Greenville Man Tells of Long Struggle With Dread Ills

HE TRIED FIVE YEARS

Medicine Failed to Give De- sired Relief--Took Tanlac and Now Endorses It

Regarding the great relief that Tanlac gave him from stomach trouble which after five years developed into pellagra, F. S. Crumley, of No. 8, Buncombe St., Greenville, gave the following statement:

"I spent several weeks at a Government pellagra hospital at Spartanburg, but after I came home what I ate continued to hurt me. Gas formed on my stomach and I had pains in my abdomen. My appetite was not good and I could not rest at night.

"I began to take Tanlac and it soon corrected my stomach trouble. In a couple of days I could tell a big difference. My food was digested, gas stopped forming on my stomach and those pains left me. The Tanlac soon got me so I could eat as much as anyone, my nerves were quieted and I began to sleep soundly at night.

"Tanlac is a fine medicine for stomach trouble, and I am glad to recommend it to all with such ailments."

Tanlac, the master medicine, is sold exclusively at Harmon Drug Co., Lexington; Burnette and Whetsell, New Brookland; Harris-Cain Drug Co., Batesburg; Crosson Drug Co., Leesville; Eargle's Drug Store, Chas.; Dr. W. ## STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

Columbia—The Health Institute, held here for two days last week launching the State Health Campaign which has been undertaken by the Council of Defense as an important war measure, has not only proven a success in every way, but is attracting nation-wide attention. A representative of the Council of National Defense came down from Washington to attend the Institute and to acquaint himself first hand with the plans for the State-wide campaign. It is the purpose of the Council of National Defense to adopt the best features of the plans of the South Carolina Council of Defense for a national movement along the same lines, to be recommended to the several State Defense Councils for their adoption.

The movement which has been launched will now be extended into the several counties. Representatives of the County Councils who attended the Health Institute will arrange through their organizations to spread the message throughout their home counties. It is expected that meetings will be held in many parts of the State, beginning within the next week. What the delegates learned at the Institute they will be expected to impart to their people, and besides public meetings, many agencies will be employed in this big effort to acquaint the people with the importance of health conservation and with methods of preventing and combating the principal menaces to the public health.

Three hundred delegates attended these meetings.

Those attending the Health Institute from Lexington County were:

SALES OF SUGAR CLOSELY WATCHED

Retail Dealers Required by the Food Administration to Keep Accurate Records Which Will Be Carefully Checked Up by County Food Administrators.

Columbia, Aug. 3.—"It is sternly necessary for the retailers to supervise the sale of sugar and prevent those who are greedy and unpatriotic from obtaining more than their share," says the Food Administration in an order requiring the retailer to keep a record of all sugar sales made. A carbon copy of this record is to be sent to the County Food Administrator, and a check will be kept upon those who seek to buy more than their proportionate share of sugar.

It is essential that an equal distribution of sugar is made as the sugar situation is very acute. The profit on sugar will be closely watched by the Food Administration. The retail profit should not be more than one cent a pound, except where the fraction of a cent is involved.

Sales of sugar should not exceed two pounds at one sale to a customer who lives in town, and should not exceed five pounds to a customer residing in the rural districts. For canning purposes not more than 25 pounds may be sold to a householder on Home Canner's Sugar Certificates except upon written permission of the County Food Administrator.

The condition of corn in South Carolina on August 1 is estimated at 80 per cent of normal as compared with 90 per cent on the corresponding date last year, the ten-year average on August 1, being 82 per cent. The estimated production is 39,899,000 bu. as compared with 43,947,000 bu. last year. The total production for the UNITED STATES is placed at 2,989,978,000 bu. which is approximately 171,500,000 bu. less than the estimated production in 1917.

HOW TO SELECT SEED CORN IN THE FIELD

Columbia.—James W. Draffin, of Leslie, York County, has made a remarkable record in Corn Club work. He has been a member of the York County Boys' Corn Club for four years, and has been a county prize winner each year. Twice he has been a second State prize winner. His article on "How I Select My Seed Corn in the Field, which is given below, makes very interesting reading.

"One of the essentials of profitable corn growing is proper selection of seed. Stalks of the predominating type in the row or field should be chosen, if equally resistant and well-earied as others. Get the form of the ideal stalk well fixed in your mind, and look for it. Remember the type from year to year and don't change unless you should change to a different strain or seed variety.

"I don't wait until all the corn is in the crib to select my seed for next year's planting. If you do, you will fall in the trap. The standing plant will answer the question as to whether the selected ears have come from good stalks. I always try to be sure to get plants that grow not less than two or not more than three good ears to the stalk, and not more than half-way up the stalk. I select the well-filled ears, not too large nor too small, but medium size, and sound. The shuck should be loose on the grain and should have a wholesome look. I always try to select my seed corn from the stalks standing where they grow, as soon as ripe, and before the first hard freeze. I select ears from the stalks that have produced the most corn without having any special advantages, such as space, moisture or fertility. The most important consideration is to select seed from those plants which have the ability to furnish the largest quantity of dry shelled corn. Early maturity is a desirable quality, and so are short, thick, wind-firm stalks; top-heavy ones with ears borne too high are likely to mean losses.

"I collect my plants that bear my seed ears and cut off the top and bottom and hang the part on which the ears are fastened, in some convenient place in the crib or barn. This will keep in mind how the plants looked in the field.

"I go through my corn and cut the diseased and stunted stalks about July first or August first, so as to prevent crossing with the good stalks that are to furnish my seed. Now, if I am going to plant on upland, I do not use seed that has been long grown on lowland, and if I am going to plant on lowland, I use my field selected seed that has given best results on that kind of land as far as possible. I plant seed that grew on the same type of soil that I am going to cultivate. I always try to procure my seed from corn that is known to produce large yields. It has been pretty well demonstrated that the prolific corns are the best varieties for the South. They do not make the largest and best show ears, but they do make the largest yields, and the greatest money value per acre. I prefer Goodman's Prolific Variety."

Columbia.—The State Council of Defense has gone on record, by the adoption of resolutions at the bi-monthly meeting held here, as favoring a government financed cotton corporation; and recommendation has been made to President Wilson and Congress that action be taken, through the formation of such a governmental agency, to fix a minimum price which the farmer may be guaranteed for his crop.
