LIFE INSURANCE MAN IS PLACED IN PRISON

CHARGED WITH DISPOSING OF TRUST FUNDS AND GIVING BOGUS CHECK

NEWCOMER HERE

J. W. Fields Being Held in Default of Bond of the Sum of $200.—Particulars.

Charged with issuing a bogus check to cover an alleged shortage in trust funds and charged on a second warrant with disposing of trust funds, J. W. Fields, an agent for a life insurance company in Anderson was arrested yesterday morning by Deputy Sheriff Olin Sanders and placed in the county jail, where he is being held in default of bond in the sum of $200.

Fields comes from a well known family of Spartanburg, and from what can be learned, has been in the city only a short while. He has every appearance of being refined, intelligent and fairly well educated. The warrant for the arrest of the man was issued by L. L. Bradley, upon instructions from the company for which Fields worked, it is stated.

The first warrant alleges that Fields collected premiums due on policies in this insurance company and appropriated the money to his own use. The second warrant alleges that he gave a bogus check to cover a shortage in trust funds.

A rather strange fact about the alleged bogus check is that in the lower left hand corner of it is written the words "Shortage on Collections." The check was drawn in favor of the insurance company on a local bank. The amount of the check is $22.50.

Walt Boggs Wedding, Wednesday, January 6, 1915, a beautiful home wedding was solemnized at the country home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Carpenter, when their daughter, Miss Vada Wyatt and Mr. Dewitt Boggs of Pendleton were happily married at twelve o'clock.

As Miss Zora Merritt at the piano struck the chords of the Wedding March the bride passed down the broad aisleway. Her escort, Miss Laura, "The People's National Bank" endorsed this note, but if the general necessity were made apparent to the central board in Washington there is no reason why the credits now looked up in the vast amount of cotton on storage in South Carolina should not be released. Of course one bank or two or three banks, can not relieve the situation, but if all act together no one need tell me that it can not be done. Such action would enable the farmers to pay their debts and continue to hold their cotton, so that the advance in price which is now on the way is maintained.

PLANS FOR PACKING PLANT AT ANDERSON

ARE BEING DRAWN FOR THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE'S INFORMATION

MAY BUILD ONE

Of Sufficient Live Stock is Produced Hereabout Plant May Be Established.

The Chamber of Commerce is in receipt of a communication from Packers Architectural & Engineering company, engineers designing packing plants, abattoirs, cold storages and industrial plants, with offices in Chicago, stating that work is progressing nicely on drawing for a $350,000 packing plant for Anderson. This does not mean, however, that it is a cut and dried fact that such a packing plant is to be erected here right away. The Chamber of Commerce desires these plans as information only, for the present.

It is not improbable that if the raising of live stock in this section of the country continues to increase during the next three or four years like the industry has within the past three or four years there will be sufficient live stock within a radius of 150 miles of this city to warrant the erection here of a small packing plant. If this turns out to be the case it is likely that the chamber of commerce will undertake the promotion of such an enterprise.

S. A. Jacobson of Wisconsin has written the chamber of commerce that he will likely be in this city during the month of March for the purpose of discussing with local people the prospects for a packing plant at this place.

For the past several months the chamber of commerce has been collecting data with reference to the amount of live stock being raised within a radius of 150 miles of Anderson, the prospects for the industry being increased, freight rates from various points within this radius, etc. This data, it is stated, will be of value to the chamber of commerce in the event the packing plant proposition is over taken up.

Bad Negro

Accordian Artist, Unarmed, in Police Court for Flourishing Weapon.

Though the light of day is a stranger to the eyes of Sanford Thompson, he loses nothing as a general, all-round bad nigger when the affairs of this world go contrary to his mood and ruin as his feelings. Thompson gave a splendid exhibition of his ability along this line about three o'clock yesterday morning, when he proceeded to clean out the domicile in which he resides of all occupants but himself. And the means he used in undertaking this task, loud swearing and the flourishing of a pistol, is what got him in trouble. He was tried before Recorder Russel at noon yesterday in two cases, one for carrying a concealed weapon and the other disorderly conduct. He was convicted on both charges and for the first offense fined $50. In the second case he was fined $5.

Sanford is a well known character about the streets, along which he squats and squeezes out plaintive wails from an old accordian. When Thompson got rough yesterday morning, some one in the neighborhood beat it to the police station and spread the alarm. Privates Brown and Ciamp answered the call and fetched Sanford to the calaboose, where he continues to make his abode.

This is not the first time that "Musical" Thompson has gotten himself into trouble on account of his fondness for "wee-puns." Several years ago he was catapulted before the bar of justice in the police court on charges of carrying concealed weapons, where he was forced to make an investment of cash in the interests of the city.

One James Richardson was hauled before the recorder also yesterday on charges of loud swearing. Had James put a muffler on his "cussor" he probably would have gotten off with his indulgence in profanity, but he unwisely chose to do it with cut-out wide open. He was assessed the amount of $5.

This Peculiar World. This is a peculiar world. One is struggling for justice and another is fleeing from it. One man is trying to build a house, and another is trying to sell his for less than cost to get rid of it. One man is spending all the money he can make in taking a girl to a theatre and sending her flowers, with the hope of making her his wife, while his neighbor is spending what gold he possesses in getting a divorce. One man escapes all the diseases that flesh is heir to and gets killed on a railroad. Another escapes with a scratch and dies with the whooping cough. One man stands off his creditors and goes travelling, while another pays off his debts and stays at home.—Lobsterette.

C. H. McLean of the county was in the city yesterday.

J. E. Wakefield, Sr. of Antreville was among the visitors in the city yesterday.

M'LAURIN THINKS CAN FINANCE CROP

Senator Tells Instance of Bank Taking Six Months Paper on Cotton For Re-Discount.

Senator McLaurin, in the extra session of the legislature, said in a speech to the Senate that under the new currency law agricultural paper, with State warehouse receipts as a collateral, would be discounted by the federal reserve bank in Richmond, for six months, and could be renewed for another six months, and that there was ample power, through this canal, to provide funds to finance the entire cotton crop. In a public statement made after a trip to Washington, for the purpose of conferring with the federal reserve board, he made an analysis of this section of the act and said that it was "up to the banks." He called upon the banks to agree upon a definite course in this respect, directing their attention to the fact that the central board at Washington, if necessary, could accept such paper without the indorsement of a member bank. If this were done, discounts of this character of paper would not be charged up against the capital stock of the bank.

Senator McLaurin said yesterday that there were two distinct classes of paper having separate channels, one not exceeding four months, and limited to 10 per cent of the capital stock and surplus, this being the terms of the act; the other is not limited in any way by the act itself, they limit it to 25 per cent of the capital stock, but say that this limit will be increased from time to time as conditions may demand.

"I do not know that any of this six months paper has been presented except, as hereinafter stated," said Senator McLaurin yesterday. "Every banker that I approached insisted that he could only handle the four months paper."

Last week I drafted a form of a note which would show, as provided by the terms of the currency law, that it was for agricultural purposes heretofore used in the production of the cotton enumerated in the receipt," continued Senator McLaurin. "The note was drawn for $500 and there were 13 bales of low grade cotton enumerated in the State warehouse receipt, which we estimated meant 7 cents a pound, middling basis. The note was given to the People's National bank in this city, which very kindly consented to make the transaction. It was sent forward, in the ordinary course of business, without a word of explanation, and in the same way the money was placed to the credit of the People's National bank, and by it transferred to the man who owned the State warehouse receipt."

"I am making this public to show what we can do by putting ourselves in a position to take advantage of the facilities afforded," said Senator McLaurin. "The People's National Bank indorsed this note, but if the general necessity were made apparent to the central board in Washington there is no reason why the credits now looked up in the vast amount of cotton on storage in South Carolina should not be released. Of course one bank or two or three banks, can not relieve the situation, but if all act together no one need tell me that it can not be done. Such action would enable the farmers to pay their debts and continue to hold their cotton, so that the advance in price which is now on the way is maintained."
