The weather bureau at Washington, in its report increasing rapidly and doing considerable damage in a number of southwestern and south central counties of Texas." The Newberry Observer says a friend has handed us a Texas paper of recent date which contains some account of a red ant in the infested district that promises to do great things for the cotton crop. The account is given by a writer in San Antonio. It says:

Bexar county possesses that has the Gautemala weevil-eating variety beaten to a standstill, with the advantages of being right on the spot now and in need of no transplanting. They are in the field by the millions and waging a relentless war upon the weevil. This little red ant is routing the boll weevil in Bexar county. According to reports from the county it will not be necessary to send to Guatemala to rid Bexar county fields of the cotton pest, and it may be that this county can furnish all the ants necessary to eradicate the weevil all over Texas.

"Jose Cassiano, ex county collector, who has several hundred acres of cotton in this county, is the bearer of the good tidings concerning the work of the ant. Mr. Cassiano's fields less than a month ago were live with weevil and he looked forward to discouraging prospects of losing the greater part of his cotton through ravages of the insects. Soldiers Scouring the Mountains, and the Miners Firing Upon Them.

Intense Excitement in Mining Region.

A pitched battle between the military and union miners was fought at Dunnville, the new mining camp, 13 miles out of Victor, Colorado, shortly after 3 o'clock p. m. Wednesday. John Carley, a union miner, was killed and five others. The troops returned to Victor at 8 o'clock Wednesday night bringing with them 14 captives. Before the special train left Victor bearing the force under Gen. Bell it was reported that the miners in the hills about Dunnville numbered about 250 men, and that it was their intention to march into Victor Wednesday night in a body and attempt to liberate by force the inmates of the temporary "bull pen" in Victor. That the force actually consisted of but 21 men is the statement of one of the 14 who were captured by the militia.

The train proceeded in the afternoon to the immediate vicinity of Dunnville without unusual incident. When about a quarter of a mile disstation the officers could see the camp of the miners. It included one cabin county newspapers, which, under the left the train at the command of Gen. and six or seven tents. The captured miners include John

James, charged with shooting John Davis in the riot at Victor. Among the dead was John Carley, a union miner of Cripple Creek. Great excitement prevailed in this city upon the receipt of the news of the battle. The deputies secured the arms and ammunition of parts of the miners. As the special train bearing the deputies drew up at Dunnville the union miners, entrenched in the neighporhood, opened ffre. Gen. The original owner sold much of the land years ago, but in 1879, presumably to make title clear, he secured a patent from the state for the whole tract. He failed, it is said, to make new deeds, for the land which he had sold, and as a result the heirs now claim the property. Three of the grandchildren of the original owner, who reside in Louisiana, claim an undivided sixteenth
