Reserve Banks Should Open At Earliest Possible Date

Southern Bankers Are Particularly Anxious for an Early Opening Because of Assistance They Might Give in Taking Care of Cotton Crop.

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Directors and governors of the 12 federal reserve banks today refused to support the proposal of Secretary McAdoo to open the new banking system for business November 16. By a vote of 37 to 35 they recommended that the opening be set for November 30.

The action has no binding effect upon the reserve board or upon Mr. McAdoo, for the currency act gives the secretary authority to open the banks when he believes they are ready to do business. It was evident tonight that members of the board were not pleased with the recommendation of the banks, and it is possible a meeting of the board within the next few days will develop sufficient sentiment to bring a vote asking the secretary to name a date earlier than November 30.

Discussion of the opening was taken up immediately after the bankers returned from the White House, where President Wilson declared his belief that the best thing for the country was to open the banks at the earliest possible date.

Some of the Southern bankers were particularly anxious for an early opening because of the assistance the federal banks might give in taking care of the cotton crop.

It was said tonight the directors would go home tomorrow and begin work preliminary to opening. If the reserve board later finds that there is every reason to believe a simultaneous opening on November 16 or November 20 can be accomplished in spite of opinions to the contrary expressed here today, the date will be fixed. The board already has voted to open all the banks at the same time, but it is possible that this decision will be changed if any special reasons are discovered to make opening on the part of the banks before the rest, desirable.

The conference today devoted much time to hearing reports of committees. The one in charge of a definition of commercial paper, regarded by many bankers as of first importance, recommended in a general way a broad definition of such paper, but decided to continue its work further.

INVENTOR TELLS OF HIS COTTON MACHINE

SAYS THAT IT IS FEASIBLE FOR WORK

WILL PICK COTTON

Has Been Demonstrated in Columbia and Has Actually Been Able to Deliver Goods.

For several days W. K. Dana of Westbrook, Maine, has been in Anderson county as the guest of J. J. Fretwell and other friends. Mr. Dana is in the South for the purpose of testing and demonstrating his cotton picking machine and indications are that Mr. Dana now has a machine to deliver the goods. While in Anderson he talked very interestingly of the possibilities of the machine invented by him.

"I feel very happy today, because I believe that I have succeeded after 25 years' work," said Mr. Dana. Just before leaving Columbia for Fairwood farms, where his cotton harvesting machine was to be given a tryout. The demonstration was given in a large cotton field, well fruited, at Fairwood and was under the direction of James B. Knowlton of Westbrook, expert engineer of the Knowlton Machine company. The machine which has been built by Mr. Dana is one of the 600 cotton pickers that have been patented under the United States laws. Mr. Dana believes that he has solved the problem that has so long baffled the farmers of the South. He said yesterday that the cotton planters would no longer have to worry about cotton pickers.

In a great many ways Mr. Dana has a right to feel proud of his invention. He has taken a long step in the right direction and his machine has many commendable qualities. It will pick cotton. It will pick cotton quickly.

"Mechanically it is all right. It will certainly pick cotton. It will do all that is claimed. However, I can say nothing as to its economical value. I don't know the cost of operation," said W. W. Long, State agent of the United States farm demonstration work, who was among the spectators at the demonstration yesterday.

Commissioner Watson was among those to investigate the machine. He thought the machine one of the most practical ever built, but objected to the trash in some of the cotton. "That's one obstacle that you must overcome to have a successful cotton picker," said the commissioner, after pointing to some trash in the machine. In answer to this objection, Mr. Dana said that expert help was required to operate the machine, and that when pickers became accustomed to the use of the hose the cotton was practically free of dead leaves.

A careful test was given yesterday as to the mechanical possibilities of the machine. No demonstrations were made as to the cost of operation. Mr. Dana claims that the machine is much cheaper than the hand pickers.

The machine which was exhibited yesterday has been gradually assembled by Mr. Dana. Each part has been tested and improvements have been made from time to time. The machine is not a fair sample of the ordinary farm. The demonstration machine weighs 6,000 pounds and has cost to date about $1,600.

A brief description of the machine follows: It is about 12 feet long, eight feet high and resembles a traction engine. The wheels straddle a cotton row. The machine is operated by gasoline and an engineer is required. There are four tubes or sets of hose. These tubes are about two inches in diameter and on the end of each is a kind of nozzle, resembling a fire hose. There is a compressed air engine on the machine which sucks the cotton through the hose. There is a revolving ring or sac a hose with small teeth. The nozzle is applied to a cotton boll. The cotton is immediately sucked out and carried through the hose to several bags attached to the machine. Four pickers operating the nozzles clean that row at a time. It is claimed that the machine will pick about 2,400 pounds a day. The bolts are picked clean. One-fourth of a gallon of gasoline per hour is required for the operation of the engine.

"I expect to build a three nozzle machine. The engine can pick when he is not moving the machine. This machine will weigh about 500 pounds and will not be expensive," said Mr. Dana yesterday.

German Cruiser Sinking Steamers

(By Associated Press.) LONDON, Oct. 21.—The German cruiser Emden again has been sinking British steamers, this time at a point 150 miles southwest of Cochin, British India, according to a report received by the admiralty from Colombo, Ceylon. The Emden sent to the bottom the British steamers Chikana, Troilus, Benmore and Cien Grant, and the dredger Ponrabble, bound for Tasmania. The British steamers Exford and St. Egbert were captured by the Emden. Passengers and crews of both the St. Egbert and Exford have arrived at Cochin on the St. Egbert, according to Lloyd's Cochin agent.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK WILL BE REORGANIZED

ASSOCIATION HERE TO BE REVIVED

IS AGAIN ACTIVE

Workers Now Planning for the Annual County Convention, To Be Held in November.

It will be a matter of interest to all Sunday School workers in Anderson county to know that the County association has been reorganized, and is planning to hold its regular convention here on November 15 and 16.

Rev. J. E. Wallace, formerly of Pelzer, now of Seneca, was president of this association three years ago, and when he left the county the work became disorganized. Last May, Rev. J. C. Carman, the new State superintendent of the Sunday School association, made a visit to Anderson for the purpose of reorganizing this work in Anderson county. At the meeting held in the Baptist church while he was here, Rev. D. Witherspoon Dodge, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church of Anderson, was elected chairman of the local committee to make arrangements for the convention. He and Dr. A. L. Strothers, member of the State executive committee, have been pushing the work and have about completed a very attractive program.

On this program are Rev. John C. Carman, State superintendent, whose addresses last February were among his best features; Rev. W. H. K. Pendleton of Spartanburg, chairman of the State executive committee; Rev. Jas. S. Maffett, D. D., president of Erskine college and Rev. J. B. Green, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Greenwood. In addition to these popular speakers, there is a great deal of time given to practical conference work, up-to-date methods in Sunday school work and so forth.

The schools of the county are looking forward to a helpful convention, and many of them will send full delegations to attend its meetings.

FINAL ARRANGEMENTS FOR THIS YEAR'S ARMY-NAVY FOOTBALL GAME COMPLETED

(By Associated Press.) PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21.—Final arrangements for this year's Army-Navy football game were completed here today. The contest will be held on Franklin Field November 23.

Army and Navy representatives today agreed to accept 11,500 seats each. This leaves between seven and eight thousand seats for the University of Pennsylvania which will be sold for the benefit of the relief societies of the two arms of the service.

Rebates Amount to $1,000,000. NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Secret rebates given the American Can company by the American Sheet and Tin Plate company amounted to more than $1,000,000 last year, according to testimony given today by Charles H. Denman, an accountant, at a hearing before Edward Hacker, special examiner in the government's dissolution suit against the American Can company and subsidiaries. The books of the American Can company showed, said the witness, that the company had been receiving these rebates since its foundation.

Guest at Banquet. AUGUSTA, GA., Oct. 21.—George T. Stallings, manager of the Boston National league baseball club, world's champion, was the guest of honor at a banquet given here tonight by two hundred of his boyhood companions. Tyrus Cobb, of the Detroit Americans, was among those in attendance. Stallings also was the guest of the Rotary club at a luncheon today. The Boston manager was born in Augusta.

SWERINGEN WRITES REGARDING SCHOOLS

CHANGE MADE IN HANDLING ACCOUNTS

TO COMBINE ITEMS

On Account of Crisis, Accounts Are Consolidated in Order to Permit Schools Opening.

A very interesting letter was received yesterday by J. B. Felton from the office of the State Superintendent of Education. Mr. Swearingen writes here to the effect that the present financial crisis makes some steps necessary and he gives his idea for solving the problem. The following is Mr. Swearingen's letter:

"The County Board fund for the schools of your county is derived from the following sources:

1. The State dispensary balance paid out under Act No. 566, page 1077 Statutes 1912.
2. One half of the one-mill State school tax of 1913 in accordance with Act No. 131, page 194, Statutes 1913.
3. Such small fractional sums collected by the County Treasurer as cannot be readily or conveniently handled except as a county board fund.

"4. The county building fund equal to 5 per cent of the proceeds of the three-mill constitutional tax for the current year.

"The making of four separate and distinct accounts from these four items is a needless and profitless multiplication of the work of the annual report of the County Superintendent to no advantage.

"Since the law directing the apportioning of the State dispensary balance restricted the expenditure of this money to four years, it has been impracticable to combine these items before now. The school year 1911-12, 1913-14 and 1914-15 cover this quadrennial.

"I, therefore, recommend that all the items of your County Board fund be consolidated under one account. This account should be given a page in the County Superintendent's ledger, and should be handled as the account for each separate district is handled. It should embrace receipts and expenditures. The receipts should be made up of all cash balances now on hand in the County Board fund, together with all additions between July 1, 1914, and June 30, 1915. The expenditures should be made up of all outlays, whether in separate districts or in the county at large.

"In the present financial crisis, I hereby authorize the immediate consolidation of these accounts in order to permit the use of this money in opening and running the schools this fall. In my opinion it is not advisable or desirable to hold this money in the treasury while the schools are closed for the lack of funds. Moreover, this simplification of accounts should lighten the work both of the County Superintendent and the County Treasurer, besides facilitating the preparation of your own annual report at the end of the year.

"Please write me the amount of cash in your county treasurer's hands for school purposes. This total should include:

1. All district balances.
2. All unapportioned funds.
3. All moneys paid into the county treasury for school purposes since July 1, 1914.
4. The sum available from the County Board fund.

"The law plainly prohibits any school district from running in debt. Please co-operate with the office by refusing to approve any warrant that will create an overdraft in the district funds.

"The postponement of taxes now seems impracticable. Such a course would automatically close the schools in practically every district. The children cannot afford to lose a year, and I urge you to employ every energy to maintain the standard of efficiency established during 1913-14. Public education is a fundamental need of the State, and retrogression even in the present crisis should not be thought of in any community.

"Please write me fully concerning your plans. Do not fail to make the maximum use of the State high school fund, the State rural graded school fund, and the State term extension fund."

DAYS GONE BY ARE AGAIN BROUGHT EAST

FEATS OF HORSEMANSHIP ARE SEEN

WITH 101 RANCH

Rough-Riding and Splendid Shooting Will Be Seen by Anderson People.

Speaking of the performances of the 101 Ranch Wild West show, which recently exhibited in Norfolk on the same lot as Ringling brothers circus, the Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch said:

"The scenes of days gone by were brought East, yesterday, when Miller Brass and Arlington's 101 Ranch Wild West show appeared in two performances before Norfolk audiences.

"Feats of horsemanship, the usual feature of performances of this kind, but rough riding predominated. In every respect the show was a tidal wave of daring that appealed to the red-blooded Americans who all ways applaud the man who risks his limbs and neck.

"A special feature of the spectacular reproduction of the stirring events of days gone by was the participation of a number of Indian chiefs and their yet loyal followers who often blazed away at the settlers and the men who won their spurs in the American army—among them being Iron Tail, who took part in the Custer massacre.

"Other features of the show, which included thrilling rough riding and other feats, were as fully inspiring to the young American.

"Outside of the famous 'Sun Dance' in which over a hundred of the red men took part, were the amazing feats of Beatrice Broseman and Bessie Herbers, champion bucking horse riders, and other darily clever cow-boys, who rode bucking broncos as well as any man in this wild and woolly Wild West. The trap and fancy shooting of Edith Tantlinger, the young Indian girl from Oklahoma, and Princess Wenous, a Sioux girl, received many outbursts of applause.

from the large audiences. Verne Tantlinger, the American boomerang thrower, (and, by the way, the only one in America) handled the weapon like a native Australian bushman.

"Another feature for the kiddies was Bill Caross, the funny clown policeman, and his Tango mule, Highty Tightly, who kept the audience in an uproar. Last in order came the high school number, in which a dozen dancing horses too part. They executed everything in the dancing line from the turkey trot to the Virginia reel.

"At both performances the big tent was crowded to its capacity and the parade drew immense crowds into the streets."

"The date of the 101 Ranch show in Anderson is Tuesday October 27.

Why Not Publish It?
When you want a fact to become generally known, the right way is to publish it. Mrs. Joseph Kallans, Peru, Ind., was troubled with belching, sour stomach and frequent headaches. She writes, "I feel it my duty to tell others what Chamberlain's Tablets have done for me. They have helped my digestion and regulated my bowels. Since using them I have been entirely well."
