The Weather.

South Carolina: Fair Thursday and Friday.

If you are not the boss, whose fault is it?

Get on the band wagon. Anderson isn't your town if you are a quitter.

If you are nothing more than a ditch digger, in heaven's name be a good one.

Everybody sympathizes with success. And success is nothing more than perfection in your work.

Booker T. Washington advises the negroes to "raise a pig." That sounds all right, but where is the pig?

If you are one of the few who are doubtful about the Belton Fair; go over and see it for yourself next year.

"The Man of the Hour" may have been alright in his day, but it's "the Man of the Minute" who is the much desired article today.

It is easy enough to wish that you were the President of the United States but would you hold the job down if you had it?

By the way, what is your recreation? Boozing, fighting and late hours, or a quiet evening with your family and friends?

No, there is no demand for lazy men. From the time of Adam, the world has had more of these things than they wanted.

If you don't like the thing, you are working at, get out. Man is inconsistent enough as it is, but if you are trying to build something you utterly despise, you are inconsistency itself.

A man's size job would make something worth while out of some people we know, but they can't fill a boy's size job well enough to rise up from the small things.

OUR DAILY POEM

The man who wins is an average man Not built on any peculiar plan. Not blessed with any particular luck, Not steady and earnest and full of pluck.

THE BELTON FAIR

The Intelligencer desires to take this opportunity to congratulate the public spirited citizens of Belton on the splendid fair held there yesterday.

One cannot but think what are the possibilities of a fair spirit such as was evidenced at Belton yesterday. Give these exhibitors a fair ground and buildings in which to hold their fair, with accommodations for their poultry, live stock and farm products.

While we are making suggestions as to this matter, we would not overlook that one relative to a great Piedmont fair for Anderson and adjoining counties. The location of this should be at the county seat, but there need be no conflict in these two fairs.

H. M. GEER

There was a note of sadness at Belton yesterday on account of the fact that Mr. H. M. Geer was not out mingling with his friends and enjoying the splendid success of the fair.

EDITOR WAS TOO BUSY.

The absence of an editorial on the cotton situation, and on the war in Europe, may be noticed in this issue of the Intelligencer, but the truth of the matter is that we have been too much interested in the Belton fair to note there is such a thing as an extra session of the legislature or a war in Europe.

Royal Raiment

It is autumn queen of season, now? Her bluish garments allure. She has some claims, we must allow She wears the purple sure.

War Item.

One of the few good things we have heard about the war is that the Apaches of Paris are being sent to the front.

EPISCOPAL WORKERS HEAR DISCUSSIONS

SECOND DAY OF GREENVILLE CONVOCATION

AUXILIARY WORK

Celebration of The Holy Eucharist Marked Opening of the Morning Session.

The first meeting of the Woman's auxiliary of the Episcopal church, for this district, was held yesterday morning with Grace church in Anderson in connection with the Greenville convocation.

The celebration of the Holy Eucharist, conducted by Rev. J. Halsey Gibbons, rector of Grace church, and assisted by the Dea and the convocation, Rev. A. B. Mitchell, marked the opening of the day's exercises.

Following the conclusion of this service the auxiliary was called to order by the president of the regular order of business was begun.

A few preliminary remarks were made by the president of the auxiliary and the opening announcements were made, following which the question of how an adult auxiliary class should be conducted was taken up and discussed at length.

The afternoon session was full of interesting discussions and every member present gained some helpful and valuable knowledge from the suggestions and ideas advanced by other members.

One of the decided features of the day for the Women's Auxiliary was the annual sermon, preached to that body last night by Rev. Charles W. Boyd, rector of the Church of Our Saviour, of Rock Hill.

The people of the city are taking a great interest in the proceedings of the body now in session and are attending all of the services open to the public.

Letters From The People

The South Can Do Them Both

MR. EDITOR: In view of the fact that you have called attention to the plan to relieve the cotton situation...

The writer has for many years favored diversified farming, and many of our Anderson farmers will remember a talk that is made in the court house before one of their meetings along this line some years ago.

Some months ago before there were any war clouds and when the outlook on every side, from a business standpoint, was bright and hopeful, one morning before rising from his bed this thought crossed the mind of the writer.

With our splendid climate, length of season and fertile soil, our water powers and industrial development that must grow out of them, and our sturdy citizenship, it seems to us that eventually the South, and especially the Piedmont section of the South, will come to be the garden spot of the United States.

So, away with pessimism and gloomy apprehensions for it may be that the loss we are having to sustain on cotton will teach us the great lesson that the South has been too dependent on cotton, and lead us to grow other crops with the same interest and zeal that we have bestowed on cotton.

B. F. MAULDIN.

Should Produce What Others Need

MR. EDITOR: The present conditions, growing out of the low price of cotton—and the problems which these conditions present, bring to my mind a conversation I had once with Col. W. S. Pickens, a fine old citizen of our county, unknown perhaps to the present generation, but well known to and respected by those of older years.

We were sitting one day on his piazza when the conversation turned on the situation which confronted the country at the close of the Civil War; a condition well known to both of us, as we had lived through it. He remarked that he discovered soon after the war that the people had gone wild on the subject of planting cotton. Thereupon he determined that he would raise what his neighbors did not. So he planted corn, wheat, oats and peas, and raised pigs, colts, sheep and cattle. He always had something to sell which his neighbors didn't have—and so he prospered—while his neighbors who planted cotton had hard times.

The lesson is obvious. It may seem an impertinence on my part to be advising the farmers what they should do—but I thought, that, perhaps, this object lesson might be of some value.

Yours truly, M. L. BONHAM.

DECLINED TO GO OR SEND DELEGATE

Commission Called on Gen. Carranza and Invited Him to Attend Convention.

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Prompt withdrawal of American forces at Vera Cruz was foreshadowed today by the Aguas Calientes conference's approval of American requests that Mexicans who served the United States there be given protection.

The state department received word that the convention had instructed General Carranza to comply with the American government's requests. He will issue a proclamation covering the various points involved.

It is not known just when the troops and ships will be ordered from Vera Cruz, but it was intimated that the action of the United States would be taken irrespective of the deliberations of the convention on the question of a provisional government.

Reports that General Villa had moved an army within threatening distance of the convention were not credited by administration officials.

Carranza Declines. MEXICO CITY, Oct. 21.—General Obregon headed a commission today which called on General Carranza and invited him to attend the Aguas Calientes convention and sign an agreement to abide by its decisions.

General Carranza declined to go or send a delegate. He reserved the right to approve or disapprove the final acts of the convention, maintaining that the sovereign power of the state rests with him alone until his successor as head of the government is elected.

Asks Safety For Delegates. EL PASO, TEXAS, Oct. 21.—General Obregon, as head of the Carranza commission, has presented a resolution before the Aguas Calientes convention asking for guarantees of safety for all delegates and recommending that the convention be removed to "a safer place."

This information was received today in an official message from Mexico City confirming the fears of the Carranza government that its delegates either have been arrested or threatened with imprisonment by the Villa faction.

DOUGLAS, ARIZ., Oct. 21.—Efforts of the Aguas Calientes peace conference to end hostilities between General Hill and Governor Maytorena failed today. General Hill, it was said, refused to recognize the authority of the convention. His reason, according to General Sosa, the mediator, was that the convention was subject to the dictates of Villa. Sosa left Hill's headquarters today.

ANOTHER CONFERENCE WITHOUT RESULTS

Bankers Identified With $150,000,000 Cotton Pool Hold Another Meeting.

(By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Another conference of bankers identified with the proposed $150,000,000 cotton pool intended to ease financial conditions in the South was held here today, but without definite results.

It is understood the latest plan calls for two classes of warehouse certificates. One is to be taken by banks of the North and West on the basis of cotton at four and one-half cents a pound; the other is to be accepted by Southern bankers on the basis of six cents cotton.

Several local banking institutions have pledged themselves to some cotton relief movement and stand ready to subscribe one-third, $50,000,000, if a plan acceptable to all interests can be formulated.

Kill Reduction Bill. AUSTIN, TEXAS, Oct. 21.—Governor O. B. Colquitt sent a final message to the extra session of the Texas legislature today stating he believes a moratorium now is the only way to save Texas farmers from ruin as a result of the cotton situation. He added that he does not expect the extra session to pass such a law.

The extra session called to consider cotton relief has killed cotton acreage reduction proposals and a bill to establish a central State bank with $20,000,000 capital. Preparations to adjourn the session tomorrow are under way.

This is the second extra session, the first having enacted a cotton warehouse law whereby the State backs warehouse receipts.

Superfluous Adornment. "You can't paint the lily." "Plenty of girls are trying to, though."

No Taxes Through Senator Sullivan, Hail Sufferers Here Will Be Relieved of Payment. Some days ago Guy Norris, a well known Anderson county farmer and other farmers of the county took up with the members of the House from Anderson county the question of relieving the tax payers in the portion of the county this year from the payment of taxes. Mr. Norris wrote to Representative Hall and asked his assistance in the matter, but received no promise of encouragement. Yesterday Mr. Norris received the following letter from Senator G. W. Sullivan: October 18, 1914. Mr. Guy Norris, Anderson, S. C. Dear Sir: A bill came to the Senate from the House, relieving the tax payers of Laurens county from the payment of taxes this year in the section where the crops were destroyed by hail. I thought as soon as I read the bill of you and a few other Anderson County citizens having your crops ruined this year, so I added Anderson county people. I remember reading in an Anderson paper that you, Mr. Parker and Mr. McLean and others were victims of the storm. It seems that our delegation in the House did not think of you when the bill was being discussed over there but my action takes care of you as to State and County taxes, and all except the Constitutional tax and all special school tax. You can let treasurer know and inform all who were injured by the hail. Yours truly, G. W. SULLIVAN. A majority of those suffering from the hail storms lived in the Long Branch section and in Martin, Hall and Varena townships. They will all appreciate the action of the Anderson county Senator. Horses Wanted. I will be at the Fretwell Company's stables Thursday, Oct. 22, to buy 200 horses. A. E. Arnold. Our College Gate Closed.
