WASHINGTON, March 24.-That

WASHINGTON, March 24.—That the outlook for big cotton sales in the near fature at good prices with anything like reasonable curtailment in acreage is excertingly good at this time, was the "financial" story of the day printed in this evening's Washington Star.

Showing how cotton has worked out its own salvation, The Star said:
"One of the greatest questions offered financiers for solution last fall was the financing of the greatest cotton crop ewer raised in the Southern States. Through the federal reserve board and a number of leading bankers a big guarantee fund was raised to tide over the banks of the South. Not a dollar of the fund was used. At that time it was estimated that not more trian 4,500,000 bales of cotton would be taken for export and the estimates of requirements between crops for home consumption and export were generally under 11,000,000 bales.

crops for home consumption and export were generally under 11,000,000 bales.

Exports Shew Gains.

"But the exports up to Friday of last week were 6,148,750 bales, and cotton is being thipped every day. Last week 256,000 bales were exported; 109,000 bales scaping submarines were unloaded in England and 115,500 bales went to the continent. This week's shipments will also be large.

"It is now estimated that the requirements from the 1914 cotton crop would be nearly 13,000,000 bales.

"The final ginning figures of the government experts show a crop for 1914 of 15,873,000 running bales.

There were 772,000 bales of linters, indicating a crop of about 16,545,000 bales, of which in sight figures show 12,500,000 bales. It is said that less than 10 per cent of the crop has been held over by planters.

Hesactien Will Baye.

"With the highest estimate of requirements and the United States but 10-per cent, behind on the 1914 average used, there is still bound to be a considerable amount of cotton carried over "a warehouses and by planters, but it the 25 per cent, reduction in acreage as planted by Southern planters really materializes the supply of cotton available after the garnering of the 1915 crop will be none too large for the demand. Especially with forcign nations likely to be in the market for large quantities than ever before in the rehabilitation following the European struggle.

"Thus the great Southern staple," uropean struggle.

"Thus the great Southern staple. its use in war, has worked out, its own salvation from one of the most serious appearing problems that over-production and untoward conditions have ever faced."

RATES FOR GRAIN

IS OBJECT OF MOVEMENT INAUGURATED OVER SOUTH CAROLINA

NECESSARY

To Build Up Local Markets Writes Prof. W. W. Long of Clamson College

A petition to the State Railroad Commission asking for a reduction in commission asking for a reduction intra-state rates on grain in order that local markets may be built up is being prepared throughout the State by prominent business men who is being prepared throughout the State by prominent business men who are acting on the suggestion of Prof. W. W. Long State Agent and Director of Extension Work.

A letter received by the chamber of extension Work.

A letter received by the chamber of commerce from Prof. Long states that the commission has put in new rates on inter-state shipments of grain, which are very favorable and make it possible to handle successfully the shipments of grain out of the State. It is necessary, however, to have favorable intra-state rates, says Prof. Long's letter, in order that local markets may be built up.

Prof. Long desires to know what arrangements can be made for handling grain in Anderson, provided the movement to secure more favorable rates on intra-state shipments is successful. The letter goes on to state that Prof. Long has the promise of Dr. J. W. T. Duvel, of the Department of Agriculture, at Washington, D. C., who is an expert on milling and the handling of grain for market, to visit this State. Prof. Long says that he can state of his own personal knowledge that Dr. Duvel has an international reputation along this particular line. South Carolina is extremely fortunate in securing his services, Prof. Long says. The purpose in getting Dr. Duvel to come to services, Prof. Long says. The purpose in getting Dr. Duvel to come to this State is to have him meet the pusiness men who are interested in the proposition of establishing local markets.

The letter of Prof. Long's with reference to this matter is particularly important and interesting, and is given herewith in full:

"I am sending you a copy of the report of the railroad officials made to the honorable railroad commission as to changes in the freight rates for inter-state shipments. These rates are very favorable and make it possible for us to handle successfully the shipments of grain out of the State.

State.

"It is very necessary, however, that we have favorable intra-state rates in order that we may build up our local markets. To that end I am enclosing a copy of a petition that you can take any changes in that you may see fit, which you will please have signed be as many prominent business men as possible and send to the commission at an early date. We cam reasonably except that the railthe commission at an early date. We can reasonably expect that the railroad commission will reduce the intra-state rates as I am told by experts that they are out of all reason. "I would like to know what arrangement you can make to hisndle grain in your town if we are successful in securing favorable intra-state rates. This is a matter that your body should take up and work out at a very early date.

"I have the promise of Dr. J. W. T. Duvet, of the Department of agriculture at Washington, who is an expert on milling and the handling of grain for market, to visit this State. I can say of my own personal knowledge that Dr. Duval has an international reputation along this particular line and we are fortunate in being able to have him come to South Carolina. More Improvements for The City

The bond issue and street paving will stimulate every line of business, it is the talk of the town, the business men will soon begin to see a marked improvement in the way of collections and cash trade. It also helps the building business.

Mr. N. C. Burriss is rebuilding his house on Mc-Cully street, that was burned some time ago. He showed good judgment in buying his building material from J. E. Barton.

Mr. T. W. Pruitt who lives six miles in the country lost his dwelling by fire some time ago and he has rebuilt a handsome up to date house. He had J. E. Barton to furnish all the material and Mr. Chas. Pruitt did the work.

Mr. B. B. Bleckley "The furniture man" has commenced the erection of a splendid ten room dwelling on "Nardin Heights" east of the cemetery. This will be an ideal country home. J. E. Barton will furnish all the mill work, etc. Mr. Morgan Burriss has charge of the work.

Mr, R. R. King, "the hotel man," who is known from Main to Mexico as "Cousin Bob," is making changes in his hotel that will be appreciated by everybody. The new lobby and office when completed will be good enough for a Murray Hill, a Belvue Stradford or a Georgia Terrance. J. E. Barton is furnishing the material and Mr. C. M. Guest the contractor who "always has a job" has charge of Dr. W. E. Atkinson, the ever smiling ice cream man, is changing the old Electric theatre into an upto-date ice cream parlor which will be a charming place when completed and known as "The Lovers' Resort." Watch Will win.

Mr. DeWitt Masters has the work in charge and goes to J. E. Barton for most of his material.

Do you see the point? Then, do likewise and buy your building material from me.

Yours for business.
