Who took the change out of the New York stock exchange?

What's the matter with Ocoee county? It is said the enrollment there is 300 less than in the election of 1912.

The Sentinel believes in the rule of the people, and whoever is elected by the majority of the people will suit us.

Norfolk, Va., wants to be annexed to North Carolina. What's the use of jumping from the skillet into the fire?

Another drawback about this European war is that it has precluded the possibility of the adjournment of congress.

'Now is the time for all good men to sit steady in this boat,' says the Anderson Mail. 'Too late, brother; she's done upset.'

Candidates for office, just like other people, grab the newspapers for the war news, even if they do say they don't tell the truth.

Speaking of foreign war names just wait until that old General Shovelworth of thisesidewalksky, of Russia, begins operations!

Those travelers' cheques are no checks at all. At least, European travelers can't get any of these cheques cashed in times of war.

Wars are originated and promoted by the rich and powerful, but the poor people do all the fighting, and when it is over, do the fighting.

The New York stock market has been closed temporarily. If we can get along for a while without this legalized gambling, why not all the time?

Speaking of Prof. Clinkscales for governor, it has been suggested that the Clink sounds all right, but that the scales part of it sounds rather fishy.

About all the United States can do in this European war is to watch and wait some more. We've had plenty of practice at that game—and won.

Many Americans are marooned in Europe on account of the war, and the Anderson Mail is mean enough to hope that some of them will never get back.

Paragoric, which millions of mothers have been dopping their babies with for years, cannot now be bought in New York without a written prescription from a physician.

The rich man is going to send his children to school, no matter what the cost, and we believe better school facilities should be provided by the state for the masses of the people.

Nature plays some curious tricks at times. In Columbus, July 30, it was so hot that people were made in their clothing were wearing were also a

Clinkscales Is the Man

Knowing John G. Clinkscales personally, we have no hesitancy in recommending him to the people of Pickens county as a man worthy of your votes in his race for governor of our state. We know him to be a clean, honest, sincere and broad-minded man and a man who will fight fearlessly and to the last ditch for the rights of the common people of this state. He understands conditions in this state, and especially in the mountain section, better than any other man in the race and we would be helping ourselves by helping to elect this man governor. There are other good men in the race, notably Cooper and Manning, but we believe Clinkscales is closer to the masses of the people than any other candidate. We endorse the following paragraph which we take from the Newberry Observer:

"We have nothing to say against the other candidates, but we have this to say about Mr. Clinkscales: He represents the biggest idea and the greatest boon to South Carolina that is before the people—the abolition of illiteracy and a chance in the public schools for every child in the state, no matter how poor and humble he may be, and therefore a chance to win success and favor in the race of life. Other candidates may trim and straddle, and talk about the expense and the 'nigger' and other things to befuddle the mind. Clinkscales brushes away all these objections, which would keep a large portion of the people forever illiterate and therefore 'in quicksand and shallows.' He knows the needs of the people and he comes out squarely in advocacy of a chance for all. He knows there is nothing substantial in the cry of 'great expense,' for the schools we have are ample for the larger proportion of the children out of school, and whatever additional expense would be necessary would be the best investment the state could possibly make. The minds of the people are turning to this man with the big idea and the big heart; the man, too, who is for law and order and progress; a man who loves all the people of South Carolina and would make the state a governor of whom every man, woman and child could be proud of."

Clinkscales is the man! Of what use is diplomacy, anyhow? It do-sn't avert war.—Anderson Mail. Diplomacy of the right sort averted war between this country and Mexico and wound up the war between the Mexicans themselves. The trouble is, the right brand of diplomacy is not always available.

There has been more actual business transacted by the Wilson administration of less than two years' duration than was accomplished by the three previous full terms of the Republicans. This administration will go down in history as a business one, unmingled with much politics.

"I'd rather receive these flow-ers than be elected to the senate by the lawless element of South Carolina." So says Mr. Jennings, candidate for the United States senate. Is that an admission that the next senator from South Carolina will be elected by the lawless element? If it does, who is the candidate of that element? We are simply looking for information.

Henry Ford, of automobile fame, is sure a great advertiser. Since setting the world agog a year ago by sharing profits with his employees as beneficiaries, he now proposes to further share them with purchasers of Ford cars by reducing the cars $60 each, beginning last Saturday, to remain in effect one year, and if the output reaches 300,000 cars in that time each purchaser will also be paid a profit of from $40 to $60. Great is Ford.

The Pickens County Campaign Opened

The Easley correspondent of the Greenville News writes: Easley, Aug. 6.—The opening meeting of the Pickens county campaign was held at 10 o'clock this morning in the school auditorium. There were two or three hundred present to hear the speakers and all were given a quiet and respectful hearing. Twenty-one candidates for various offices spoke, there being about five absent. Neither of the three candidates for magistrate in this township spoke.

On account of the illness of his wife Mr. Laban Mauldin, president of the Easley Democratic club, was unable to preside and appointed Mr. Lloyd H. Smith in his stead. Mr. Smith presided with ease and dignity and in a few well chosen words he warned the voters of the responsibility of casting their ballots for the most capable man. He stated that many people make light of their votes when they should be regarded as very sacred.

There are more candidates offering for office this year than is usually the case. A list of the candidates may be found in the announcement column of The Sentinel. No new features marked the platforms of the candidates for legislature and senate, around which the greater part of interest was manifested. All were in favor of promoting education particularly in the rural districts. A two cent railroad rate was advocated by some while it was not discussed by others.

Each candidate for the legislature and senate was provided with slips of paper before the speaking asking that they express their opinions on the subject of pensions for the veterans of our State. Without an exception all candidates agreed that the present pension law was a disgrace and if elected that they would exert every effort to have the amount considerably increased.

After all of the county speakers had concluded Hon. Fred H. Dominick, of Newberry, a candidate for congress from this district, addressed the audience for a few moments. The chairman announced that the Pickens County Agricultural and Mechanical Association would meet here on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock in the school auditorium. Ladies are especially invited to this meeting.

Mr. Leach Withdraws

At the solicitation of several of my friends I announced myself as a candidate for the House of Representatives. Since that time, however, I have reconsidered the matter and decided to withdraw my candidacy. To make the campaign, and if elected, would take more time than I can take away from my law practice and I am not in a position to make the sacrifice. I thank my friends for their very kind offers of support.

Heretofore, Pickens county has always been ably represented; and from the list of the gentlemen offering themselves at this time there is no doubt but that our county will at the next term of the legislature have representatives who will not only favor and work for good government for the state of South Carolina but who will also use their best efforts to secure any legislation which might be directly beneficial to Pickens county.

JOS. E. LEACH.
