LADIES! SECRET TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Bring Back Its Color and Lustre with Grandma's Sage

At 2:30 Secretary Fred M. Burnett, of the Y. M. C. A., gave an interesting address on the subject, "The Weakness of Our Sunday Schools."

(a.) Teachers taking up much of the important time, that should be devoted to teaching, in making exercises that are always tiresome, and render the work ineffective.

(b.) Too many schools failing to begin on time, the people get in the habit of being late, because it is an uncertain matter just when the school will open.

(c.) A lack of consecrated workers for the Sunday school.

(d.) Not enough men and boys in the schools. The girls are there but where are the boys?

(e.) A failure to use music that is understood and in reach of all.

(f.) Lack of social spirit.

(g.) Weak teachers, teachers using quarterlies or other helps instead of the Word of God, and failing to apply the truth of God to the problems of the student's life, failing to make it live before the class.

(h.) Not giving the boys and girls work to do.

(i.) Mr. Burnett had gone out and asked several why they did not attend Sabbath school regularly and had brought to the people reasons as expressed by those whom he had addressed. His address was full of wise suggestion and will do good.

After Mr. Burnett, Dr. John C. Carman took charge and spent some time in discussing several things vital to the success of a live Sabbath school.

Dr. Carman is able to make things move when he gets his hand on the work of "The Round Table." His addresses are full of wit, splendid illustration, and logic that drives the lesson home.

At the close of the open discussion led by Dr. Carman, Mr. R. S. Ligon spoke on the subject, "What Makes an Interesting Sunday School Class For Men?"

At the close of the meeting officers were elected making this district a permanently organized one.

Mr. F. M. Barnett was elected secretary.

The afternoon meeting, considering the weather, was well represented.

The Evening Session. Despite the inclemency of the weather, a large number of interested people were out for the evening session of the institute.

Following are some of the points discussed at last night's session of the institute:

1. Strong points of a successful Sunday school.

2. One minute talks on "Why I Go to Sunday School."

3. "The Home and the Sunday School Hand in Glove."

FIRST OF SERIES OF 5 INSTITUTES IS HELD

MEETING YESTERDAY AT CENTRAL PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

BELTON TODAY

Sessions Will Continue Through Friday—Interesting Talks on Timely Subjects.

The first of a series of institutes under the auspices of the Anderson County Sunday School Association was held yesterday afternoon and last evening at Central Presbyterian church.

Yesterday's institute was divided into two periods, one being convened at 2 o'clock and adjourned at 5 and the other being convened at 7:30 last evening and adjourned about 9:30 o'clock.

At yesterday afternoon's session Dr. A. L. Smethers, president of the Anderson County Sunday School Association, presided.

The opening devotional exercises were conducted by the Rev. John W. Speake, pastor of St. John's Methodist church, who read an appropriate passage from the Scriptures and made very helpful and interesting comments along the line of the tremendous responsibility resting upon us and the call for vital religion.

LOCAL INTEREST IN WIPING OUT ORDER

GOVERNOR'S ORDER IF LEGAL MEANS PALMETTO RIFLES MUST GO TOO

OLD COMPANY

Palmetto Rifles Was Organized Before Civil War—Some Doubt Bleese's Power.

Local officers of the National Guard were not surprised last night when acquainted with an Associated Press dispatch to The Daily Intelligencer stating that Governor Bleese had issued an order disbanding the State militia, as they had been expecting the governor to cut some such caper before his retirement from office on January 15.

The order, of course, affects the local militia, which is Co. B, 1st South Carolina Infantry, Capt. L. Ligon, prominent officers of the State militia residing in Anderson are P. K. McCully, Jr., regimental adjutant, and B. B. Gossett, battalion adjutant. The Palmetto rifles, at the local company is commonly known, was organized prior to the Civil War, and the company existing at the break-out of this war figured conspicuously in that terrible struggle. The membership of the local company was between 45 and 50.

Officers of the National Guard as well as members of the local bar familiar with State laws with reference to the militia were not certain that the governor has the authority to disband the State militia, though could not state positively that he has or has not. One attorney questioned about the matter stated that the militia exists by virtue of a State law, and he did not see how the governor had authority to nullify this law, even though he is commander-in-chief of the State militia. The question is a very interesting one, and the outcome of the governor's latest move will be watched with great interest locally.

MR. B. E. KING

Gallant Confederate Veteran Died at Home Near Piedmont.

In the morning Sunday night of D. Edward King, the youngest of the survivors of the bravest set of men that ever took up arms, lost one of its truest members, the State and country one of its best, its most cultured citizens for those who knew Edward King loved and respected him for his manly bearing and true qualities.

During the four years of bloody war, Mr. King was one of "Mara's Soldiers," and probably no man ever lived who bore a more striking resemblance to the great Confederate chieftain than did Edward King. Not only did Mr. King resemble Gen. Robert E. Lee in personal appearance, but he bore all the noble qualities of that great man. The exemplary life he lived helped to mould the character of many young men with whom he came in contact.

For many years Mr. King was the Methodist minister at the home of his wife, Mrs. King, in the city of Anderson.

Mr. King was a good soldier, he was always in the front ranks, having served with distinction from the opening of hostilities until the end of the war. His military service was in the 1st South Carolina Infantry, Co. B, 1st South Carolina Infantry.

THIS IS A BAD MONTH. The indoor life of winter, with lack of outdoor exercise, puts a heavy load on kidneys. Nearly everybody suffers from rheumatism, backache, pain in sides and back, kidney and bladder ailments. A backache may not mean anything serious, but it certainly does not mean anything good. It's better to be on the safe side and take Foley's Kidney Pills to strengthen and invigorate the kidneys and help them do their work; they help rid the blood of acids and poisons.
