Liberian Women Hold High Posts

MONROVIA, LIBERIA — (ANP) — Liberia is apparently becoming a heaven for an ambitious woman in the field of government. Today, two women hold high posts in the cabinet, another holds a top position in the election procedure, and one woman is a mayor.

Mrs. Etta Wright was recently commissioned assistant secretary of war, and Mrs. Ellen Mills-Scarborough, assistant secretary of public instruction in the Liberian cabinet.

Mrs. Viola McKay-Gray has been appointed clerk of writs to the elections commission, a top echelon post in the governing of Liberia.

Mrs. Edith W. Smith recently became the first woman to serve as mayor of a Liberian city when she was elected to office in Marshall.

The appointment of Mrs. Etta Wright as assistant secretary of war is her latest achievement in a career in which she has risen from the lowly rank as a typist in the war department.

From President Tubman, she received the silver medal, and from President Tubman she has been awarded the Commander of the Star of Africa.

Mrs. Scarborough has a distinguished career as a student and a teacher. She has studied both in Liberia and America, and has taught both in Liberia and America.

She was a member of the Liberian delegation to the UN in 1946 and 1947. In 1947 the National Council of Negro Women awarded her as one of the 12 outstanding women of the world.

The recent achievements of women in government in Liberia has been significant because it was not until 1945 that women had the right to vote here. At this time a constitutional amendment was passed.

LINCOLN, NEB. — (ANP) — An Omaha girl, one of only two Nebraska girls among 254 Nebraska school girls attending the meeting, was elected governor here recently at the Girls State sponsored by the American Legion auxiliary at the University of Nebraska.

At the state capital she acted as governor and was a dinner guest at the governor's mansion while in "office."

Also attending the meeting was Jesse Narman of Omaha.

Sternest Measure In Pool Disorder

NEW YORK — Deploring the outbreak of violence between Negro and white youths in a St. Louis swimming pool, the NAACP urged Mayor Joseph P. D'Arcy to take the sternest measure to uphold his authority and maintain the pool on a non-segregation basis.

"Your administration cannot abdicate to a mob of children," the wire, signed by Roy Wilkins, acting NAACP secretary, said. "We strongly urge you to close the pool until all agree to abide by your order," Mr. Wilkins continued.

The wire, dispatched on June 22, cited the report that the "trouble was instigated by a small number of rebellious city employees." Mr. Wilkins, on behalf of the NAACP, commended Mayor D'Arcy for issuing the non-segregated order for playgrounds and swimming pools, adding that the Association "feels emphatically that the order should not be rescinded on account of the actions of a small group of boys."

Pool is an extremely thin layer of rolled metal, such as gold, tin or lead.

68 Year Old AAUW Drops Color Bar

SEATTLE, Wash. — (ANP) — The 68-year-old American Association of University Women voted 2168 to 45 in favor of two amendments to its by-laws to admit Negro members on the basis of graduation from an accredited school only, and not on race, last week at its biennial meeting.

Main support in the by-laws changes came, however, from delegations from Mississippi and Alabama, and the chapter from Washington, D. C.

D. C. CHAPTER LEAVES It has been reported that the Washington, D. C. chapter has withdrawn from the national organization.

Last week's discussion of the racial issue at the AAUW meeting climaxed a question that came into the open two years ago, when the Washington chapter refused to admit a Negro member already approved by the national group.

At the time, the chapter rejected Mrs. Mary Church Terrell, a graduate of Oberlin College and one of the nation's greatest Negro leaders in civic affairs. She is one of the first presidents of the National Association of Colored Women.

The national AAUW accepted Mrs. Terrell's membership and tried to persuade the Washington chapter to admit Mrs. Terrell, but it refused. Later, it took the issue to court but lost to the local. Early in the biennial meeting the Washington chapter threatened to withdraw from the organization on the race question.

The two amendments passed reiterated the association's stand that the only basis of membership should be whether or not the applicant was graduated from an accredited college or university without regard to race, and they strengthened the national group's power to act in controversial cases.

SOUTHERNERS BACK

Two southern women introduced the proposals, and many others supported them.

Mrs. W. R. Holway of Tulsa, Okla., and Dr. Bessie C. Randolph, president, Hollins college in Virginia, introduced the proposals, and many others supported them.

Among the leading supporters of the action were Dr. Gillie A. Larew, vice president of the South Atlantic region and professor of mathematics at Randolph Macon's college, Lynchburg, Va., and Katherine Vickers, president, Alabama State division.

Gerard Anderson, Director of the Morris College Summer School, will represent Morris College at the ATA.
