DEVELOPMENT FOR ANDERSON COLLEGE

President Kinard Talks of Plans for Future Expansion

Dr. J. P. Kinard, president of Anderson College, was in Columbia yesterday, returning from the meeting of the State Teachers' association in Florence says The Columbia State of Sunday.

he is the head, Dr. Kinard said: "The article in 'The State of Friday and the signed statement of Dr. Blackburn on Saturday make it perfectly plain that Anderson College has no intention of combining with Chitota. A sufficient answer to any such suggestion is found in the fact to which Dr. Blackburn calls attention, that Anderson College is owned and controlled by the Baptist denomination of South Carolina. Never in Better Condition. "As a matter of fact, Anderson College was never in better condition than it is today. The State Baptist convention which met in Charleston last December gave the college all it asked for and since that time the president and the trustees have been busy making plans for further development and improvement. "The convention at Charleston granted to the college an exclusive privilege of conducting a three-year campaign for the purpose of raising $100,000 for the institution. The college has just secured the services of one of the best business men in the State. He will be a permanent officer of the institution and will begin work for the college about April 1. Just as soon as he can close up his private affairs. The citizen of Anderson are ready now to start this subscription with from $15,000 to $20,000 and the college will certainly get the remainder from the rest of the State. Cooperative Government. "Everything at the institution is moving along satisfactorily. Under the experienced leadership of the dean of the college, Miss Helen P. Smith, with the help of the president and the faculty, a system of cooperative government has been instituted. This is generally of preparing students to meet the responsibilities of life after leaving the walls of their alma mater. Both students and faculty are well pleased with its working at Anderson College. The purpose of this institution has always been to provide for a small number of students the best conditions for moral, mental and physical development. "A great deal of thought and attention is given at the college to the matter of training for health. The officers of the institution are in thorough sympathy with the awakened public conscience on this subject. They mean to make the 32 acres of College Heights a training place for health and right living. "No, Anderson College is too busy now, and too firmly entrenched in the affections of the great denomination that supports it, to be thinking of uniting with any institution."

We Deliver the Goods

Not for the love of us do people trade with us. They have a reason satisfactory to themselves and pleasing to us.

The Clemson boys, eight hundred strong, ate sausage and steak from our market three times a day, while in Anderson, and not one word of complaint have we heard of. A great deal depends on the cooking of meats. We have the right class of meats if you have the cook.

Saturday was a record day with us, in fresh meats as well as in groceries. Had we advertised good and strong we could not have waited on the trade. We are not selfish; we want our competitors to get all the business that we can't get. We don't want any of our customers led off by cheap prices for a time. All things being equal, we will meet any price you can get on fresh meats and groceries.

- Pure Pork Sausage, per lb 15c
- Fine Mixed Sausage, per lb 12 1-2c
- Very best Steaks and Roast, per lb 15c
- Pork Ham, per lb 17 1-2c
- Beef Liver, per lb 12 1-2c
- Mutton Roast and Chops, per lb 15c to 20c
- Souse Meat, per lb 15c
- Liver Sausage, per lb 15c
- Boiled Ham, sliced, per lb 35c
- Cured Ham, sliced, per lb 25c
- Beef Brains, per set 15c
- Kinghans Sliced Breakfast Bacon, per lb 35c
- Pork Chops, per lb 15c

We have Steak and Sausage as low as 10c per lb but to be honest with you there is no economy in buying it. The best is always the cheapest.

When you buy flour you get the best, then why not be particular about the meats you buy. Bread makes fat and meat makes muscle. If you will buy them from us you will grow healthy, wealthy and wise.

Remember we have wagons and phones and we deliver the goods on short notice.

We have some good trades in flour this week and more coming.
Flour that satisfies, per barrel $7.50
Rip coffee, 45c lb, 7 1-2 lbs for $1.00
We have sold 15,000 lbs of this coffee in the past six months without a complaint.

500 lbs Pork and Mixed Sausage for next Saturday at a price to be named later.
Grape Fruit, 6 for 25c
Oranges, dozen 12 1-2c and 15c

FIRE LAST NIGHT IN R. W. TRIBBLE'S STORE

Blaze Originated in Box of Hats On Second Floor—Damage Slight

Fire broke out last evening about 7:30 o'clock in the rear of the second floor of R. W. Tribble & Co.'s clothing store, but was checked before any very serious damage was done. The blaze evidently originated in a box of straw hats, as it was in that firemen discovered fire when they gained access to the building and rushed up stairs with the hose line.

The blaze was first discovered by Mrs. Lewis, who resides on Church street, almost opposite the rear of the store. She saw the flames through the rear window and notified Captain of the Police Bell, who turned in the alarm.

The origin of the fire is a mystery. Mr. Tribble and his assistants had locked the store and gone not more than 20 minutes before the fire was discovered.

In effecting an entrance to the store firemen were obliged to break through one of the plate glass front doors of the building. They were then able to open the rear door through which they brought a line of hose. The box of hats was destroyed, as was some clothing and other furnishings. But the greatest damage to the stock of goods is from water and smoke.

It was impossible last night for Mr. Tribble to estimate the amount of his loss. The property was protected by insurance.

Better be safe than sorry—Willett P. Sloan, Insurance.
