The Most Useful Invention of the Age.

FRENCH STARCH ENAMEL

IT imports to linen a most beautiful polish, filling the pores of the fabric, and making the oldest article look fresh and new.

IT SAVES LABOR. By making the iron slip smoothly and easily, and preventing the starch from sticking or clogging.

IT SAVES MONEY. Since it produces far better results at one-half the cost of the ingredients now in use; and

IT SAVES CLOTHING. By its preservative qualities, by ensuring their longer wear without washing, and by rejecting to a certain extent what would ordinarily soil or stain the fabric.

Every family should use it. Every lady needs it. Every washwoman will be benefited by it.

Read the following Certificate from the First Chemist in Maryland.

I have carefully examined the "French Starch Enamel," and find in it neither Spermaceti, Paraffine or wax. It contains no ingredients that can be in any way injurious to the finest or most delicate fabric.

WM. E. A. AIKEN, M.D., Professor Chemistry, &c.

We want Agents, male and female, to introduce and sell our ENAMEL to every family and the trade generally throughout the United States.
