The fellow with the most dollars hasn't always got the most sense.

That first man pardoned by Governor Manning can rest assured that he deserved it.

It is a sad reflection that these lovely chickens we see tripping about the streets will some day be spoken of as old hens.

Spartanburg is having her annual music festival this week. In Anderson County we would call it an "all day singing."

The coal and ice dealer amote us lately upon our right cheek and now with the advent of summer we turn to him our left jaw.

Attorney General Peoples' record to date under the Manning administration: Raised the question of the legality of the Code of 1912.

Alcoholic drinks have been banished from King George's table. That job of being king will now appear more unattractive to lots of folks than ever.

Princeton University makes public certain reasons why it cannot endorse Billy Sunday. Billy's the kind of fellow who's likely to return the compliment.

Those British mou-'o-war hovering around the entrance to Newport News might try putting out a few fish nets to catch incoming German merchant raiders.

A bird has built her nest on the window sill of our dining room. If she's counting on getting fed from the inside, her faith makes us almost ashamed.

A Canadian province is going to adopt the South Carolina dispensary system of handling liquor. And yet some folks insist that the world is growing better.

Governor Manning has revoked the appointment of Dr. Sargent to the superintendency of the asylum because there was a question in his mind as to the constitutionality of his act. We once heard of a South Carolina governor who remarked "To hell with the constitution."

McAdoo and Williams are charged with conspiring to wreck a bank and Daniels is charged with neglecting the submarine feature of the United States navy. Illustrated in the incident of the H-4. Somebody has evidently gone gunning for the Wilson administration cabinet members and appointees.

PLANT LEGUME CROPS

One of the most often repeated maxims of the agricultural experts of this era is that one which is found expressed in the heading to this editorial.

We are told that the air contains immense quantities of nitrogen, which is the most expensive of all fertilizers. And that there are plants which, although exceedingly valuable within themselves, yet they have a still greater value in that they are capable of capturing the nitrogen from the atmosphere and storing it up in the ground for the use of other and still more valuable crops.

The king of all nitrogenous crops is the alfalfa. It is a wonderful crop and it is a wonderful crop. It is a wonderful crop and it is a wonderful crop.

eral months. They are differ sizes and are of all colors.

Talking about the use of legumes, the Progressive Farmer says:

"This is a year when every acre possible should be planted to a soil building crop of some kind. Feeds are high priced and so are fertilizers, and the man who grows these instead of buying them will be laying the firmest kind of foundation for a future prosperity.

"One of the marks of the successful farmer is the ability to produce to the maximum possible extent the crops that feed the land; the marks of the mortgage covered farm is generally a ruinous adherence to a one crop system that forgets that fat soils, fat stock and an ample living for the family should be the primary considerations.

"Let's see where we can use the soil building crops to advantage: First, there come the oat and wheat fields, where the crops will be harvested in May and June. The man who has a crop of peas or beans or clover after his crops of small grain is simply neglecting the biggest source of profit, for the feed and soil fertility that come from such crops often mean more per acre than the grain crop.

"Then not a single acre of corn should be laid by without having peas sown in the middle, or in the southern part of the cotton belt velvet beans may be planted about the time the corn is planted, or just after. A corn field without peas, beans or peanuts for soil building and fall and winter feed is seldom returning more than one-half the net profit that it should.

"Then this fall, from seed saved during the next two months, every cotton middle should be sowed to clover or vetch.

"Plant the legumes everywhere this year. If you have the seed, so much the better; but if necessary, buy them, for you will find few investments more profitable. Then next fall, whether cotton be low or high in price, you will have materially cut your fertilizer bill for the following year."

PAVING COMMISSION IN LENGTHY SESSION

NUMBER OF MATTERS WITH REFERENCE TO LEGAL PHASES DISCUSSED

NOTHING DEFINITE

Was Taken With Regard to Paving of Streets—Merely Laying Legal Foundations.

Discussion of a large number of legal points pertaining to the street paving, many of which were of a technical nature and of little if any interest to the general public, was the principal and practically the only feature of a two-hours session of the street paving commission, held last night in the office of Chairman E. R. Horton.

Acting Attorney for the Commission Ernest P. Cochran, and Resident Engineer Wade A. Sanders had previously held a conference and mapped out a general line of procedure for the commission to follow in carrying on its work. These matters were presented to the commission by Attorney Cochran, who discussed for the enlightenment of the board the legal phases of a number of questions that the commission will be confronted with from time to time.

The commission took no definite action in the matter of selecting any particular streets for paving, but authorized the resident engineer to prepare data on a batch of streets that are likely to be paved. Possession of these data will enable the commission to proceed more promptly with the letting of contracts for paving when petitions, properly executed, for the paving of streets are considered.

The acting attorney called the attention of the commission to the necessity of having all petitions for street paving presented in proper shape, that is, filled with the city clerk legally signed. Husbands cannot sign for wives and vice versa, and agents of corporations cannot sign the petitions unless they are authorized to do so by the proper authorities.

The commission also discussed various phases of the paving certificate proposition, considering plans whereby the payments for paving will be made easier for the abutting property owners. The sense of the commission is that actual work on the street paving will be gotten under way as quickly as possible, yet every step taken by the board will be carefully thought out before hand and assurance had that everything done is done strictly according to law.

The commission proposes to hold another meeting in the near future, when the matter of selecting particular streets for paving will be taken up and decisions made. As yet the commission has not gone over any of the petitions for street paving presented, and have not made any decisions as to what streets will be paved, except in a general way. As stated, already, they authorized the resident engineer to compile data with reference to a whole batch of streets, so that in case it is decided to pave any particular streets out of that general list the necessary information will be in hand for facilitating the letting of contracts.

Mid-Week Shopping Day

This morning the well known firm of The Lesser Co. inaugurate another bargain day for Anderson shoppers; that of Wednesday. Hereafter this old established firm will conduct a Mid-Week Shopping Day every Wednesday, at which time they will offer the buying public extra values as an inducement to get their trade on that date.

Mr. Sol Lesser stated yesterday that he had made special preparation while East a few weeks ago for this—the first Wednesday Sale, and that some of the bargains offered today were exceptional values; that he had been particularly fortunate in buying certain articles especially for this sale at very close prices, and he was giving his customers the advantage of it.

They have made great preparations for this sale, and everything points to a record sale for a mid-week day's sales.

Secretary Porter A. Whaley of the chamber of commerce announced yesterday upon the receipt of a telegram from Mr. Rheinfrank stating that he would be here today that the chautauqua committee of the chamber of commerce would consist of the entertainment, the amusement and the civic committees of that organization. WIRELESS ON TEXAS BORDER

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The United States signal corps plans to establish and maintain a complete communication line along the Texas border, across Arizona and New Mexico to California by means of automobile wireless telegraph apparatus.

This will enable the military commanders on the coast and at San Antonio to dispose their troops rapidly, and to the best advantage to preserve neutrality on the Mexican border. One of the automobile wireless outfits has been thoroughly tested in Texas. It has a sending radius of 250 miles.

BRITISH SHIPS WERE HOT AFTER WILHELM

German Cruiser Had Narrow Escape Near Norfolk.

NEWPORT NEWS, April 13.—Further evidence that allied warships were hot upon the Wilhelm's trail was given last night by Capt. Lucas of the British ship Berwindmore, who followed the German raider into the capes. He said that when the Wilhelm passed within three-mile limit he saw her stern reflected by a searchlight and that he later discovered the light had been thrown from afar by a French cruiser.

W. H. Matthews, chief officer of the British steamer Tamar, sunk by the Wilhelm, who sailed late yesterday for abroad, kept a diary of his experiences on the German raider. Referring to his notes today Matthews declared that the Tamar was caught March 24, instead of March 25, as Capt. Thierfelder had reported.

"We were caught between three and four o'clock on the afternoon of Wednesday, March 24," said Matthews, "20 days out of Santos for Havre with a cargo of 68,157 bags of coffee valued at $1,500,000 in lat. 2:13 south and long. 38:50 west, or about two degrees south of the equator." The boarding officers said they sighted us at a distance of 24 miles, but we did not catch sight of the Kreuzprinz Wilhelm until she was within 15 or 20 miles of us. I spied some black smoke on the horizon just as I reached the bridge from launch. The captain took the commanding officer of the boarding party in charge and showed him our papers and I escorted the junior officer over the ship. They gave us about an hour and a quarter to get our things ready and in shape to leave the Tamar. In the excitement, however, the men gathered up only a few of their things.

Old Woman and Her Daughter Reported to Be Suffering.

This business man stated that he had sent the two groceries and other necessities on a number of occasions, and had about reached the stage where he couldn't give them any further help. He reports the matter thinking perhaps that some kind hearted person might care to render some assistance to the unfortunate people.
