YAMATO DAMASHII.

What It Is and Where It Finds Its Highest Development in Japan.

The ancestor worship of the Japanese is no superstition. It is the great essential fact of their lives. "Western people easily make fun of it," says one of their writers, "but therein lies the philosophy of our patriotism." It was of this feeling that Lafcadio Hearn wrote: "It is probably the most profound and powerful of the emotions of the race, that which especially directs national life and shapes national character. Patriotism belongs to it. Loyalty is based upon it. The soldier who to make a path for his comrades through the battle deliberately flings away his life obeys the will that hears the approval of invisible witnesses."

This is Yamato Damashii (the soul of Japan). It found its highest development in the lives of the military knights, the samurai of feudal days whose code of precepts formed the Bushido, so cleverly expounded by Dr. Nitobe. Since the beginning of the present war there have been many explanations of the remarkable Japanese successes, but more than ever before it has been shown to be "the spirit that quickeneth" which has "won the battles on the Yalu, in Korea and Manchuria," "the spirit that quickeneth" which made the wonderful, long sustained attack on the superbly defended fortress of Port Arthur.

There is a widespread notion that the Japanese soldiers are fatalists because when they join the colors in war-time they call themselves kesshital (determined to die). But only in a restricted sense can they be called fatalists. They count their lives as forfeit. It is true, but only in the sense that each man is quite willing to die and expects when his crisis comes to give his life if necessary for the success of his task. He hopes to come back, but only as a victor. Better far his bones lie in a foreign land than that he should return to his home defeated or with his work unaccomplished. This is the real meaning of kesshital. It is not that the soldier is bound at any event to throw his life away, but that in any event where success may be accomplished by his effort he will win even at the cost of his life—he will succeed or die. The code of the samurai "conceived the state as antedating the individual," and "the latter being born into the former as part and parcel thereof, he must live and die for it or for the legitimate incumbent of its authority."—Oscar King Davis in Century.

Of Interest to Mothers.

Thousands of little ones die every year of croup. Most of them could have been saved by a few doses of Foley's Honey and Tar, and every family with children should keep it in the house. It contains no opiates and is safe and sure. Mrs. George H. Pickett, San Francisco, Cal., writes: "My baby had a dangerous attack of croup and we thought she would choke to death, but one dose of Foley's Honey and Tar relieved her at once after other remedies had failed. We are never a minute without it in the house." Sent by O. J. Harris.

Poison For Cholera Victim.

"Some years ago I found myself in the city of Buenos Ayres at a time when the cholera was raging in that capital," said a traveler. "It happened that as I walked along a public thoroughfare one day while the plague was at its height I saw a man fall to the ground, and I surmised that he had been stricken with the dread disease. Before reaching him I noticed a policeman approach the unfortunate and administer a drink to him from a bottle which I had no doubt contained a restorative or some kind of medicine. At the same time the policeman blew his whistle for an ambulance. "The vehicle came very quickly, and yet before it arrived the man was dead, and it was a corpse that was removed. I remarked to the officer that the medicine had been of no avail. "Certainly not, señor," he answered; "it was not medicine I gave him, but a deadly poison. That is the way we have to do now to check the spread of the cholera. Besides, the man would soon have died anyway."

"I never experienced a deeper feeling of horror in my life and looked on the policeman in the light of a murderer. Yet he doubtless regarded what he had done as in the nature of a disagreeable necessity, and, politely bidding me adios, went his way."—Washington Post.

"Pint Judy Pint."

Point Judith, Rhode Island, is known to the natives of that neighborhood as "Pint Judy Pint." Once upon a time, the story goes, an old sea captain of Nantucket or thereabouts took his wife with him upon a voyage along the coast, and, being enveloped in a fog, he made her lookout. After awhile the woman piped out, "Land!" "Whar away?" bellowed her lord. "Why, right over there, just the other side of all those ropes," she answered excitedly. "Trotter side o' blindesticks!" roared the captain. "Can't you tell me in straight talk whar away?" Now it happened that the captain's wife was unacquainted with nautical terms, and while she could do many useful things she could no more have boxed the compass than she could have flown. So the captain shouted to her, "Pint Judy, pint!" Then Judy "pinted," and the shore she had discovered and indicated was ever afterward known as Pint Judy Pint.

Fight Will Be Bitter.

Those who will persist in closing their ears against the continual recommendation of Dr. King's New Discovery of Consumption, will have a long and bitter fight with their troubles, if not ended earlier by fatal termination. And what T. R. Beall of Beall, Miss. has to say: "Last fall my wife had every symptom of consumption. She took Dr. King's New Discovery after everything else had failed. Improvement came at once and four bottles entirely cured her." Guaranteed by O. J. Harris, Batesburg Drug Co., Timmons Bros., Crosson Drug Co. of Leesville. Price 50c, and $1.00 Triar bottles free.
