Puggy" Is Dead

Little "Puggy" the affectionate lit-tle pet dog, and playmate of little Arthur Dampier, grand son of Mr. said of buggies and wagons you will find both at P. A. Hodges at bottom prices

Sue Easterling, and the pet of the ueighborhood on King and Jennings street, met a tragic death Friday morning. For some time he has been ccompanying Miss Nell to her work at the office of the Marlboro Mill On Friday she left him, but Puggy missed her and started at a rapid gait to overtake her. Just as he resched the crossing of the A. C. L. Ry., he was met by the out going passenger train which mashed him into pieces.

Puggy's friendship was true as steel But his jolly tramps are done, And it will be hard to find Another doggie just as kin !.
