Osborne & Pearson

FROM SEPTUS.

In these hard and depressing times that go to "try men's souls," we have to stay on the job during the day in order to keep the wolf from the door, no our writing must be done at night and that by piece meals. At first we thought we would take enough time from our work to grind your reply to our anti-bond issue article into dust and then scatter the dust to the four winds of the earth. In other words, send it the plum orchard route to an everlasting oblivion just as we are going to do that bond issue on the 30th day of March. However for several reasons, a few of which will follow, we are not going to be this hard on you Mr. Editor.

Having placed your self in such a sad and pitiful predicament in attempting to defend your position we feel that you need our tears and sympathy more than you do anything more from our pen.

Drawing as you are and grabbing at a straw in your attempt to divert the attention of your readers from our leading points by trying to make believe that we are fighting good roads, makes us now feel that we ought to be now writing you a letter of condolence instead of replying to your reply. Any way, when we get back from the funeral on the 30th of March, if no one else will step out to do honor to your memory, then we will put forth a small piece of crape to show your friends and loved ones, that personally, we hold you in the very highest of esteem and we assure you Mr. Editor that we do.

Another reason for not wanting to rub it in on you too hard (don't cry) is that some of the good ladies of the county have already phoned us their congratulations on the stand that we have taken against this big handed monster and since the good women are with us in this fight we now refuse to believe that we are right, we absolutely know it and there's nothing left for us to do, but arise, follow our leader and fear no danger. And now still another reason for not wanting to play rough with you Mr. Editor. Since you questioned what we had to say against the bond issue as being argument, you then went on and used over a column of your valuable space in an attempt to refute what we said and even some of your colored subscribers up here noticed this and are "laughing in their sleeves" about it. Another reason for giving you a sugar coated pill this time stand a double dose of asafetida, is the fact that you have everlastingly and completely exploded that old maxim that where there's smoke there's fire, for with out doubt you have fully demonstrated the fact that there can be a whole room full of smoke and not a darn spark of fire. In fact if you have put forth your best effort in your defense of that seven hundred and fifty thousand dollar mortgage that you want placed against Anderson County, then we had as soon look for fire in a mill pond as to look for it in the editorial rooms of The Intelligencer and we want to say the members of the Anderson Fire department that should they see a smoke in the direction of the Pepper building, not to be in any great hurry for they are just as liable to find an iceberg over there as they are to find a blaze.

And now, for our last but not our least reason for not running you through our sausage mill and grinding you into mince meat. We know full well that old man Bond issue is already dead and that we are just allowing his body to lie in state till the 30th of March that his friends and loved ones may take a last, long, lingering farewell look at him and since we have been taught from childhood never to abuse nor disturb a corpse, it mattered not what its past life may have been, we can not at this late day be guilty of such a thing.

Will you please tell us, Mr. Editor why you used so much of your space in answering our article, that you had no argument in it and at the same time steered as clear of our points as though they had been a lighted dynamite with the fuse tied around your neck?

Why did you not take a shot at what we had to say about that "sinking fund pie"? Why did you not offer to give us a comment on what we had to say about the other fellow getting these dollars of that bond money for himself while we got one for good roads? Why did you not defend that piece of government road over west of town that we called your attention to? Why did you work a mile out of your way to make sport of what we had to say about the "tax ridden" people of this county and at the same time be as dumb as an oyster on what we had to say about debt being as bad for a county as for an individual?

Why were you wrong on those points why did you not meet the issue Mr. Editor instead of taking to the woods and then "taking a sapling" after you got there? Now come down out of that tree and show us if we are wrong on those above mentioned points for we crave light rather than darkness. Don't walk up and throw three or four rocks and then take to your heels and have to go side ways to keep from flying. We only intended those Jack Johnson punches under your shorts ribs to wake you up and we had no idea at the time that they would knock you as cold as a milk shake and as speechless as a lobster.

And now we want to inform you that we may be a back woodsman, yet we know that "the world do move" and that we are living in a fast age, still the voters of Anderson County are not quite ready to have their legislation done over a telegraph wire. We respectfully refer to that little message sent by the Anderson Chamber of Commerce to the Anderson County legislative delegation while in Columbia.

Isn't it sad, touching and heart breaking to see the Editor of The Intelligencer and the Anderson Chamber of Commerce and our legislative delegation so suddenly and unexpectedly shed "forward all bows" with grief, shedding crocodile tears as large as fox grapes for the poor old "mud tax" payers of this county and just to think that we are getting all this unsolicited. Indeed this amount of sympathy is enough to melt a heart of stone and oh, but that we could have gotten some of this while selling cotton at six cents and buying flour at eight dollars per barrel. Let us pray.

And now a word about that self-appointed commission so far as the Anderson County voters were consulted. We did not attack the personnel of this commission, neither did we say that any of them had been the recipient of reward for political service rendered. What we said was that it looked like an attempt at political reward for political work done in the past. If you can't read then shake a bush.

And now that you have asked us some very pointed questions concerning the omission, if you want to play this hand out, then here's at you. There's at least one man on the commission on whom some of the best people up here have absolutely so faith in his knowledge of road building and very little in his integrity and should he enter politics tomorrow he couldn't be elected "dog petter" by the voters of this section.

Now do you still want names—if not then wipe away those tears, then sit down by us and let's figure a little. In the city of Anderson you have a great concentration of wealth, together with a population of about six thousand people to the square mile, yet you have only about one mile of paved streets. In the towns of Honon Path, Belton and Williamston, also where there's a big amount of concentrated wealth with a population of about six or seven hundred people to the square mile, they have not one foot of paved streets, now how in the name of common sense are you going to macadamize the roads of Anderson County with only seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars and a population of only about eighty people to the square mile in the rural districts?

No, Uncle Rube there's no "laters" in this digging for you. It's the rich bond holder, the bankers and that commission, as we will show by a mathematical calculation a little later on, who will feast at the table of good things while you stand in the chimney corner and suck your paw.

Talk about skin games, but this skin game has all other skin games skinned a block and in the skinning, Uncle Rube, the other fellow will get three fourths of the skin while you stand around the tan yard with nothing to your credit but a few roads built in a place and in a way in which you will have absolutely no jurisdiction and now the only difference in skinning you and a skunk is that they have first got to catch the skunk before they can skin him and after catching him he has to be killed before he is skinned and in this he will not only put up a hard fight in an attempt to save his skin but as a last resort will send out an odor that's not very palatable to our sense of smell, and you, Uncle Rube, with out either putting up a fight or an odor must be skinned alive and then turned loose to grow more skin till the next skinning time when they will put you in other skin games. And now dear reader if you think the editor has skinned us in this skinning then let us know and we will skin out from here. If this war keeps up they are going to force us to bring out our heavy artillery and to quit shooting "powder loads."

In our next, Uncle Rube, we will show you what kind of a like off the purchaser of those proposed bonds would get under that cut throat regional banking law enacted by our present national Democratic administration after two Republican administrations had sat down on the scheme.

And now Mr. Editor since being able to read between the lines and know who you were shooting at in saying that usually the man who howls loudest about the tax ridden people pay less tribute to Caesar in proportion than any of those whose interest he imagines he's safeguarding.

Now, since we are opposed to raising the other fellows taxes by a bond issue and though we pay but little tax, will you please tell us how much you are giving the old man Caesar since you are in favor of higher taxes by a bond issue. Come, shell it down to us or we will see what Caesar has to say about it.

W. L. CASEY.

REFUGE AND CORINTH

There will be preaching at Refuge next Saturday at 3 p. m., and Sunday school at 10:30 a. m., and preaching at 11:30 Sunday a. m.

There will be Sunday school at Corinth at 3:30 p. m. We hope to see a large congregation at each place, as these churches have decided to work together this year as far as is convenient, realizing that where there is union there is strength. So next Sunday morning in the place of going visiting or grazing your cattle, come and join in the good work. Let us do more for God this year than we ever have. We feel encouraged, one of our former Anderson county boys, now living in Atlanta, Ga. on a recent visit here, said, "He loved to read the home news." That shows he has not forgotten old South Carolina, so he sent a subscription to The Anderson Intelligencer. So in the future our good paper will go to A. F. McAllister, 440 East Fair St., Atlanta, Ga.

FOLEY CATHARTIC TABLETS

Salts is Fine For Kidneys, Quit Meat

Flush the Kidneys at once when Back hurts or Bladder bothers.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well known authority. Meat forms uric acid, which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poison from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of burning, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.
