

MORRIS COLLEGE

Operated By The

THE BAPTIST EDUCATIONAL MISSIONARY CONVENTION WHICH MEETS MAY 6-9 WITH THE MT. OLIVE BAPTIST CHURCH OF MULLINS

GARRICK-BOYKIN GYMNASIUM

Morris College's new gymnasium is the largest on any campus in the state, erected with a view to the future and a growing people. It is the latest addition to the expanding plant. Now on schedule is a permanent Science Building.

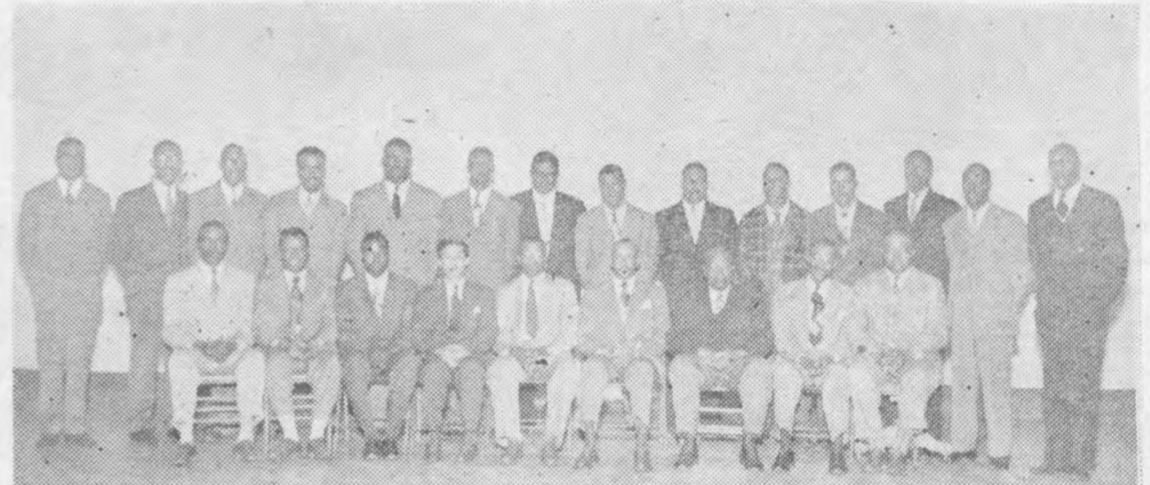

In 1908 the Negro Baptist State Convention established Morris College in Sumter, S. C. From a small beginning the college has grown to contain over forty acres in the Sumter city limits. The building and equipment at the college are valued at approximately $1,000,000.00. For more than forty years Morris College has engaged in the intellectual, cultural and spiritual development of the students who have studied within its wall. The school has furnished many of the outstanding Negro leaders for South Carolina.

The college has trained a large percentage of South Carolina public school teachers and is fast becoming the center of cultural interest for Negroes in this section of the State. The college is divided into two Schools: College of Arts and Sciences and the School of Theology. Courses are offered leading to the following degrees: Bachelor of Arts degree, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Science in Elementary Education, Bachelor of Theology and Bachelor of Divinity.

Morris College is especially dear to the hearts of Negro Baptists of South Carolina. She is more than a school struggling to undergird education with a Christian philosophy of life. She is the embodiment of the philosophy of Negro ownership and control. She represents Negro genius and resources at work in the educational world. Because Morris symbolizes the corporate effort of Negro Baptists of South Carolina, she is the tie that binds Negro Baptists in loyal devotion to a common cause. She is their nerve center, their heart, their soul!

Presently Morris is undergoing an intensive reorganization and expansion program to more adequately prepare it for the task ahead. It doth not yet appear what she shall be. But, with the growing interest and expanding support Morris is now getting from the Baptist family, friends and alumni, there is every reason to envisage a glorious future for the school.

O. R. Reuben, President

Theological Students and The College Sunday School

Top group of theology students includes about six men who have completed Bachelor degrees. The training of ministers is one of the basic purposes of Morris College. The bottom group shows some of the Sunday School leaders of the student body.

FRESHMEN REGISTRATION

Shown above are some of the first year students in the process of registering last fall. Before a student is settled to the routine of academic training, he undergoes a week of orientation, designed to adjust him to the routine of life on the college's campus.

The college is accredited by the State Department of Education, the Veteran's Administration and the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools

CULTURAL DEVELOPMENT

The Emphasis on cultural development beyond the course of classroom work is also a part of the college's training program. Above, students and faculty members meet Langston Hughes, distinguished poet and lecturer, during his recent visit to the campus.

PRESIDENT O. R. RUBEN

1952 SUMMER SESSION

FIRST SESSION, JUNE 5 to JULY 10 - SECOND SESSION, JULY 11 to AUGUST 13

Four Years of College Work Including a Wide Variety of Courses Leading to the

- Bachelor of Science Degree in Elementary Education
- Bachelor of Science Degree With A Major in Biol-

- ogy, Chemistry, Natural Sciences and Mathematics
- Bachelor of Arts Degree With A Major in: (a) Social Studies, (b) History, (c) English, (d) French.

Special Features

- Elementary Workshop for Inservice Teachers
- Courses in Audio-Visual Aids
- Reading Clinic
- Art and Drawing

Other Features

- Seminars on Subjects of Current Interest
- Lyceum Series

For Further Information, Write:

THE REGISTRAR, MORRIS COLLEGE, SUMTER, SOUTH CAROLINA