WHAT'S UP? PROVED TO BE A POPULAR INQUIRY

UPON RECEIPTS OF TELEGRAM HERE FROM GOVERNOR C. L. BLEASE

WANTS DATA

As to How Many Convicts Are in Charge of Supervisor J. Mack King.

"What's up?" is a question which probably filled the minds of several people yesterday as much if not more than anything else which transpired during the day.

The questioning was prompted by a telegram which Supervisor J. Mack King received at 10 o'clock yesterday morning from Governor Blease, reading as follows:

"Please wire me the number of convicts this day in your charge."

Supervisor King got into touch by telephone with the guards of the two county camps and ascertained from each the number of men on each gang. Later in the day he wired the governor that he had 66 convicts in his charge, these being exclusively of prisoners sent out by the city police court.

Of the 66 convicts on the chalking, four are what is known as "State" convicts and the remaining 62 "county" convicts. That is to say, the former are prisoners who originally went to the State penitentiary to serve their sentences but who were later sent to the county chalking. The latter class is composed of those convicts who originally went to the county chalking to serve their sentences.

Just what Governor Blease desires with this information, no one knows. Several who learned of the receipt of the telegram surmised that the governor is preparing to liberate the entire convict force. Others were of the opinion that the governor desires the information for use in a statement which he will probably publish upon leaving office setting forth how many convicts he has pardoned, paroled and shown mercy in other forms and how many convicts remain on the gangs of the State.

At any rate, there is considerable interest in the inquiry, and the governor's doings between now and the nineteenth of January will be observed with keen interest.

ASKS FOR AN APPROPRIATION

President Wilson Wants $250,000 to Defray Expenses of Panama Canal Celebration.

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—At a conference today with Democratic and Republican congressional leaders President Wilson asked for a $250,000 appropriation to defray expenses of the celebration planned for opening of the Panama Canal next March.

The president summoned to the White House Senators Overman, Hoke Smith, and Gallinger, and Representatives Underwood, Sherman and Mann, and laid before them tentative plans for the celebration as submitted to him by Secretaries Bryan, Garrison and Daniels. The plan includes the entertainment of visiting officers of foreign fleets and the transportation of the fleet and visitors. Democrats and Republicans alike approved the plan and the expenditures.

Possibility that the naval parade through the canal can not be held, as suggested recently by Colonel Goethals on account of alides, was discussed, but it was agreed that preparations should go forward.

The plan contemplates a reception for visiting naval officials and representatives of foreign governments in Washington for their departure from the capital March 5 for Hampton Roads where battleships will be boarded for the cruise.
