COURT DISMISSES GAPPINS' APPEAL

The supreme court yesterday dismissed the appeal of Jesse Gappins, one of the Brazell murder trio, following the motion in the morning by Solicitor Callison in open court for a dismissal. The court dismissed the appeal for lack of merit, and in the course of the hearing Chief Justice Gary heavily scored lawyers for what he termed as apparent trifling with the courts.

Under Rule 30 the court can dismiss appeals where no merit exists and it was under this rule that Solicitor Callison made his motion in the morning. The order dismissing the appeal says that everything that an officer should do is presumed to have been done unless proved otherwise. This was in regard to the plea of Gappins for a new trial on the ground that the grand jury which indicted him was not sworn so far as the minutes of the court showed.

A motion to quash the indictment would have been in order in these grounds, the court says, but no grounds for an appeal are contained in such a plea. In dismissing the appeal the court orders the appellant sent to the clerk of court at Lexington in order that a new day may be set for the carrying out of the death sentence of the lower court.

The appeals of S. J. Kirby and C. O. Fox, the other members of the Brazell murder trio, have never been completed and it is understood that Solicitor Callison will move for a dismissal of these alleged appeals before the May term of the court at general session of court at Lexington.

During the hearing on the motion of Solicitor Callison, Chief Justice Gary strongly scored attorneys for apparent trifling with the courts and declared that if the process of law becomes trifled with the lawyers will be brought before the bar of the court and disbarred from practice.

Chief Justice Gary spoke of the number of murders, thefts and other crimes over the state and reiterated his statement of some days ago that the court would fix the maximum limit for bail on criminals.

The chief justice made it plain that the court is becoming impatient with so many apparent triflings with the law.

The right to maintain its dignity if we have to disbar the lawyers from practice," Chief Justice Gary declared, Chief Justice Gary said Rule 30, the rule whereby appeals of no apparent merit can be dismissed, had been adopted by the court in an effort to bring about justice. He added that the court thought the attorneys would appreciate this rule and not try to evade the ends of justice. The chief justice said he was not referring to any particular case.

Associate Justice Watts then spoke of the appeal of C. O. Fox, another one of the Brazell murder trio, and declared if this was not trifling with the courts he did not know what was.

Solicitor Callison presented the motion to dismiss the Gappins appeal, claiming that the appeal was without merit. He said he was anxious for the court to decide the case prior to the middle of May when the next term of general sessions court begins in Lexington. Mr. Callison pointed out that the appeal is based solely on the grounds that the minutes of the court do not show that the grand jury was sworn, it being claimed that this made the trial of Gappins illegal.

Mr. Callison said the grand jury had been sworn, and that the matter of the minutes not showing this was the smallest irregularity possible. Mr. Callison said the appeal should be dismissed, in his opinion.

T. C. Sturkie, attorney for Gappins, resisted the motion, declaring that the appeal was made in good faith. He declared the matter of swearing the grand jury was vital. At this point Justice Watts declared that he thought the court would be stultifying itself if it said that the circuit judge had held an entire term of court without swearing the grand jury, one of the first things he is concerned with in opening the court.

Little Girl Hurt

Mannie, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Edwards, was run over by a car driven by Mr. W. T. Powell's son. From what we can gather the little girl stepped out just in front of the car from behind another car that was standing near B. L. Fowler's store, where the accident happened. The little girl was considerably bruised but it is hoped that she is not otherwise injured. Both wheels of the car ran over her.

NEW BREAK IN LEVEE FEARED

New Orleans, May 2.—Disquieting reports from flooded areas of the Atchafalaya river basin, especially from St. Martin in southern Louisiana, were received by Red Cross officials here today. A committee was dispatched at once to investigate conditions there.

The Atchafalaya river flood, which already covers large areas of rich farming land, threatening to break through the levees at a number of places, especially at Meville, is being augmented by flood waters coming from the Ferriday, La., crevasse. What will develop when this added volume of water reaches the lower river basin, where unconfirmed reports today placed the number of homeless at 6,000, is only a matter of conjecture.

The food situation at the Louisiana refugee camps, which had become critical through the practical depletion of all food supplies, was relieved today with the arrival at Rhinehart, La., of provisions sufficient to provide for 6,000 persons for ten days.

In addition two car loads of foods were today dispatched from Alexandria, La., to Lasalle parish, where several hundred refugees were reported in need.

Torrential rains which have been falling intermittently in the lower reaches of the river for the last 24 hours have handicapped the more than 20,000 workers on the levees. The rains have weakened a number of places, reports said, necessitating closer inspection to prevent dangerous developments. The Red Cross state flood relief commission, national guard, American Legion and civilian relief organizations were today continuing their efforts to rescue families marooned in their flooded homes, in both Mississippi and Louisiana.

In many cases those marooned preferred to stay in their homes, and did so, despite the pleadings of their would-be rescuers. With the depletion of the scanty stores these people have on hand, the rescue workers will face another task in providing them with food and clothing.

Because the Poydras crevasse, 12 miles below New Orleans, is serving as a spillway, speeding the exit of waters in the lower river, New Orleans will probably not have a return of the river to the level that existed prior to the crevasse, 22.7 feet, according to an announcement by Dr. I. M. Cline, water bureau forecaster, late today. Dr. Cline had previously forecast a stage of 23.1 feet here, "if the levees held."

SEVERE FIGHTING TAKES PLACE AT POINT ALONG HUN HO RIVER

Mad Dog Killed

On Monday evening while Mrs. R. T. Mehan was preparing her evening meal her little baby was sitting on a blanket in the stove room and the dog was lying on the blanket beside the baby as was usually the case. When all at once the dog began to have fits and run all over the room. Mrs. Mehan took her baby and ran in another room and closed all the doors and cried for help. In the meantime the dog went out of a window and ran around the house howling and staggering and jumping back into the house through the window and trying to get into the room where Mrs. Mehan was. Frank Bobo and Tommy Briggs came to her aid and Mr. Bobo decided not to kill the dog as by this time the dog began to show normal condition. Then by a heroic act Master Tommy Briggs caught the dog by the neck and tied him with a rope. By this time Mr. Mehan and Mr. George Royster arrived on the scene and Mr. Royster killed the dog, as it was too much risk to wait to see if the dog was really mad.

If all could have witnessed this scene they would surely be careful with their dogs around children.

Children's Day Services

Children's day service at Green Street was a success Sunday night. The program was as follows: "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name"—Harry Gallman, Rebecca Oglesby, Hazel Stroud.

"Give of Your Best to the Master"—James Miller, Ezell Willard, Lillian Fowler, Mabel Prince, Mary Stroud, Margaret Miller, Clarabell Pool, Louise Parker, Ethel Surratt, Miriam Oglesby, Doro Thompson.

"O Master Workman of the Race"—Ray Lawson.

"Soldiers of the Cross"—eight boys. Recitation—Mary Letha Shipman.

Recitation—Billy Jenkins, Frost Osford.

"Holy Bible, Book Divine"—Mary Emma Lybrand, Elizabeth Sprouse, Louise Willard, Wilsey Mae Stroud.

Recitation—Nancy Ward.

Closing song, "O, for a Thousand Tongues to Sing."

During the hour the service was turned over to the children. It seems that the church and everybody in it belongs to them. Green Street has a live set of youngsters and that the foundation of the church. If the older people will only turn out to hear and see them they will realize they have themselves been sleeping and dreaming of the church, rocking to and fro from the foundation on which it was built.

Some years ago there was a man who drank; his wife was waiting for him, although she expected him to be drunk. She was anxious about him. She wanted him under her care because she loved him. At last he came and she met him at the door as usual. He staggered in, turning he said and from head to foot and said, "Wife, how come you to get drunk?" He put his arms about her neck and said, "I would not have thought you would get drunk." Just so with us grown-up; we sometimes think the church is going down and we put our arms about her in the form of our little children to hold her up and we, as drunk men, can't see that the church is standing on the same solid foundation and it is we who are staggering in and can't see ourselves as others see us. Novel Way of Catching Fish

Londong, May 2.—A novel way of catching fish by Arabs was described by Lieutenant-Commander A. S. Sillwell-Sutton in describing the work of the British gun-boats on the river Tigris above Bagdad.

The natives there, he said, laid a groundbait of lumps of dough containing a small quantity of opium. The fish swallowed that and, becoming stupefied, floated about with their white bellies uppermost. Arabs went in pursuit of them on blown-out sheepskins which they maneuvered with their feet whilst the hands were free to hold the landing net.

Peking, May 3.—The advances of the American military attaches to State General Wu's main army appears to have engaged in a drive towards Tientsin. Severe fighting has occurred along the Hun river. The Fengtien army under General Chang Tsao-Lin has temporarily withstood the drive on Changsintien, and stopped General Wu's movement toward Peking. The cost, however, is heavy, Changsintien is being filled with wounded and many dying.

Peking, May 2 (By the Associated Press).—Heavy cannonading was in progress today at various points along the front extending from Machang, south of Tientsin, across the vicinity of Peking. Severe fighting occurred at a point along the Hun Ho river, 30 miles south of this city, where 40,000 troops of Gen. Wu Pei Fu, the central Chinese leader, endeavored to force a crossing in order to gain control of the Peking-Tientsin railroad.

Gen. Chang Tsao-lin, governor of Manchuria and head of the opposing forces, from his headquarters near Tientsin, ordered trains to convey the main body of his 100,000 soldiers to the front south of the great wall. Two Manchurian airplanes flew over Tientsin and proceeded westward. Later airplanes dropped bombs near the station of Hwangtsun, only a short distance from here.

Advices received by military attaches here said Wu Peo Fu was sending troops northward at the greatest possible speed.

Fifty thousand of his troops, concentrated at Pootingfu, are being reinforced from the Yangtze provinces. Twenty thousand others, recruited from Shanghai, are marching against Chang Tsao-lin's southeastern stronghold at Machang.

Two thousand dead and wounded were found on the field after the battle at Changsintien, outside of Peking. The booming of cannon was heard in Peking all last night, but the cannonading ceased this morning. Despite the continuation of trench warfare many foreigners, including legation guards, went outside the city to view the hostilities.

Corporal Mason, an American marine from Colorado, was shot in the arm but not seriously wounded.

French employees at the locomotive works at Changsintien narrowly escaped when a bomb, dropped from an airplane, destroyed the works.

Gen. Wu Peo Fu is continuing to move troops west of Peking in an endeavor to enclose General Chang's northwestern wing. This precipitated fighting which lasted all night at Fengtai, ten miles from Peking.

Read Admiral Joseph Strauss, commander of the United States Asiatic fleet, was due to arrive in Peking tonight to confer with Jacob Gould Schurman, the American minister, regarding measures for the protection of foreigners. Peking is considered thoroughly protected, since the city's gates are closed at night and the streets are patrolled by Chinese troops.

Of Interest to Baptist

During the first days of last week Dr. T. M. Bailey, the beloved, was a very sick man, and for a while it seemed that his time of departure had come. But as the week drew to its close he rallied remarkably; and at the time that this note is being written we hope to have him with us for further service and sunshine. At times during his serious illness he would not know those about him and could not understand the things told him. But in these periods he was teaching his Sunday school class and quoting Scripture; and if any one misquoted a passage he could correct them instantly. Blessings on Dr. Bailey. He is in his 92nd year and gave his best years of work to South Carolina.—Baptist Courier.
