PALMETTO TRAINING CAMPS WILL REMAIN

Washington.—On account of reports of a movement to have Camp Gordon, near Atlanta, designated as a concentration demobilization camp for all the Georgia and South Carolina territory, practically, absorbing the South Carolina camps. Senator E. D. Smith has had the matter taken up with the War Department to see if there was any foundation of these reports. Assurance was obtained from the office of the Secretary of War and from high officials of the general staff, including the assistant chief of staff, Gen. McIntyre, and Gens. Jervy and Anderson, that the department had no plan in contemplation to make Atlanta the concentration camp for Carolina camps; that, on the contrary, all the present South Carolina camps would be used for demobilization purposes, and that the general staff would certainly recommend the permanent retention of Camp Jackson, because of the fact that such a camp is needed for training purposes and millions of dollars have been invested in it.

The other South Carolina camps will probably not be permanent. Of course, the final disposition as to camps, like that at Columbia, will rest with Congress.

COULD HARDLY STAND ALONE

Terrible Suffering From Headache, Sideache, Backache, and Weakness, Relieved by Cardui, Says This Texas Lady.

Gonzales, Tex.—Mrs. Minnie Philpot, of this place, writes: "Five years ago I was taken with a pain in my left side. It was right under my left rib. It would commence with an aching and extend up into my left shoulder and on down into my back. By that time the pain would be so severe I would have to take to bed, and suffered usually about three days... I suffered this way for three years, and got to be a mere skeleton and was so weak I could hardly stand alone. Was not able to go anywhere and had to let my house work go... I suffered awful with a pain in my back and I had the headache all the time. I just was unable to do a thing. My life was a misery, my stomach got in an awful condition, caused from taking so much medicine. I suffered so much pain. I had just about given up all hopes of our getting anything to help me.

One day a Birthday Almanac was thrown in my yard. After reading its testimonials I decided to try Cardui, and am so thankful that I did, for I began to improve when on the second bottle... I am now a well woman and feeling fine and the cure has been permanent for it has been two years since my awful bad health. I will always praise and recommend Cardui." Try Cardui today. E 78

EXCELLENT RESULTS USING STABLE MANURE

Farmers who are confronted with the problem of maintaining soil fertility—important in carrying out increased food production—will find it profitable, the United States Department of Agriculture suggests, to study the methods of handling barnyard manure, practiced in parts of eastern Pennsylvania, where excellent results in adding to crop yields have been secured.

These methods are described in Farmers' Bulletin 978, recently published by the department. For over a century it has been the custom in this region to store stable manure in a walled manure yard, partly or wholly covered, in which the stabled animals are allowed to exercise during the day. Manure thrown into such a yard and thoroughly tramped by stock, according to the department's bulletin, loses much less through heating and leaching than does manure piled in the open.

Proper Fermentation Favored.
Nearly all manure produced on the farms in the region to which the bulletin refers accumulates in the manure yards. All cornstalks, straw and other roughage not used as bedding are added as needed to take up excess liquids. In this way the covered portion of the barnyard not only affords a dry and comfortable shelter for the live stock during the winter months, but it protects the manure so that no leaching occurs. In some instances the corn fodder is run through a cutter, which increases its power of absorption and makes the manure easier to handle. The tramping of the stock packs the manure, so that an even temperature is obtained, which seems to favor proper fermentation, as is evidenced partly by the strong odor of ammonia in the vicinity when the manure is being removed, and partly by absence of dry combustion, or "firefang," so common in manure piles exposed to the weather.

Occasionally a farmer is found who sprinkles land plaster on manure at intervals, the amount ranging from 1 to 2 tons a year, applied at the rate of a bushel a week. Disintegrated feldspar rock, common in the vicinity, has been used with good effect, but as a general thing the manure is not treated with chemical fertilizers.

Colds Cause Grip and Influenza
LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE Tablets remove the cause. There is only one "Bromo Quinine." E. W. GROVE'S signature on box. 30c.

How Manure Is Applied.
The manure is hauled to the fields twice a year on the majority of farms. Many farmers apply it during the winter when the ground is frozen and hauling is easier and when there is more time for this work, but this should not be done on hillside land or where there is danger of the manure being washed away when the snow melts and before the ground is sufficiently thawed to allow the soluble material to sink in. In general practice the sod is usually manured in the early spring at the rate of 8 to 10 tons an acre and is immediately plowed and rolled. In the fall manure is applied to oats and corn stubble land. The barnyard is so arranged that the team and spreader can be driven into any part of it, including the covered portion, where loading can be done directly.

The bulletin describes in detail the crop rotation plan and methods of handling manure on 10 Chester County farms, on each of which the yield of corn is maintained at 75 bushels or more an acre and where high yields are being made at no sacrifice of profit. These farms offer good examples of the way in which manure should be handled and utilized to secure the greatest possible returns.

A lady told us a true story of a soldier's wit—that a soldier in hospital on recovering consciousness said:
"Nurse, what is this on my head?"
"Vinegar cloths," she replied. "You have had fever."
After a pause:
"And what is this on my chest?"
"A mustard plaster. You have had pneumonia."
"And what is this at my feet?"
"Salt bags; you have had frost bite."
A soldier from the next bed looked up and said:
"Hang the pepper box to his nose, nurse, then he will be a cruet."—Strand Magazine.

SAYS GERMANS ARE WARRING ON ALLIES

London.—Sir George Cave, who recently resigned from the position of Secretary of State for the home department in the Lloyd George cabinet, in speaking in the house of lords, said that although there was a pause in hostilities, the enemy's activities have not ceased.

"Germany has already begun to try to destroy the unity of the Allies and our unity at home," he said. "I believe there is a close alliance between Bolshevism and Germany. I have had evidence of this during the last week."

Regarding the press bureau, he saw no reason why it should be abolished. He said that he saw only the other day press cables from Russia which were "obviously false and intended for propaganda purposes."

"We ought not to relinquish the weapons provided by the defense of the realm act for dealing with Bolshevism," he said. "A bill continuing the aliens act of 1914 should be enacted by the next parliament enabling the government to impose restrictions upon the landing of enemy aliens."

PRESIDENT MAY BE OFFICIAL DELEGATE

Pointed Out That He Could Resign When Programme Was Under Way

ROOT SEEMS CERTAIN TO BE IN DELEGATION

Concerned First With Definition of Freedom of Seas, Then World Peace.

Washington.—The President is not going to make a protracted stay in Europe, despite the idea that some of the Senators who talked to him about his trip got from something he said about his remaining in Paris as long as necessary.

He will probably be back by February. There is no chance of his staying abroad as late as March, for on March 3 the present Congress dies and with it all bills that have not been presented to him.

Important Last Minute Bills.
Unless the President, purposes being on the job at Washington by midnight of March 3, Congress might as well not remain in session after the middle of February. As all the big Appropriation bills come along during the final week of the session, and as the revenue bill, if it gets through at all, will be passed before that time, it is fairly evident the President will not think he can afford to be absent. If he should be delayed, the only way Government salaries could be paid and money allotted the Army and Navy, not to mention the other branches of the Government, would be by a special session of the new Congress.

The picture of these matters being left to a Republican Congress seems out of line.

Mr. Cleveland when he was President refused to sign a revenue bill because it had not been presented to him long enough before the death of a Congress to enable him to study it, and an extra session had to be called. Once Mr. Taft sat in the President's room at the Capitol, signing last minute bills. One important measure did not reach him until one minute past midnight and thereby failed of signature.

FIGHT BOLL WEEVIL.
It usually requires three years for the boll weevil to reach its maximum in new territory, but the rapid spread of the weevil in South Carolina this season indicates that he will do serious damage to cotton production in this State even in 1919. Farmers and business men can greatly reduce the damage which the weevil may do by the following suggestions:

1. Complete the cotton picking at the earliest possible date.
2. Destroy all green cotton plants as early as possible before killing frost, either by plowing under deep or by uprooting while green and burning when dry.
3. After destruction of cotton plants, put in winter cover crops (oats, clover, rye, rape, and barley). If legumes (alfalfa, crimson clover, bur clover, vetches) can be used as winter cover crops, they are even more valuable than the grain cover crops.
4. Begin now to prepare for next year's crop by careful winter and spring plowing.
5. Plant next season early maturing varieties at the earliest time to avoid damage by frost. If wilt occurs on your land, select wilt-resisting types.
6. Consult freely the State Entomologist and the County Demonstration Agent on rotation of crops and other methods of fighting the weevil.

A noted humorist lecturer, who was invited to deliver an address to an audience of convicts in a Western penitentiary, noticed that the auditors laughed heartily, but did not applaud.

After the lecture the Warden of the institution ventured an apology: "They didn't seem very appreciative, did they?" he asked. "I thought they seemed to enjoy it very much," the lecturer replied. "But they might have clapped a little," the Warden remarked, "instead of just sitting there with their hands folded."

"Well, well!" the lecturer laughed. "I noticed that they sat with their hands folded, but I thought they were all manacled."—Judge.

Tobacco Money Goes

Tobacco sales have been good and many growers have realized high prices for their product, and consequently have more money to spend this Summer and Fall than usual in this section. Tobacco money goes quickly and for almost no purpose unless it is carefully spent, and in the best way to realize the most for the dollar.

Certain goods which are special lines with us are absolute necessities in the homes of the farmers and for use in the improvement and operation of the farms during the remainder of the crop season of 1918, and in getting ready for the new crops of 1919.

Let us have the chance of showing you what we have in stock before you spend your tobacco money. We bought goods when goods were comparatively low. On that account in many lines of staple articles we can fit you out to the best advantages so that you will save money.
