Mr. E. B. Lemmond, Expert
Conductor of Sales

The ad man of The Intelligencer doesn't know whether the general public takes as much interest in the matter of good copy, and the proper preparation of a "lay out" for ads as he does; but he does know that it isn't often that a sale is put on, advertised step by step in such a logical manner as the Osborne & Pearson sale, now going on, has been conducted.

As the "Postum" and "Grape Nuts" people say, "There's a Reason." The reason in this case is the gentleman in charge of the sale—Mr. E. B. Lemmond, an expert in conducting bona fide, and legitimate sales. Mr. Lemmond came here at the request of the firm of Osborne & Pearson, made his arrangements first, then prepared his first "Opening Gun" copy, ran it in the newspapers, used ten thousand large circulars, and followed this up with daily ads, brim full of reason for the closing out of the sale, lots of "ginger" and "pep" in the form of interesting, thus keeping the interest maintained from the start of the sale, until now when the sale is nearing the end, the interest is as great almost as it was the first day of the sale.

As stated above, this didn't "just happen." It was first planned and then the plan was worked out step by step. The copy was carefully written, the ads were laid out, diagram furnished the printers so that they had a working plan, just as the architect furnishes the contractor to build a house.

As there are some people who think that sales are all "skin games," The Intelligencer is glad of the opportunity to call attention to this sale, as conducted by Mr. Lemmond—an expert sale conductor, who not only states that good, honest values are the best, but practices what he preaches in conducting a sale.

Every one who has followed closely the real bargains advertised by this well known firm during this sale is bound to admit that they have given the people some remarkable values for their money.

The ad man is always glad to get advertising copy, but truth compels him to say that some of it comes to the office in such a shape that it is truly remarkable that more mistakes are not made before it finally reaches the public in printed form; but when copy is furnished like that brought in by Mr. Lemmond, it is a genuine pleasure to handle it.

The fact that the sale of Osborne & Pearson have kept the interest of the buying public aroused and maintained all along is proof that they have been giving good values and that their advertising copy has been well handled.

GET RID OF LINGERING COLDS, COUGHS AND LA GRIPE.

Spring finds many afflicted with lingering, hacking coughs that weaken the system. Such and wet cannot more colds than wet weather. Croup, bronchitis, and pneumonia are prevalent. Every family should have a safe and reliable cough medicine ready for use. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound contains no harmful ingredients. It eases a cough, checks a cold and relieves irritable and congested membranes. It clears the air passages and soothes inflammation. Evans Pharmacy.

$10,000, thereby creating the impression that we will only be taxed for the interest on the bonds. Where will the maintenance fund for the permanent roads come from? (Granting that they abandon all other roads), if not from additional taxation? Suppose after the bond money had been disbursed, the people of some townships in Anderson County not having received any benefit from the county bond road fund should decide that they wanted township bonds for good roads would they be met by the cold fact that their township was already covered to the extent of about 75 per cent. of the bonding limit? Mortgaged for what? For something that was used up in the "bond knitting" of some other locality? Our constitutional bonding limit is about $1,080,000 in Anderson County for this purpose, or 8 per cent on our assessed taxable values. That would spell "out in the cold" to the township that received no benefit from the original issue.

Of course I hope that if this measure is voted on and that all parts of the county will get their share, but I think it far better and only fair to thresh out all these things now rather than in years to come.

Township bonds, if bonds we must have, seem to be far more acceptable, and the best interest to all the people. Keep Anderson County in the column of no bonds and apply what it would cost to carry bonds in addition to what we already get, and we will, in the language of one man who was in the race for county commissioner last year, in exploiting his qualifications for the place, stated: "that when he was a member of the board Anderson County roads that were the talk of the State." She can rank there again and will do so if the people will cooperate and spend the amount required for interest and let the bonds be where all of us hope never to go. "Blatant bond holders" have not been able to clip a living off Anderson County coupons and let us keep them reaped until we have expatriated a little.

We are told that Greenville County will out strip us. Well she has out stripped us in the past in the way of getting in debt. Turn your eyes from her for a while, stay out of this bond business and get ready to buy securities when she "busts." She can spend many thousand dollars before she will catch up with "galloping" Anderson roads and there "hot air" artists know it.

In conclusion I am reminded of a certain locality where "Head Knockers" decided that they would bury their "good copy" in experimental piece of government directed model road building—and they went forth under the direction of this modern builder "and builded for worse than they knew." Today behold the wreck. It remains a "half mile" warning to those who pass that way against experimenting at two great a cost some ride that way, and I prefer to walk and go around.

It Always Helps

says Mrs. Sylvania Woods, of Clifton Mills, Ky., in writing of her experience with Gardui, the woman's tonic. She says further: "Before I began to use Gardui, my back and head would hurt so bad, I thought the pain would kill me. I was hardly able to do any of my housework. After taking three bottles of Gardui, I began to feel like a new woman. I soon gained 35 pounds, and now, I do all my housework, as well as run a big water mill.

I wish every suffering woman would give
