
 The sultan's youngest wife, whom he married only nine weeks ago, and who is the 22-year-old daughter of his gardener became hysterical when the sultan's flight was confirmed and the seven faithful eunuchs who acted as personal bodyguard to the Moslem ruler for the last five years, gave themselves up to despair, fearing that the sultan had been kidnapped by the Kemalites. The other eunuchs and the ladies of the palace, numbering 300, wept bitterly and soon the whole palace was in a state of commotion.
 The sultan's departure was not known to his household until 9 o'clock the next morning when his aide decamp entered his sleeping chamber. When he gave the news that the sultan was missing from the palace, a search from top to bottom was made for the monarch.

Verboten!

Beware the Jaberwock, my son! The jaws that bite, the claws that catch!

Beware the Jubjub bird, and shun The frumious Bandersnatch!"

Beware also—in Charleston—the Country Sausage, hot and sizzling in the pan! Beware the toothsome Liver-Pudding, the home-cured Country Ham, however sweet and tender, the Pork Chops and Spare Ribs which Uncle Henry sends down from the plantation as a little Thanksgiving surprise! And shun, o ye trenchermen, that smoking Venison! Wot ye not that to touch but a mouthful of that savoury meat is sternly forbidden by the Rulers of Our City? Eat it at your peril!

To all these erstwhile goodly viands we in Charleston must say goodbye. So at least the edict has gone forth. There was a time when the arrival of a box from the county was an event in almost any family. We had not then been advised of how necessary it is that we should be guarded against Home-Cured Ham and Plantation Spareribs. It had never occurred to us then that eating Home-Cured Ham might be so full of hazard. It might not of itself occur to most of us now for that matter but the decree has none the less been published and declared. Read ye not yesterday the letter from the Chief of the Food Inspectors castigating this newspaper and its editor for having wickedly and criminally allowed an appreciative advertiser to send us a mess of Sausage? At least he says it was wicked and criminal and he cites an Ordinance in such cases made and provided to prove it.
 Thus is notice served on the inhabitants of the city as to the loving zeal with which their tummies are to be guarded, even against their own depraved appetites. They are to be saved from the perils of the Country Sausage whether they will or no and if necessary to save them they will be laid by the heels and thrust into jail. Thus also is notice served afresh upon the people of the countryside as to the risks they may run when they try to show some one here a courtesy. They had best make sure first that they are not laying themselves liable to some Ordinance and getting themselves into a pickle.

There is one class of our own citizens, if we may call them that, which should take this warning especially to heart. The reference, of course, is to the huntsmen of the city. Let them hereafter when they go on the chase leave their guns at home. If they hanker for Venison and are minded to kill a buck let them run him down, rope him fast and bring him to the city abattoir to be killed. If they eat the Venison else, or even give it away, they are in danger of being branded as lawbreakers and the doors of the Sugarhouse may yawn to receive them.

Selah!

Seriously, if there is a newspaper anywhere which in season and out of season has tried to stand for law, surely that newspaper is The News and Courier. But must the law be an ass? There may be—there is—need in Charleston for some kind of meat protection ordinance. But can the ordinance which Dr. Bold is exploiting result as it stands in anything except making law ridiculous? —News and Courier.
