Kiss Your Coal Stove Goodbye!

The gas stove has the coal stove beaten a million ways.

No wood to chop, no coal to carry, no ashes to take up, carry out, and sift, leaving a trail of dirt and dust from the stove all the way out to the ash pit.

No fire to coax and coddle. No excess heat. No waste.

Gas is a guarantee of the right kind of a fire instantly for any purpose whatever; and it's more economical, too.

SULPHUR DRIES UP ECZEMA AND STOPS ITCHING

This old time skin healer is used just like any cold cream.

Sulphur, says a renowned dermatologist, just common bold-sulphur made into a thick cream will soothe and heal the skin when irritated and broken out with Eczema or any form of eruption. The moment it is applied all itching ceases and after two or three applications the Eczema disappears, leaving the skin clear and smooth. He tells Eczema sufferers to get from any good pharmacy an ounce of bold-sulphur and apply it to the irritated parts the same as you would any cold cream.

For many years common bold-sulphur has occupied a secure position in the practice of dermatology and cutaneous affections by reason of its parasitic-destriving property. It is not only parasitic, but also antipruritic, astringent and remarkably healing in all irritable and inflammatory conditions of the skin. While not always effecting a permanent cure it never fails to instantly subdue the angry itching and irritation and heal the Eczema right up, as it is often years later before any eruption again appears on the skin.

DUTCH PREPARING TO PROFIT BY WAR

Believe Redistribution of Avenues of Trade Will Result From Conflict.

THE HAGUE, April 20.—Far-seeing men in the Dutch industrial and commercial world are already making preparations to benefit from the results of the war from an economical point of view.

Among the leaders of industry and commerce here the opinion is almost unanimous that a redistribution of the avenues of trade is certain to be brought about. These men, of course, take the future position of Holland first into consideration. In this connection they look toward the Dutch colonies, which form an empire many times larger than the home country itself and whose requirements have been hitherto supplied to a great extent by Germany and Great Britain.

The Dutch East Indies, for instance, have depended almost entirely upon foreigners for their imports. Now, however, it is intended to make great efforts to push purely Dutch products there and to create an interest on the part of the colonies themselves in placing on a firmer footing relations with the mother country. With this end in view one step already has been taken in granting a small beginning of self-government to the Indies, which for the first time in their history this year have issued a big government loan, the responsibility for which falls upon the colonies themselves.

The Netherlands Union for the Promotion of National Industries, formed, as its name implies, for the purpose of furthering Dutch trade, is a part of the movement of Dutch industrial development arising out of present conditions. It binds its members, who are manufacturers, merchants, storekeepers and private individuals, to purchase or sell only Dutch made productions.

The members argue that much Dutch money now going to America and other countries for the purchase of articles of ordinary every day consumption could be kept in the country, while instead of Dutch investors as now seeking to place their fortunes or savings in mortgage securities in the United States and Canada they should be induced to use them in the development of Dutch trade in the mother country and its colonies. It is contended that the capital of the Royal Netherlands company for the exploitation of oil lands in the Dutch Indies is largely foreign, the Dutch having neglected to avail themselves of the opportunities offered them, while many other industries in the same colonies have fallen from the same cause into the hands of the British and the Germans.

At home in Holland even the Rotterdam Streetcar company is a Belgian concern, while, notwithstanding the fact that the country is naturally rich—in its hard working people, in its soil, its ports, its waterways and its fuel in the shape of peat—should be able to supply all its own necessities, it permits foreigners to import many articles of ordinary use which it could produce itself. A few instances of this kind are safes and locks, printing presses, matches, soap, electric lamps, pins and needles.

Lack of foresight on the part of the Dutch was shown in the question of the supply of armaments for the Netherlands army. A combination of Dutchmen offered, it is said, to construct an arms factory and make rifles up to the required standard and even went so far as to manufacture and show the government a hundred rifles of the calibre required, but the government declined the offer and bought the arms abroad.

Apart from their own immediate interests Dutch commercial and industrial leaders hold the view that the countries of South America, as a result of the uncertainty brought about in Europe by the war, will probably begin to look more and more to North America for their sources of supply. On the other hand, they regard it as likely that Germany, with her enormous commercial and industrial energy, will be forced after hostilities have ceased to look round for new outlets for her trade and will thus come into direct competition with the United States. It is generally believed here that Germany will almost certainly lose her colonies, while those of the British empire and of France will be practically sealed against her trade. Russia also, it is thought, will develop commercially and industrially to a remarkable degree and thus will close another of Germany's markets.

"Clean-Up Week" In "My Town"

for the other side. Wide-eyed, he followed while they hurried lawbreakers back and forth between them, says the Saturday Evening Post. The opposing counsel turned on suddenly: "Gabe," he demanded, "you have followed carefully this intricate discussion touching on the various aspects of medical jurisprudence involved in the issue we have before us for adjudication; and in view of that I now desire to know whether you do or do not find that your evidence still coincides with the theory advanced by my learned brother?" The witness cast a triumphant side glance at his own attorney. Then he unrolled his lips and his chest. "Most doctress!" he answered.
