

A MESSAGE TO THE LADIES OF ANDERSON AND VICINITY.

This announcement is for the distinct purpose of calling your attention to the indisputable fact that it is no longer necessary for you to send your money to New York, Philadelphia or Chicago in exchange for WEARING APPAREL, HOUSE FURNISHINGS, JEWELRY, GROCERIES, SHOES, MILLINERY, DRY GOODS, ETC.

It has become a habit with some people to feel that there are certain things they must order through the catalogues which are sent broadcast over the country from the above mentioned cities. There is not a town or community in this state but what is in close proximity to some larger one which has stores that are amply equipped to satisfy needs of its citizens, thereby shutting off this steady stream of money northward—and keeping it in its own section.

GREENVILLE OCCUPIES THAT POSITION IN UPPER CAROLINA.

THE LESSON FOR APRIL 19, 1914.

PREPARED BY DR. Z. T. CODY IN BAPTIST COURIER

The Cost of Disciplesh.

Luke 14:25-35. This lesson brings us to the very essence of Christianity, stated in terms that can hardly be misunderstood. It is the crowning of Christ over one's life. The same truths can be expressed in a great many other ways all of which are good. But when it comes to understanding exactly what it means to become a Christian there is no passage of the Word that will cast a clearer light than our present lesson. And what is it? The crowning of Christ as one's king is becoming a Christian. If one would do this, faith, repentance, justification, regeneration, adoption, sanctification, and assurance will all take care of themselves.

It must be a real crowning. Verses 24-26. At this time Christ was again very popular. Great crowds were gathered in a way that he was a Messiah and was following him. He knew how shallow their thoughts were and how little they understood what they were doing. To take Christ as king then and now did not mean that one was doing an easy thing. It was the very dearest action a man could possibly perform. More of possible sacrifice was involved in it than in any other act. It was virtually becoming the slave of Christ; and surrendering to him so completely that he would be the Director of life and could control it in every single respect whatever the cost.

It is almost impossible to make the human heart understand how deep the surrender is when one surrenders to Christ. Our Saviour himself undertook that task here. His words have often been perverted. He says that if a man came to me and said "follow me," I would not go. What Christ requires man to hate his own father! Now the aim of religious language is not to express a scientific or philosophical definition; but to make the man you are talking to feel the reality of what is said. To do this in those matters where he is almost certain to have too low a conception of the truth, one must go outside of all abstracts. That is to all abstracts. That is to all abstracts. That is to all abstracts.

The meaning of all this is not that Christ will lead a man to hate his people or his friends and suffering. But in becoming a Christian, one surrenders to Christ that he will stand the trials. This is Christianity. When Christ has the power over a man he can make a preacher, or a missionary, or a ship's worker or his or anything else he wishes to. He can put a seal of half or all his life. He can control the man even in those great places in life where all of man's interests, and all the members of his family and all the claims of his life itself are trying to surround the man the other way. The man will follow Christ even when it appears that Christ's commands are against his own family as if the man hated his family and his life.

did when heroes were needed. A man must make a complete surrender to Christ if he wishes to finish successfully his Christian life whatever might be his circumstances and lot. If Christ is not really king there will come a time when Christ is dethroned. To the end of time the beginning of every true Christian life must be in a complete enthronement of the Christ. A man that can't pay this price, can't complete the tower. He may lay the foundation and may get a little of the wall up. But before he finishes, his money will give out and he will become an object of ridicule, and don't like to see a Christian failure. A business bankrupt is bad enough; but that can't always be helped, but the failure of faith calls for nothing but blame.

C. This is or compromise. Verses 31-33. Men who do not make up their minds to let Christ be king over their whole lives may not always come to open failure. Sometimes it is a fearful compromise. They are like the man who says that he is unwilling to go out against the twenty thousand men with only ten thousand, and asks for terms of peace. Those terms are humiliating. But he accepts them and retains a nominal Christianity. The application is to give a sample: A man becomes a nominal Christian; the day comes when his religion begins to march against him with "twenty thousand men" to get a tenth of his income or to make him regulate his getting of money by the laws of Christ, or to make him a courageous citizen in the fight for civil righteousness. Two men seeing his religion thus coming gets frightened, and seeks a compromise. That is he finds the way of believing that a man can be a Christian, and yet not do what the Christian religion requires that he do. He nominally remains a Christian and it is not seen that he has made a complete failure. But he may have money to build more than the foundation of his house.

3. This is offering. Verse 24-31. The favor of salt in this crowning of Christ in our hearts or hearts. It is not done or only partly done if the outward life will have the name Christian. It will look like salt but the reality is not there. And salt without its favor is about the most worthless thing on earth. The man who starts out in a religious life on half a Christian basis, may have the appearance for a long time of living well; but it is to be doubted if he ever exerts a true and saving and helpful influence. The only kind of a life that acts with a powerful influence is that which is a complete surrender to Christ. This is Christianity. When Christ has the power over a man he can make a preacher, or a missionary, or a ship's worker or his or anything else he wishes to. He can put a seal of half or all his life. He can control the man even in those great places in life where all of man's interests, and all the members of his family and all the claims of his life itself are trying to surround the man the other way. a compromise. Now, Christ did not say this. He was not considering that question. A man who does not begin it is certainly lost. What Christ teaches is that he is not any better off than if he had not begun. The lesson is to begin and go right.

DR. FRAZER'S PRAYER

Beautiful Invocation Offered at Dedication of Elks Home

Following in his beautiful prayer made yesterday afternoon by the Rev. Dr. W. H. Frazer, on the occasion of the laying of the cornerstone of the Elks Home:

THE FIRST COMPANY

Butler Guards as the First to Enter The Confederacy.

Last Saturday the veterans of Camp Crittendon had their reunion at Piedmont. Mr. W. T. Shumate, who formerly lived in Greenville, was invited but could not attend. Mr. Shumate bears the distinction of being the first man to march out as a Confederate soldier. In expressing his regret at being unable to attend, Mr. Shumate wrote the following letter to a comrade:

Watauga, Ga., April 6, 1914. Dear Robert: I wrote you a few days ago and received the enclosed clipping. I do wish I could be with you to meet the old Confederates on the 15th inst., but alas, I am far away and feeble, and will soon cross over the river and rest with the Confederates who have gone before. I am sure you will have a good time talking about the battles and the good outside we had in camp and on the march. How I do wish I could be with you to fight the battles over again.

TYPICAL NEWSPAPER COMMENT ON THE REDPATH CHAUTAUQUA OF 1913

The Tri-City Daily, Florence, Ala., says: "Florence has been captured entirely by the Redpath Chautauqua and it is a safe bet that the chautauqua will not be allowed to pass this city by in the future."

In an editorial in the Albany, Ga., Herald this statement is made: "Thru this big organization with a string of 110 chautauquas scheduled we were enabled to have attractions that we could not have secured for a single assembly."

The Dyersburg, Tenn., State Gazette said editorially: "We will all be sorry when it becomes necessary for them to fold their tents, but unlike the Arabs it will not be necessary for them to steal away."

The Clarksville, Tenn., Leaf-Chronicle "Now that our good people know from actual experience just what are the possibilities of the Chautauqua movement they are unanimously agreed as to its great helpfulness to a community."

The Birmingham, Ala., Age-Herald says: "The tent which holds over 2000 persons was well filled when the performance began last night and altho the weather was hot every part of the program was received with much enthusiasm. Indications are that from now on large crowds will patronize the chautauqua performances. The Redpath agency which is giving the program is well known as one of the foremost booking agencies of the world."

The Alpena, Mich., Echo: "When Mr. Rheinfrank asked those of the audience who would like a chautauqua in Alpena next year to stand, the entire audience arose. It was necessary to call an imposing vote."

The Battle Creek, Mich., Enquirer: "The Best Ever Chautauqua grows more popular with each succeeding entertainment."

The Gary, Ind., Post: "It is doubtful if any chautauqua in any city has ever had such overwhelming success during its first year as the Redpath Chautauqua had here during its present engagement."

CHAUTAUQUA WEEK HERE APRIL 28th to MAY 4th.

many challenges will be exercised before twelve men are seated in the jury box. Solicitor A. E. Hill is one of the city and will not return until Wednesday or Thursday, but it is said that he is ready for the trial and it is believed that he has built up a strong case. Though no announcement has yet been made that Attorney Alvin H. Dean of Greenville, will have any assistance in conducting Eric Pendleton's case, it is being rumored that another prominent lawyer of this section or the state, will be connected with the defense. Both defendants are said to be bearing up well under the strain, and their confinement in the county jail is reported to have had little effect on their demeanor. It is expected that a number of relatives of the youthful defendants will be present at the trial.

Several other cases of criminal intent will be called at this session of the court, among these cases of three men accused of taking part in the attack on the county jail last summer when an attempt was made to reach Will Pace, State Senator charged with murdering James H. Hays, a justice of the peace, and a number of other persons, who were shot and killed. The coming session of the general sessions court is expected to be the most largely attended in the history of the county because of the notable cases, which will come up for trial.
