INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. SIMPSON, Director of Evening Department, The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.)

LESSON FOR JULY 13
MOSES PREPARES FOR HIS WORK.

LESSON TEXT—Ex. 2:11-25.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Blessed are the meek; for they shall inherit the earth." Matt. 5:5.

Meekness does not imply any lack of aggressiveness; it does not imply a mildness of temper. Moses, we judge from a study of this chapter, was not as yet "meek above all men."

In last week's lesson we considered the birth, salvation, nursing and training of Moses as child. After Jochebed had nursed Moses (v. 9) he was returned to Pharaoh's daughter and "became her son," thereby obtaining all the rights, privileges and training of the Egyptian court.

I. His Qualifications. (1) He had a godly parentage and an early godly training. Do we appreciate the tremendous advantage of the child who is well born and well trained? True, environment is not all-sufficient, but it is a great asset. The psalmist emphasizes this when he exclaims "thou hast given me the heritage of them that fear thy name." Ps. 61:5.

(2) Moses had a knowledge of the conditions. Born and nursed in a slave's home he knew of the oppression of Israel. Reared in Pharaoh's court, he knew how the Egyptians feared these same Israelites (Ch. 1:9, 10). Moses saw (v. 11) the burdens borne by those of his own race.

Heart of Sympathy. (3) Moses had a heart of sympathy (v. 11). Seeing an Egyptian taskmaster evilly entreating a kinsman Moses' heart rebelled and at once he flew to his support and defence. Our Lord was "moved with compassion." A like righteous indignation impelled the Master to drive the money changers from the temple, and to denounce the hypocritical Pharisees. Moses had not, however, learned self-restraint, and that he should express his sympathy at the proper time and in the most effective manner.

(4) Moses was brave and zealous, v. 12. But he acted before God told him to act. He "looked this way and that," but he did not look upward.

(5) Moses was educated. We have already seen how he was taught by his own mother and that he received the training of the Egyptians, Acts 7:22. Being brave and mighty in deeds was not enough; he was "mighty in words and deeds." Thus he was prepared to stand before Pharaoh (not the father of his deliverer, but another Pharaoh, v. 24), meet him on an equal footing, and intelligently combat his religion with that of Jehovah.

(6) Moses had assurance. True, he had not as yet received God's call (see Ch. 3) for particular work and his reliance upon force, his tie-for-tie policy was not God's method of working deliverance. But Moses was obedient, and as he obeyed, God honored each step of his faith.

Moses' Mistake. (7) Moses was meek, e. g., teachable. To us this was his greatest asset. A man may be well born, well trained and know the needs and the resources at his command, but if he lack a teachable spirit he is doomed to failure. Moses made a mistake when he slew the Egyptian. At a later date when he had learned of God he undertook the same task and no difficulties daunted him. The change from a prince's position at the court to one of a humble shepherd, a despised calling, was as essential as had been those 40 years at the Egyptian schools.

II. His error. Moses endeavored to work relief by the strength of his own arm, a mistake many Christian workers are constantly making. Our warfare is not with carnal weapons. Moses had no warrant for killing the Egyptian. He was not obeying any command other than that of impulse. The life of Moses had been miraculously spared, nor had he been subject to slavery. Yet he did not know God's method nor was it God's appointed time to strike the blow for deliverance. It is true that the sufferings of the Israelites increased and that no one seemed to heed their cry. But God remembered.

III. His pilgrimage. Some one has suggested that Moses entered another school of patience which would cause him to exercise all of his meekness when he married Zipporah, Ch. 4:20-24. It is true that his father-in-law was more generous and proved a better friend than his daughter, Ch. 18:13-27. Moses gave evidence that he recognized his pilgrim character in the names he gave to his sons, v. 22 and Ch. 18:3, 4. The Christian needs constantly to be reminded that he is but a pilgrim and a stranger here below.

IV. A summary. Again we have brought before us God's wonderful method of preparing his chosen instrument for the carrying out of his promises. Not all, of course, is recorded. A life is saved and preserved. It receives a brief period of instruction at its most critical stage from the hands of its own mother. He becomes proficient in all of the learning of a rich and opulent court. Then comes a time when a definite crisis of responsibility, a crisis of persons relation to the poor, of his own blood, forces a choice. He is conscious of his own incompetence.

From Southwest Georgia

Dear Old Sentinel: I will try and give you a few dots from Southwest Georgia. I am glad to get The Sentinel every week, and to hear from the old country and so many of the Pickens people that I know. I am trying to farm here. Crops are looking fine in this part of the country. Corn is about laid by and is the finest I have ever seen. Folks say that Colquitt and Thomas counties have the finest corn crop they have had in years. Early cotton is looking fine, but nobody has a first class stand, so much had to be planted over. This is a good part of Georgia to farm in. The land is level and grows anything you want to grow. The sugar cane crop is fine here. There were several cars of melons shipped from here last week. One man has got 180 acres in melons. We had a long dry spell from the 10th of April until May 27th, but have had some good rains in June and crops are showing the effect of the rain and hot sun shine. Cotton looked sick after the cold spell, but it is all right now. Come on correspondents I like to read your letters from over the county. Guess I had better ring off as this might find its way to the waste basket and if not I will come again. Good wishes to The Sentinel and its readers.

The ONLY COOKER S. E. KISER IMMORTALITY

Some morning you and I may wake to find that what we think is life has been a dream; When we have left the somber earth behind, We may have phantoms that will brightly gleam; It may be that we, like the chrysalis, Our bodies may be poor shells from which we shall some day, willy nilly, have to crawl; But he comes to pass that you and I Shall be transformed, alas, here in the tub; I may, indeed, become a butterfly, But you may only be a hooting grub.

His Impatience. "If his meals are not always ready when he seats himself at the table, your honor, he storms. If the coffee happens to be a little cool he goes into paroxysms of rage, and if I keep him waiting for a moment when we are going out anywhere he flies into awful fits of temper. He just can't seem to control himself at all." "A very impulsive man, I should say. What, may I ask, is his business?" "He is a professional flea trainer."

Alas, It Never Can. "Permit me," said the optimist. "To gladly state That we are having weather which is simply great." "I know it," said the pessimist. "Who seemed downcast; "We might have cause for joy, if it could only last."

Curious. One of the most curious things in the world is a woman, who, having fallen in love with a man because of his wit, talks so much after their marriage that he never gets a chance to show whether he is able to keep on being witty or not.

His Friend's Opinion. "I have been married four times, and yet I often fear that I do not understand women." "The fact that you have been married four times ought to remove from your mind all doubts concerning the matter."

That Reminded Him. "It is said that plants have memories." "I have heard that some professor has put forth such a theory. In this respect plants are unlike people who borrow books."

Hard. One of the hardest things in the world is to put the ring of sincerity into a joke that is on yourself.

Dirt. Dirt is about the cheapest thing in the world, unless one is compelled to pay taxes on a patch of it.

Fear. Many a woman who doesn't fear the devil is afraid of her cook.

S. E. Kiser.
Got His Number. "I'm sorry to tell you, mum, that I'll be leaving you next week. I'm going to get married." "That so, Emma? Who is the lucky man?" "He's a policeman, mum. On this beat, too." "That's fine! I wish you joy. And what is his name?" "I don't know, yet, mum; but his number is 518."

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Caron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good, I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of wonderful success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

In Loving Memory of My Dear Teacher.

Miss Jennie Westfield, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Rosamond, died at her home in Brushy Creek, Anderson county, Sunday, June 22d, 1913, after an illness of several days. Miss Rosamond graduated from the Reidville College when quite young, and began at once her life work, that of teaching. A work she was so well qualified to do both by nature and by training. She was an exceptionally bright woman naturally, and laid in early life a good foundation for broad culture. She continued to store her mind with information as long as she was able to study. She never cared for light or trashy reading, but only the best classical literature was of interest to her. As a teacher she had few equals, no superiors. Gentle, kind, yet firm with her pupils, they all loved her. She taught for about forty years in all, and only about three years away from home. She has taught perhaps as many children as any teacher in our county. Never losing her head or temper under the most trying circumstances. Her life was uniform, always smooth. I was with her for about four years, most of that time she was my teacher and I can truthfully say that she was a model woman in every respect. For many years she had lived like a Christian, even before she united with the church. Her home life was ideal, kind, loving and gentle to all, she surely will be missed in the home and community. Farewell to a dear friend, until we meet over the river in the sunshine of God's love.

"Shall we be missed, tho by others succeeded,
Reaping the fields we in spring-time have sown;
No, for the sowers may pass from their labors,
Only remembered by what they have done."
"Only the truth that in life we have spoken,
Only the seed that on earth we have sown;
These shall pass onward when we are forgotten,
Fruits of the harvest and what we have done." Friend.
