The Weather.

Washington, June 10.—South Carolina—Local thundershowers Thursday and probably Friday.

Welcome little showers, call again, and often.

The coal miner seems to be in danger all the time, whether at work or on strike.

Suppose a suff shoud run for office and the man at home should fall to support her.

Many a chap has enlisted in the navy while on a spree, will be more particular hereafter.

Huerta seems to forget that some peope, like stenographers, do not take dictation well.

It will be observed that it was the "Pilgrim" class in an Atlanta church that walked out.

In Paris snow is two inches deep—and Col. Roosevelt didn't send out that report either.

Will Secretary Daniels allow his new dreaughts to hand out the punch from the port side?

The old mill race remains cool and mossy while all other races show the effects of the weather and politics.

It is putting too much responsibility on a suffragette to ask her to sit on a jury, when the jury fashions are not yet out.

If the United States is to pay the expenses of the Mexican campaign, the sooner it ends the better for the regional reserve.

Tango teachers in Atlanta have been too light of finger as well as toe, it is alleged. Some are in jail charged with picking pockets.

The people who keep harping on the party platform are like the man who is always reminding his wife of the promise to love, honor and OBEY.

Tom Watson's writings must have some effect in Jaw-Jaw. A Catholic coach at Mercer University has been released by the athletics committee.

Some one has nominated Colonel Roosevelt for president of Mexico. All that is necessary is a second to the nomination and Teddy will take the job.

We are going to pay Colombia a large indemnity for Teddy's stealing the canal zone. Why not let Mexico pay Colombia and settle the whole business?

Some towns that have major league baseball teams should not quarrel because they have no regional reserve banks. All the good things should not go to a few.

After all the committee checking up the petitions for dispensary tomorrow might find something with a little mint in it very refreshing these hot days. Ice tea, for instance.

Our Columbia correspondent says that Andrew J. Bethea will make a "formidable candidate" for lieutenant governor. He will have to be a holy terror to get any votes in this neck of the woods.

Unassisted Gov. Blaise executed a trip-le play in naming the new county treasurer. It gives the city another citizen, recognizes the fidelity of a political friend and finally puts a good man, Dr. Tripp, in public office.

Information to Democrats

The State Democratic convention has declared existing rules of Democratic clubs null and void.

Democrats must re-enroll themselves on the book of the club district in which they reside in order to vote in the primary next August.

White Democrats, 21 years of age (or those who will reach that age before the succeeding general election), who have been residents of the state for two years and of the county for six months prior to the succeeding general election and of the club district 60 days prior to the first primary following their offer to enroll are entitled to enroll in the book of their club district to vote in the primary election, provided they are citizens of the United States and of South Carolina.

The book of enrollment for each Democratic club in the State will be opened by the secretary of the club on or before the second Tuesday in June, 1914.

Democrats who wish to enroll in order to vote in the primary elections must present themselves in person to the secretary and sign the roll, giving their age, occupation and postoffice address (and street and number of their house where these designations exist.)

In case he is unable to write, the applicant for enrollment must make his mark on the book of the club district in which he resides, and the secretary will put his name on the book.

Notice will be given by the county chairmen of the names of the secretaries of clubs and where books of enrollment are to be opened.

The books of enrollment will be closed and filed with the county chairmen on the last Tuesday in July.

NEW CITIZENS

The Intelligencer announces with pleasure the addition of two capable young men to its staff. Mr. C. M. Waynick of Greensboro, N. C., has arrived to take the position of telegraph editor; and Mr. W. G. Gray is to be in charge of the advertising department. Mr. Gray is no stranger here as he worked up the advertising features for the reunion number of this paper. He is an experienced man and for several years was the advertising manager of the Spartanburg Journal before the consolidation of the paper with the Herald. Mr. Gray's friends in Anderson will learn with regret that he has again been summoned to his home in Laurens county by illness in his family, as he had just returned from the bedside of a little one that had been very ill but was recovering.

While quite a young man Mr. Waynick is a trained and experienced newspaper worker. His collegiate training was received at the University of North Carolina and he worked for three years as city editor of the Greensboro Record. Later he was with the Observer Company and when the Charlotte Chronicle was sold to the News it enabled The Intelligencer to secure the services of this talented and experienced newspaper worker.

John Kasmark, the young Associated Press operator of this office who has made numerous friends in this city was quite a star on the V. M. C. A. baseball club, has gone to New Orleans to accept a fine position with the Associated Press and he intends to work his way out to the Pacific coast. He is succeeded by an experienced operator, Mr. C. L. Burkette, who has taken the Phillips code in some of the best papers in the south, and has come to make Anderson his home.

L. E. GEER, LL. D.

An Anderson man was highly honored by the board of trustees of Furman University at the recent annual meeting. The Baptist Courier says: Henceforth, it is Dr. L. E. Geer. At its recent annual meeting the Board of Trustees of Furman University conferred upon this honored alumnus, former professor, useful citizen, and successful manufacturer, the honorary degree of Doctor of Letters. It is an honor and dignity that will be the most worthily won, as it is one that has long been merited.

No compliment could have been more worthily bestowed. Prof. Geer has been a power in the upbuilding of Furman university and now he is a great factor in the commercial development of Greenville. The college which he served with such distinction has done itself honor to compliment him in this manner.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

We should pay as much reverence to youth as we do to age; there are points in which you young folks are altogether our superiors, and I can't help constantly crying out to people of my own years, when bused about their young people—leave them alone; don't be always meddling with their affairs, which they can manage for themselves; don't always be insisting on managing their boats and putting your oars in the water with theirs.—Thackeray.

Unassisted Gov. Blaise executed a trip-le play in naming the new county treasurer. It gives the city another citizen, recognizes the fidelity of a political friend and finally puts a good man, Dr. Tripp, in public office.

RAILROADS AS BOOSTERS

While people do not approve of everything that the railroads do and some are too ready to censure the various lines on the slightest provocation, or upon no provocation at all, yet it must be admitted that the lines operating through the Southern States are accomplishing much in the way of advertising and building up the south.

The agricultural train which is soon to be operated by the Atlantic Coast Line railway, will be a great "booster" medium for this section of the country and it behooves Anderson people to aid with the undertaking as much as possible. It is the duty of every Anderson farmer, raising native forage, alfalfa, small grain, fruits, vegetables, etc., to preserve his choicest specimens and offer them to the railroad for this trip.

The Atlantic Coast Agricultural Department is putting up an exhibit of farm products, vegetables, fruits, tobacco, cotton, grains and forage of all kinds, grown in Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama, to be shown this summer and fall at a number of the large fairs in the states of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, in sections not so favored by nature, climatically, as is "The Nation's Garden Spot."

A representative of the Agricultural Department of the Atlantic Coast Line has just returned from a trip through the East and North where space was contracted for at eight mammoth fairs, and he reports great interests manifested, and that the exhibit will be viewed by more than a million people.

Handsome illustrative literature descriptive of the climate, soils, crops and resources of the states of Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama, will be freely distributed.

This kind of advertising has real educational value. It reaches the people, and it should result in bringing many good home-seekers into Anderson.

A GREAT OPPORTUNITY

We learn from Capt. William Laughlin that Porter A. Whaley, secretary of the Anderson chamber of commerce was entrusted with a big task by the convention of Southern Commercial secretaries. Mr. Whaley was assigned the duty of preparing a plan for marketing the crops of the South, the plan to be discussed at the next meeting and this or some one similar to be adopted and recommended to the law making bodies of the South.

The people of the South have long since learned to make crops, the only trouble now is how to market them. There has been so much waste and loss in the past that the people are discouraged from attempting certain lines of endeavor. Mr. Whaley will make a close analysis of conditions and will appreciate all the advice and suggestions that thoughtful people may offer.

SECOND MONUMENT TO WOMEN OF SOUTH

Old North State Follows South Carolina in Doing Honor—Home Statue Unveiled

Raleigh, N. C., June 10.—A monument to the North Carolina Women of the Confederacy was unveiled here today. It is the second tribute of the south to its women of the Confederacy, a similar monument having been erected by the State of South Carolina. Members of the North Carolina division of the United Confederate veterans and scores of prominent men and women from this and other states witnessed the ceremonies.

The memorial was made possible through the gift from the late Ashley Horne, who served as a Confederate soldier throughout the war between the states. As a member of the state legislature from Johnston county, he introduced a measure providing for the erection of a statue by the state. Failing to elicit the necessary support, he gave 10,000 and accepted plans for the monument before his death in October, 1913. The monument stands on the south side of Capitol Square midway between Fayetteville and Salisbury street. On the southern side, in his relief is a grandmother in a sitting position, with a book in her lap. The woman is relating the story of the civil war to her grandson, who grasps the hilt of his father's sword.

On the eastern side is a bas relief representing the Confederate soldier going to war. His return in an emaciated condition and ragged, but welcomed by the Women of the Confederacy, is depicted on the western side. The monument is inscribed "To the North Carolina Women of the Confederacy"

J. A. Long, chairman of the monument committee, presided over today's ceremonies, which began in the local auditorium and were concluded at the site of the monument. The principal address of the occasion was delivered by Dr. Daniel Harvey Hill, son of Col. D. H. Hill, who commanded the first North Carolina regiment in the battle of Bethel, 53 years ago today.

The court square where the unveiling took place, was crowded with members of the North Carolina division Confederate Veterans, commanded by General Julian S. Carr, of Durham, and other spectators. Ashley Horne, the young grandson of the donor of the monument, drew the veil from the statue after which an appropriate poem was read by Dr. Henry J. Stockard, Chairman Long, formally presented the memorial to the State of North Carolina, in a short address, which was responded to by Gov. Locke Craig in behalf of the state.

AFFIRMED AND DENIED

Washington Denies That Uncle Sam Wants to Go Trouble. (By Associated Press.)

London, June 10.—A newspaper dispatch from Vienna today says George Fred Williams, American minister to Greece, has sent a circular to the representatives of the European powers informing them that the government of the United States is ready to offer its good offices for the restoration of peace in Albania. The information was published by a newspaper in Athens.

The Moslem insurgents in Albania refuse to recognize Prince William of Wied, as their ruler and demand the selection of a Moslem prince. Recently they came into armed conflict with the government forces in which they defeated, but afterwards were routed in the vicinity of Tirana, to the east of Durazzo, the Alban capital.

Washington, June 10.—Minister Williams was authorized by the state department a week ago to go from Athens to Epirus and Albania to make personal investigation of conditions in the new state.

It was said at the department that Mr. Williams had no instructions to circulate the services of the United States as a mediator in the Albanian troubles, and officials did not believe the minister had taken any such action on his own account. It was explained that the department felt safe in directing an investigation and report on conditions, but that there was "no political purpose whatever" in the minister's journey.

The ministers of the city are especially invited to attend the production of Samson at the Bijou today.

EFFECT OF LIGHTNING

Tree Struck Near the Home of Mrs. Nancy Bolt at Prospect. Mr. W. Lewis Bolt yesterday afternoon received a telephone message from the home of his mother, Mrs. Nancy M. Bolt, of Prospect, saying that lightning had struck a big persimmon tree in the stock lot and had killed a three-hundred pound hog belonging to J. R. Bolt and some of Mrs. Bolt's chickens. The tree is about 25 yards from the residence, but as far as could be learned none of the family suffered from the lightning. Mrs. Bolt is 81 years old and is one of the most beloved women in that whole section and all will be glad to learn that no more damage was done. The storm was mostly wind and electricity and the rainfall was light. Mr. William Bolt, who lives beyond Prospect, toward Fortman, has been very ill for some time, but is better. He is 86 years old. His friends were worried about him, but will be pleased to know that he is getting better. The price of your admission will be refunded if you are not satisfied with Samson at the Bijou today.
