The Improved All-Steel Rapid Fire Hay Press

The Best Hay Press for the Farmer—Light Draft and Fast Baling.

It is the fastest baler because it had 28 inch feed opening with 33 inch stroke—two strokes to each round of the horse.

It has light draft because it is only 16 inches from center to extreme end of roller, and the sweep to which the horse is attached is 11 feet long.

REBOUND BRAKE—The Rapid Fire is equipped with our Special Rebound Brake, which takes every bit of the jar off the Press, thereby doubling the life of the machine and doing away with the expense of repair parts; and it makes the horse glad because the lever positively will not jump forward and skin the horse's heel when the Press is in operation.

YOU CAN PAY MORE BUT YOU CANNOT BUY A BETTER HAY PRESS THAN THE RAPID FIRE. It is simply the strongest and lightest hay press on the market.

RAILROAD LENDING HELP TO THE SOUTH

SOUTHERN MAN TELLS OF THE WORK

BUYING COTTON

Great System Has Decided To Do Everything Possible Toward Relieving Financial Strain

While spending yesterday in Anderson a well known official of the Southern railway talked of what his road is doing in an attempt to aid the cotton growers of the South. This gentleman says that Fairfax Harrison, president of the Southern road, has become greatly interested and is doing everything possible to boost the "Buy-a-Bale" movement. He says that the Southern has bought a bale of cotton in each cotton producing state traversed by the Southern railway and pointed to the following letter which President Harrison written to the principal officials of the Southern and allied lines:

"I commend to your personal consideration the 'Buy-a-Bale' of cotton movement now active throughout the South. While this is a movement of sentiment, it is wholesome setiment as expressing a determination of the southern people to help themselves in a time of emergency, rather than depend on help from outside or from the government, federal or state. If this movement results in marketing 500,000 bales at 10 cents a pound, as is believed to be possible, it will have a profound effect in encouraging the small farmers and those who give them credit to hold for a stable price.

"All of us derive our livelihood and that of our families in some measure from cotton, and so, apart from any interest of the company, every one of us has a personal interest in the cotton market.

"I have myself bought a bale of cotton in each of the cotton producing states. If you feel that you can afford it, I recommend that you buy at least one bale for personal account and induce as many as possible of your friends to do likewise. It will be a safe investment of the money and a patriotic act in a vital emergency."

Speaking of the cotton situation yesterday President Harrison said:

"There are, in my opinion, good reasons for believing that the market for cotton will improve while there is both a temporary setting up in manufacturing in this country, so far as this unexampled mills in the United States and the consequent shortage of France, it is fair to assume that large measure to the disturbed financial conditions and to some extent to the difficulty in getting dye stuffs. I am encouraged to believe that as soon as the financial difficulties have been straightened out, there will be an increased demand, not only from the mills in the United States, but also from those in all parts of Europe in which the war has not shut off access to the sea. Already there are reports of increasing shipments of cotton both to mainland and to the Continent and it should be borne in mind that the war itself will give rise to an increasing demand for certain lines of cotton goods. There has been evidence of this already in orders for cotton duck for army uses and enquiries for large supplies of cotton underwear for the armies.

"The 'Buy-a-Bale' of cotton movement will help materially to bring about better conditions. It will encourage farmers to hold for better prices and will tend to take off of the market cotton that must be sold. Every one who participates in this movement is performing a patriotic act in a vital emergency which will be of great value to the entire South."

GREAT INDUSTRY TO BE BUILT IN SOUTH

REASON FOR HOLDING CELEBRATION HERE

LEND ASSISTANCE

Anderson Will Benefit As a City If the Country Enters the Livestock Industry

No movement could be started in Anderson that would be more appropriate than that which is to celebrate the great growth already made in livestock and kindred productions and is to stimulate greater things the same in Anderson county, according to Chairman Jno. M. Davis, of the committee of arrangements, and therefore the holding of the first annual exhibition and livestock celebration in the city next Wednesday is an event of unusual if not far-reaching importance.

There can be nothing done in the realms of progress in all of the Piedmont country than the building up of a great livestock industry that will do more good. In fact, if this industry can be increased sufficiently to support a packing house in Anderson, it will double the value of all farm lands in the county and easily quadruple the population of the city of Anderson itself, and the city would be the manufacturing center and the market center for the stock, according to Chairman Davis, who, by the way, has only recently returned from St. Louis, which, as is well known, is one of the chief meat packing and slaughtering centers in the United States.

"I therefore feel," said Mr. Davis, "that we business people ought to put our shoulder to the wheel and make the livestock celebration a great success."

A Lame Back Kidney Trouble Causes It.

It don't take long for kidney and bladder trouble to give you a lame back, and even worse, if not checked. Mrs. H. T. Strayngo, Gainesville, Ga., was fairly down on her back, with kidney trouble and inflammed bladder. She says: "I took Foley Kidney Pills and now my back is stronger than in years, and kidney trouble and bothersome bladder sensation have entirely ceased. Good druggists are glad to sell Foley Kidney Pills because they always help. They contain no habit forming drugs. Evans' Pharmacy, agents.
