Did you ever notice our Electric Sign? No doubt you have. Most everybody has noticed it. Has most everybody noticed your sign? And are there a great many people who can positively remember to have seen your sign at all? Why not make it attractive enough to be remembered—attractive enough to draw trade—attractive enough to indicate your desire to be progressive—attractive enough to show people that you wish to attract them—that you want their attention and trade.

We would like to talk Electric Signs with you.

GINNER'S REPORT

On What Market Movements Were Based

Washington, Jan. 23.—The ninth cotton ginning report of the Census Bureau for the season, issued at 10 o'clock Friday morning, announced that 12,589,171 bales of cotton counting round as half bales, of the growth of 1913 has been figured prior to January 16, to which date during the past seven years the ginning averaged 95.5 per cent of the entire crop. Last year to January 16, there had been ginned 13,088,930 bales, or 97.0 per cent of the entire crop; in 1911 to that date 14,515,799 bales or 93.3 per cent, and in 1908 to that date 12,666,203 bales, or 96.8 per cent.

Included in the ginnings were 97,034 round bales, compared with 78,650 bales last year, 97,664 bales in 1911, 111,979 bales in 1910 and 232,510 bales in 1909.

The number of Sea Island cotton bales included were 76,182, compared with 70,758 bales last year, 109,867 bales in 1912 and 92,191 bales in 1909.

Dun's Weekly Report

New York, Jan. 23.—Dun's weekly review of trade tomorrow will say: While there is tangible evidence of continued expansion in general business, the betterment is not entirely uniform. Advances from leading centers are rather mixed, yet favorable reports outnumber those of an opposite character and sentiment is more confident.

In the important iron and steel industry, the belief is strengthening that the turning point has about been reached, although it is not expected that the recovery from the previous depression will be rapid. Labor, however, is more fully employed; mill operations have increased and even if there has been no advance in prices, further concessions are not so frequent. The former policy of the railroads in holding back contracts is somewhat less pronounced and orders and specifications are coming forward with greater freedom than heretofore. Failures this week numbered 469 in the United States against 550 last year, and 48 in Canada compared with 44 a year ago.

Heater's Report

New Orleans, Jan. 23.—Secretary Heater's statement of the visible supply of cotton issued today shows the total visible to be 6,145,585 against 6,103,949 last week and 6,105,861 last year. Of this the total of American cotton is 4,515,585 against 4,547,949 last week and 4,750,861 last year and of all other kinds, including Egypt, Brazil, India, etc., 1,630,000 against 1,561,000 last week and 1,355,000 last year.

Of the world's visible supply of cotton there is now afloat and held in Great Britain and continental Europe 3,109,000 against 3,497,000 last year; in Egypt 374,000 against 329,000 last year; in India 679,000 against 627,000 last year and in the United States 1,984,000 against 1,663,000 last year.

New York Cotton

New York, Jan. 23.—Cotton was lower today. Recent buyers seemed to be unsettled by the census report, showing 12,589,000 bales ginned to Jan. 16, and there was considerable scattering of bids. An early loss was followed by rallies, but prices weakened again in late trading and closed barely steady at a net decline of 12 1/2 cents.

New Orleans Cotton

New Orleans, Jan. 23.—Heavier ginning than was expected caused a decline of nearly a dollar a bale in the cotton market today, partly destroyed the good tone that has ruled of late, and caused considerable liquidation of long cotton. The market closed at practically the lowest of the day. The census bureau's report, that 256,000 bales of cotton were ginned in the period between Jan. 1 and

Jan. 16. The trade expected something around 200,000 bales; even the most bearish forecasts of the report net exceeded 225,000 bales. On the heels of the report came much bearish comment regarding the total yield this season.

Cotton Seed Oil

New York, Jan. 23.—Cotton seed oil liquidation induced by the decline in lard. Toward the close, however, prices rallied slightly on slight offerings of crude and room covering. Sales 11,000 barrels. Closing prices were 2 to 5 points net lower.

Stocks and Bonds

New York, Jan. 23.—Toward the close of Friday's market prices swept upward to the highest level on the present movement, in a few instances gains ran up to two points or more. The undertone was good and the general tendency upward.

Traders sold stocks in the early session, believing that the extent of the rise pointed to reaction. The Administration's anti-trust bills, made public over night, were utilized by bears, who contended that certain features were drastic enough to cause misgivings. This view was not generally adopted. Prices moved back and forth within a comparatively narrow range, until buying broadened sufficiently late in the day to make the forward movement irresistible.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—Wheat showed buoyancy today, notwithstanding evidence of free realizing sales on each fractional advance. Liberal export demand had much to do with sending prices higher. There was a steady close at a gain of 31-3 a 1-2 to 3-8 a 7-8, compared with last night. Corn finished 1-8 to 1-2 up and oats dearer 1-8 a 1-4 to 1-4, but provisions 12 1-2 to 27 1-2 down.

HUMAN BROTHERHOOD.

When Disaster Came All Were Kin and Equality Reigned.

Friends who went through the horrors of the San Francisco earthquake in 1906 and kept their spiritual senses alert tell me that its most poignant experience was not one of horror or of pity, but of the almost miraculous attainment of human brotherhood.

"Just after the disaster, when rich and poor waited in line together for their allowance of bread and milk, I saw," says a friend, "a rich woman from the St. Francis hotel lying asleep on a cot next with her head on a man. A long sable coat was thrown over her and, under one corner of it a young Japanese boy, a perfect stranger to her, was curled up asleep."

"Everybody was everybody's friend, and, though we were all dog tired, there was not a word of complaint or ill nature. To bivouac together in the park and care for each other's babies around fires of driftwood gathered on the beach transformed men and women into defenseless children of the earth, revealed each to each by their innate loveliness.

"Common danger and mutual helpfulness, common misfortune, common work, common confrontation with the elemental, brought a swift achievement of almost ideal brotherhood. A crushing blow made all the world for a time kin."—Atlantic Monthly.

TAKING A PHOTOGRAPH.

So Easy Nowadays That It Positively Paved the Old Time.

"I'm in an organization where the members are expected to furnish the secretary with photographs of themselves."

"Yes?"
"Well, I hadn't been to a photographer's for twenty years. I hated to go. I remembered the old head clamp, and the twisted spine, and the awkward hands, and the depressed chin, and the ally smile. It seemed to me worse than the dentist's. But I had to go. I walked into the photographer's big room like a Christian martyr, and the operator pointed out a chair, and I sat down, and he said, 'That's all.' I asked him to repeat it. He did. Then I got out of the chair and went back to my office."

"Well, I don't feel right about it. It didn't seem to me worth while. I don't think the photographer treated me right. It looked to me as if he had a disagreeable job on his hands and wanted to shirk it. He should have fussed over me more. What do I know about posing? Besides, there wasn't time. 'That's all,' he said, and flipped me out of the chair. They didn't sturb me that way twenty years ago, no, sir!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Made the Most of His Hats.

When Lord Milner held his first reception at Pretoria the officers and legislators were given to understand that frock coats and tall hats were expected of them. There was only one shop in the place in which silk hats were sold, and this had but four of them. The Transvaal legislators rushed off in a body to buy these four, but the hatter, not being used, saw his opportunity in their extremity. He knew there was no time to get hats from anywhere else, so he resolved not to sell. He offered to let them out on hire at the rate of 10 shillings for ten minutes. His shop was closed at hand. Four gentlemen could present themselves before his excellency. After ten minutes they must silently steal away and hand over their hiredinery to another party quartet. It was done, and the hatter still repeats dreamily, as he recalls the moment of his life, "It would not have been fair to have sold them, not fair to my customers and not fair to myself."—London Globe.

"The Corsican Bandit."

Only those who have traveled a good deal in Italy can realize the depth of the resentment that is still felt there at the losses the country suffered through the "Corsican Bandit." The Italians have a saying about the French, "Are the French thieves?" "No, but bona parte a good part of them are." And when a visitor goes to one city after another, sees one building or another that was robbed of its chief treasures by Napoleon, he begins to understand this savage sentiment. It is even stronger in Malta, which island was virtually swept clean of its splendors of medieval and renaissance art by the conqueror. The Maltese lout is all somewhere at the bottom of Alexander's bay, the ship on which Napoleon landed if having fondered there.

Was Tyler's Rebellion

Attempted to fix by statute the wages of agricultural laborers in England were largely responsible for the great revolt of 1831, or "Wat Tyler's rebellion." It represented the despairing effort of landowners to get back to the level of wages before the black death came to make labor dear, but the lord of the manor overruled the mark. He wanted the day wage kept high and cents in a cent a day. Had he put 4 cents in a cent a day, the rebellion there might have been no rebellion.

LISTEN—You will never have another opportunity in this city to build where every one owns his own home, where there are no railroad crossings, shops, warehouses nor anything objectionable, where the homes are all new, all set back 30 feet and none of them to cost less than $1,800—for the simple reason that there is no more vacant land inside the city and you don't want to go outside now.

Two weeks ago when lots like these would have cost $1,500 to $2,500, that might have been advisable, but now since we are selling these at $500 to $1,250 on easy terms "What's the Use?"

Only a few of these lots left, Let us Show You.
