

JACKSON SAYS ITS HERE TO STAY

Referring to Stock Law Which Goes Into Effect January 1st.

Come lets reason together and see if we can't understand better. Our imaginary troubles make up no small part of our happiness in this world.

This county of ours is passing through one of the greatest periods in history. I say greatest because I believe that when everything becomes adjusted, and we become accustomed to the new order of things, we will realize as never before that we are living in a great day, but we must not lose sight of the fact that we are bound to have a hand in the readjustment. We consider the matters seriously and prayerfully, and try to get on the right track.

There are great matters, local and general, to consider, and we should stop and ask ourselves this question: "Am I blocking progress in the things that make for the betterment of my country?" I am not a prophet, nor the son of a prophet, but I have guessed at some things that have come just as I predicted. Some years ago I told the people that if they wanted just anything, to elect a certain man, and they might cuss prohibition as much as they pleased, but in ten years we would have a national prohibition law.

Thank God we have the law, and it is here to stay. Now the proper thing for us to do, is to get on the band wagon and help to enforce it.

There are other great national questions confronting us that need serious consideration, such as the League of Nations, the strife between Capital and Labor, the education of the masses, and last, but by no means least, the evangelization of the world. In these matters we common people should stand together for the betterment of humanity, remembering that we are brethren, among whom no contention should arise, except that noble contention, or rather emulation of who can best work and best agree. "We are our brother's keeper." A warning note to the people of Horry County.

We are on the verge of a great crisis. We have a law on the Statute books which says that Horry County will go under the general stock law the first day of next January, and hundreds of men are going to take down their fences as soon as that law comes into effect. Some have an idea that law can be repealed. Well, suppose the free range people are in the majority and they elect men to the legislature pledged to repeal the law, and they go to Columbia and introduce a bill to that effect. The delegation from the other counties will want to know how the matter stands and when they are told that hundreds of farmers have torn down their fences, they are going to say, "Well gentlemen, we are sorry for you, but you are fixing to have war among your people, and we feel that it is our duty to step in between and let the law stand as it is. Some may say that is guesswork that will not prove true. Well just wait and see.

Just the other day an old man who is, I suppose, about seventy years old said that the stock law is the most just law we have ever had, and that he intends to start tearing down his fence the first day of January, and make a pasture. Gentlemen, the stock law is here to stay.

How about the boxes that are to be put up at the polls to express our opinions on the subject? Well I realize now that this is going to make matter no better, if I have been informed right. Some men think that it is a vote on the stock law question, but this is a sad mistake. At one place, for instance, it has been reported that the roll book was in the hands of a free range man, who took it around to the free range men and had them to enroll, and did not give the stock law men a chance. I don't know that this is true, but one thing is sure: There are lots of men on the fence, so to speak, and are not going to express themselves either way, and members of the stock law men are going to say that they have what they want and don't need to express themselves, that they are going to abide by the law as it now stands, which is very reasonable.

I have some very good friends on both sides of this question, and I do hate to think about their getting wrought up so badly. I say again, our imaginary troubles are very bad. We think sometimes that we are ruined before the thing comes, and after we have tried it we find that we were mistaken. After this great burden called the stock law has been tried three years, you could hardly put enough money into the county to get it voted out.

I know from experience, I have been in Horry twenty-three years, and have never had any stock in the woods. I have always made my own meat, and most of the time, enough to supply my tenants. I never try to keep but one milk cow, and have milk and butter very nearly all the time, and have sold several good milch cows. I milked one cow twelve years without stopping. She died at about fifteen years old.

I have not written the above to get up any controversy, but only to try to nip the trouble in the bud which is sure to come if it goes on as it is now started. Lets all get ready for the stock

Rowell Property, Near Bear Swamp, Also Brought High Figures.

On Wednesday of last week business lots No. 9 and 11 on the eastward side of Main Street in Conway, with the buildings thereon, were sold at auction for W. C. Adams and brought the sum of $7,847.06. There was a large crowd at the sale and the bidding was spirited. The property went off to Arland J. Baker, who was bidding for Kelly Tompkins. On the same day that the town lots above mentioned were sold the plantation just across Bear Swamp from Conway, known as The Poor Farm, belonging to H. Rowell, was sold in parcels at auction. It contained 119 acres and went off for the aggregate sum of $11,083.00. Both of the properties above described were sold by the E. A. Moffitt Realty Company of North Carolina. This Realty Company is composed of E. A. Moffitt and R. O. Hanson, both of whom are well known in this County, and are considered "home-folks" in Horry. They are conducting some very successful sales in this section of the State. They have an advertisement in this week's issue of The Herald calling attention to the sales of the James Carroll home place near Cool Springs, the E. M. principal work that the Association did last year was having the embargo raised on tobacco shipments during the latter part of the 1919 marketing season. Realizing that there will likely be greater needs for organized effort during this present season the Association is now trying to organize in better working conditions.

Mr. N. A. McMillan called a meeting of all tobacco interests which was held on July 6th, and at that meeting a central committee of five was appointed to carry out the policies of the association. They wanted to put on a paid Secretary but no suitable man could be obtained for the place, then Mr. W. W. Long, of the Extension Service, came to Florence, and decided to give two men from his staff to come into this territory, the college paying their expenses; and these men are now on duty and will cooperate with the Association, warehouses, business men and farmers of the tobacco belt. They will put on an educational campaign with its motto "Better Tobacco on a Better Market."

The two men are Messrs. F. L. Harkey of the Bureau of Markets and L. H. Lewis, who is also connected with the Extension Service and has had many years experience. They will go out over the entire tobacco belt visiting the markets and will work through the leading men in each market in carrying out the plans in view.

The membership fee in the Association for farmers is only $1.00, business men $2.00, warehouses and banks, each $5.00. There should be a large new membership secured without delay.

FALL VEGETABLES ARE ADVISED

During the present season everything possible is being done in the South to provide ample supplies of food. To aid in this work, every one is urged to plant a fall garden. The following is a calendar of monthly plantings for the remainder of the year:

August: Continue planting snap beans for table use. Set out any cabbage plants carried over. Sow lettuce seed for fall heading and endive. Peas sown this month yield a good fall crop. Sow spinach, kale, turnip and rutabagas.

September: Sow lettuce, early cabbages, cauliflower, and onions for transplanting in November. Put out onion sets. Sow winter radishes, spinach, mustard, corn salad and kale.

October: Set out strawberry plants. Sow cabbage seed mustard, spinach and lettuce. Set out cabbage and lettuce plants to stand during winter.

November: Sow lettuce and early variety of cabbage. Plant out asparagus roots. Plant English peas. Set out fruit trees and small fruit.

December: Cabbage and lettuce can be planted in hot beds toward the end of the month. Beets, radishes and lettuce can be forced for winter use. English peas can still be planted, but should be sown in deeper than usual.

The shortage of unskilled labor is affecting more things in every day life than would appear at first sight.
