At the conclusion of the repast Lem Reid, the oldest of the former employees present arose from his seat and in a few well chosen words presented the host with a handsome gold headed cane which he said was a small token of the appreciation in which he was held by the attending guests. Mr. Jackson accepted the cane in a graceful speech in which he warmly thanked the donors saying that he would prize it very highly, not so much for its intrinsic value as for the sentiments which prompted the gift. GREENWOOD COUNCIL WONT DIVIDE WARDS

Petitions From Four and Five Are Refused—New Body May Act.

GREENWOOD, Feb. 4.—City council in regular session Monday evening declined to divide wards 4 and 5, petitions to the effect that a majority of the residents of these wards desiring division having been presented and advocated before council by Col. D. A. G. Quists and A. M. D. Singleton.

The matter of changing ward lines and increasing the number of wards in the city will therefore have to come before the new council for action.

City council adopted a stringent ordinance against the practice of railroads leaving freight cars on sidings in the business section of the town, or more specifically that section between the Charleston and Western Carolina freight depot and the postoffice. Mayor Marshall stated that the new ordinance will be enforced.

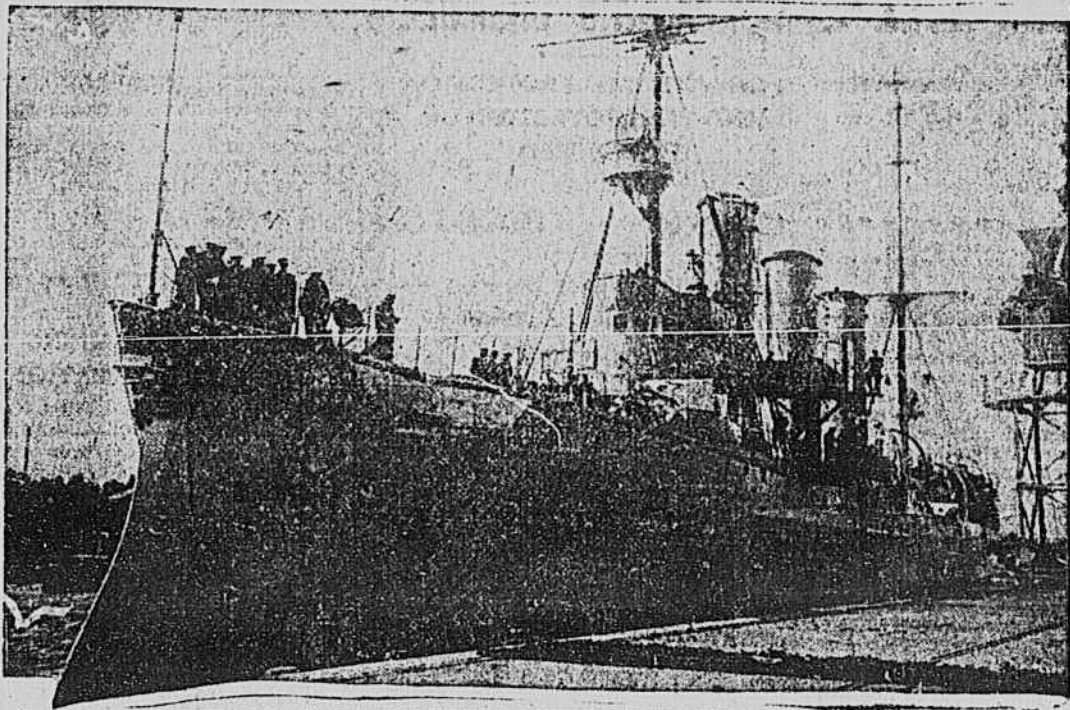

City Engineer Wells submitted an estimate on the cost of paving that section of Hampton avenue which it is proposed to use during the State Street's tournament. He estimates the cost at $2,500. Action was deferred.

ABANDON UNION STATION

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 5.—Railroads entering Cincinnati prepared tonight to abandon this Union station tomorrow because of a predicted flood stage of 55 feet. Passenger traffic will be handled through suburban stations, but freight movements will not be interrupted seriously.

Thirty-eight coal barges, most of them loaded, tore from their moorings today and were swept down the flooded Ohio. The government snag boat E. A. Woodruff and several sharp-pointed boats were caught by the barges and swept before them. Some of the barges sank and their men and women occupants had narrow escapes.

German Raider Koenigsberg Sunk When Airship Found Her Hiding.

The dramatic story of the sinking of the German raider Koenigsberg, on the coast of east Africa, has just been told by Captain Willlet of the British merchant ship Newbridge. The Koenigsberg, which was a light cruiser of about the same class as the Emden, Dresden, and Karlsruhe, mounting only 4.1-inch guns, was in company with a smaller German ship when chased by the British squadron, which included, it is believed, several armored cruisers of the County class.

The smaller ship was sunk, but the Koenigsberg succeeded in getting behind the Mafia Islands and some distance up the river, where she was completely screened by the bend of the river, and where the British heavier draft ships could not follow her. They also, it appears, landed a detachment who mounted some light guns on the bank as a defense against attack by a British boat expedition. The British, however, contented themselves with bottling up the Koenigsberg by sinking Captain Will-let's ship in the channel. They then waited for the arrival of a seaplane, which flew up the river and indicated the position of the German cruiser by dropping smoke bombs. The Germans had hid their ship close to the bank under cover of some palm groves and had covered her with foliage. The aviator, however, was able to make her out and to direct the fire of the British ships so accurately by signals that the cruiser was completely destroyed.

CREAM-EGG-PIG ROUTE IS TO BE OPERATED

SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY FOR MARKETING CREAM AND EGGS OFFERED

WORK TO BEGIN FEBRUARY 15TH

Territory Between Anderson and Williamston Is to Be Covered.

(From Sunday's Daily.) Details as to the conducting of the creamery route to be operated out of Anderson and plans for the promotion of hog and poultry raising in connection with this industry were discussed yesterday at the chamber of commerce with two scores or more interested farmers by the county extension department work of Clemson College.

While the locality in which the creamery route will be operated was selected, the exact highways along which the cream collecting wagon will pass was not decided upon. This matter will be determined definitely between now and February 15, the time at which it is hoped to have the scheme in operation. It was decided that the creamery route would cover the section of the county between Anderson and Williamston, and while it was definitely decided it is probable that the wagon will pass along the Williamston road in going out of Anderson and follow the Greenville road in returning to the city.

Details Explained. The details of the workings of the creamery route were fully explained to the farmers by Prof. D. W. Watkins, assistant dairyman of Clemson College. He told of the money that was to be made out of the cream business, how Clemson College would go about collecting the butter fat, and placing the same upon the markets. For the first three months the route is in operation the expenses of the same will be borne by Clemson College. Cream will be collected every day at the houses of those farmers who have agreed to furnish butter fat. The product will be shipped to Clemson College, and those who furnish cream will receive checks at the end of each month for the butter fat furnished during the month just ended. After the first three months the cost of operating the route will be taken out of the checks returned to those persons for cream furnished.

Raising of Pigs. Prof. P. H. Calvin made a short talk to the farmers on the subject of raising pigs in connection with the cream business. The plan is to get the farmers along the route who furnish cream to use skimmed milk in feeding pigs. There is nothing better for young pigs, he stated than skimmed milk, it being superior to corn.

To Collect Eggs. It is planned to collect eggs along the route as well as cream. An interesting and instructive talk on this subject and the general subject of poultry raising was made by Prof. Frank C. Hare. He pointed out how these farmers furnishing cream along the route could utilize their sour skimmed milk to advantage in feeding their chickens. Skimmed milk and corn meal, he stated, makes the finest poultry food there is, and will make them lay in the winter.

The plan is to have a number of farmers along the creamery route, who will agree to furnish Clemson College with fresh eggs. There are certain provisions in the agreement with reference to the quality of eggs to be furnished. Cartons for holding one dozen eggs will be furnished the farmers. The eggs are to be placed in these, white eggs in carton and brown eggs in another, the box sealed up and stamped with the number assigned the carton furnishing them. The eggs will be taken by the cream collector and forwarded to Clemson College, from which point they will be placed on the very best markets available. Those furnishing eggs will be paid for them by the same plan they receive pay for the cream furnished.

APPOINTMENT OF MR. WM. LAUGHLIN

As Postmaster at Anderson Expected to Be Made This Week.

(From Sunday's Daily.) The nomination of Mr. William Laughlin to be postmaster at Anderson will probably be sent to the senate during this week, according to advices received yesterday from Washington by The Intelligencer.

The delay in the appointment of Mr. Laughlin, stated First Assistant Postmaster General Roper, has been due to the fact that the department has been swamped with work and the matter has not been reached.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Representative Wolfe Comments. To the Editor of The Intelligencer: In your issue of the 4th inst., under the caption, "What Will Our Delegation Do?" you editorially presume to ensure the delegation for its hesitancy in making an appropriation of $800 for farm demonstration work in Anderson County and inferentially attribute this hesitancy to the influence of two members of the delegation, designated by you as "Doubting Thomases."

From the number of telegrams coming to me from solicitous advocates of the appropriation, I take it that I am one of the "Doubting Thomases" referred to.

For your enlightenment, I advise that the delegation has acted in harmony throughout in the matter. While I have had my own convictions, I have held these in abeyance and have assured the farmers in the delegation that I would support anything in this connection which they felt disposed to recommend.

Here are a few facts for your consideration: The delegation had pledged an appropriation of $675 for the rural economic work for girls; the delegation felt morally obligated to make an appropriation of $400 to pay a deficit in the salary of the former farm demonstrator; a salary of $900 had to be provided for the deputy sheriff; the clerk of court needed $1500 for equipment; and in addition to all this, there was confronting us, an existing county indebtedness of $20,000.

To further embarrass the delegation the former delegation had reduced the tax levy practically two and one half mills below what would produce sufficient revenue to defray the county's necessary expenses in normal conditions.

The delegation in progressive in its policy but not disposed to make appropriations without due deliberation and not until it feels reasonably assured of some available source of funds from which the county can meet its obligations so incurred.

Respectfully, SAM M. WOLFE. General Assembly, Columbia, S. C. February 5th, 1915.

Blair Rice of Belton was a visitor in the city yesterday.

Glenn Simpson of Starr was among the visitors in the city yesterday.

J. D. God of the Hollands Store section was in the city yesterday.

Furman Martin of the Lebanon section was in the city Saturday.

Miss Daisy Duckworth of the Peoples bank is spending today with relatives in the county.

L. A. Doll of the county was a visitor in the city Saturday.

Miss Nellie Newton of Williamston was among the visitors in the city yesterday.

OUTLINE COMPULSORY SCHOOL ATTENDANCE

SUPT. SWEARINGEN WRITES TO J. B. FELTON CONCERNING PROPOSED BILL

ASKS OPINION

School Districts Would Have to Vote Off Law Instead of Voting It on.

Outlining his compulsory school attendance bill and requesting that if he approves of it he write to Governor Richard I. Manning and give his views on the subject, State Superintendent of Education J. E. Swearingen has addressed an interesting communication to County Superintendent of Education J. B. Felton.

The general public, it appears, has but a hazy conception of the provisions of the Swearingen bill, and for that reason the letter from Mr. Swearingen explaining its various points will be of particular interest to those concerned about the matter. One interesting point about the proposed bill is that it is to be a local option affair, but instead of school districts voting on the question of whether or not they will have compulsory school attendance they will vote on the question of repealing the law so far as that particular district is concerned. In other words, a school district will have to vote off the compulsory school attendance law instead of voting it on.

The letter from Mr. Swearingen explaining the bill is as follows: "The compulsory school attendance bill, which was discussed at the conference of county superintendents in Columbia, January 20th, 21st and 22nd and before the joint session of the senate and house committee on education January 21st, is now on the calendar of both branches of the general assembly.

In the senate it is in the hands of Senator Sinkler of Charleston. In the house it is in the hands of Representative Hawkins of Greenville.

As you recall this bill is to go into operation July 1, 1915 throughout the State. Section 12 of the bill provides that any district, city, or county may suspend the operation of the law upon the written petition of a majority of the qualified electors residing in said district, aggregation of adjoining districts, city, town, or county.

This is the local option feature of the measure. Suspension is not to be less than one year, or more than two years, and renewal may be secured upon a petition signed by a majority of the qualified electors as before.

I believe sincerely in the principle of Democratic local self-government. I am willing for the people of any district or county to decide upon the operation of the law, if they do not desire compulsory attendance. In my opinion, this petition places the responsibility of non-attendance upon the opponents of the principle.

If you believe that this proposed bill in its local option feature retains local action in your county, and will help your schools, please write immediately, expressing your opinion in full to Gov. Manning. If you can send me a copy of the letter, I shall appreciate your courtesy.

O. P. Cole, one of Anderson county's oldest and most respected citizens, died at his home near Townville Tuesday morning, January 26, 1915, of infirmities of age. The funeral services, and burial took place the following day at Double Springs Baptist church, and was attended by a large concourse of relatives and friends, who had loved him while living. The services were conducted by Revs. Leathers and Hawkins. While his death was not unexpected owing to his age and feeble condition, yet the announcement of it sent a thrill of sorrow to his friends.

His life was an open book, and he probably came as near having no enemies as any man. As he was faithful in life and faithful to his Master he has doubtless heard the welcome plaudit, "Well done, good and faithful servant; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

Mr. Cole was born in Spartanburg County about 92 years ago and came to Anderson County when quite a boy with the family of his father where he resided till his death.

He was united in marriage on October, 1843, with Miss Amanda A. Brown, daughter of Larkin Brown, who having preceded him to the grave 16 years.

He had been a devoted member of Double Springs Baptist church 22 years. Mr. Cole is survived by one brother, two sisters, six daughters and two sons. Two sons having preceded him in death.

Mr. Cole enlisted in the Confederate army at Sandy Springs some time in 1864 in Co. E, second battalion under Captain B. F. Dickson. He was discharged in the early spring of 1865.
