

The Pickens Sentinel

PICKENS, S. C. OCTOBER 22, 1914.

GARY HIOTT, MANAGER The Sentinel is not responsible for the views of its correspondents.

Cotton is one of the worst best sellers just now.

It will soon be time to start a buy-a-possom movement.

Anyway, the war has not raised the price of turnip greens.

The all-cotton farmer of the future will receive no sympathy.

Sherman did not have to say that "war is hell." It told on itself.

A buy a barrel of beer movement has been started in Milwaukee.

We are sorry the legislators didn't limit one-horse legislatures to five bills.

We are all right now. The "experts" say that business is picking up right along.

Everybody is entitled to at least three guesses about how to solve the cotton problem.

"Badly in need of funds," reads a headline. That seems to be the general complaint these days.

It takes two pounds of cotton now to buy one pound of hog meat. And three pounds to buy one of beef.

The editor of the Greenville Volks-Blatt has not received his iron cross yet, judging from the editorial page.

"On account of the war" marriages are falling off all over this country. But in the war zone they are increasing.

Georgia is in luck. There will be no extra session of the legislature. It is doubtful if South Carolina needed one.

If Huerta should be "called" back to Mexico, wonder if he would bring that salute with him? He owes us one.

Raise any old thing you want to, Mr. Farmer; it's up to you, and you only. But quit raising so much "sand" about it.

Wonder what Representative Gray of Anderson has got against newspaper men, that he wants them preferred as office-holders?

Just think a little, Mr. Southern-Farmer; where would you be "at" with a Republican, Southern-hating administration in power?

Carranza says he has a well-equipped army of 100,000 men. Has old whiskers been drinking the same kind of likker that Huerta consumed?

"On account of the war" glass eyes have advanced in price. We will try to worry along with the eyes the Lord provided us with until after the war, at least.

A father of two or three little tots has no need of going to a moving picture show down town of an evening.—Anderson Intelligence. How about mamma?

The suffragists are accumulating a war chest. Mrs. Frank Leslie, who died recently, left over $800,000 to be used in the campaign for "votes for women"

The crop of wild oats is reported as a bumper one this year, as usual. It never fails. We know a lot of young fellows it would pay handsomely to sow the other variety.

War experts are no better than experts in other lines. They said Antwerp could hold out for at least sixty days; but fourteen hours of pounding by the German artillery did the job.

"The allies, it is said, will demand five billion dollars indemnity from Germany," says an exchange. They will, of course. Germany does not make the demand from the allies first.

Why not divide Mexico in two, giving Carranza the south and Villa the northern half? The country is plenty large enough for both of them. And such a division might make for peace in that country.

"On account of the war" the government has quit sending out daily and weekly weather forecasts. The cables have been cut, and the weather bureau has been unable to do much business with the weather.

Shift our hat and extend our love to Editor W. W. Smoak of Anderson Intelligence. A man of fine ability, a possessor of a really good, red nose, and a really good, already made

Before the European war began our congressmen were anxious to come home. But since the war has ruined the cotton market they are afraid to come home, having failed to induce Uncle Sam to help the cotton situation out.

The United States has about given up messing with Mexico, and it is thought the administration has decided to let them fight it out among themselves. Either that or go down there and clean up the whole bunch and have done with it.

The Augusta Chronicle insists on speaking of "Miss Catt" in connection with the suffrage movement and Mrs. Leslie's will. We have read of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt; but who is the miss?—Newberry Observer. Maybe it's one of the old Catt's kittens?

To our many exchanges who want to be shown a copy of that Southern newspaper which did not give any advice to the farmers as to how much cotton to plant next year, we will say it is locked up in a safety deposit vault, along with our diamonds, government bonds, and other valuables.

While bemoaning our own misfortunes growing out of the European war, think once of the poor men, women and children in the war-torn countries—the thousands of widows and orphans who have been compelled to flee from their homes in order to save life itself. Our woes are nothing in comparison.

"The Trey O' Hearts," our new serial story, will soon be presented to our readers. It is said by those who have read this story to be fine—full of human interest, with plenty of thrills. In order to get the first installments of this great story, those who are not now in The Sentinel family should join at once.

In those western states where there was raised an immense wheat crop the farmers did not profit by the high price of their grain because the wheat was sold or contracted for before the European war broke out, though they got a fair price. The speculators are the ones who profit by the increase since the war began.

The South Carolina legislature, now in special session, might help the situation by passing a law to prohibit Texas from raising cotton next year.—Anderson Mail. There would be about as much sense in that as it would be for our sons to pass a law to cut the cotton acreage down in South Carolina. The only persons who can do that are the farmers themselves.

Postmaster-General Burleson says that the department intends to do away with assistant postmasters, and that hereafter those who receive appointments must do the work for which they are appointed. In Atlanta there is no assistant postmaster. All others in the employ of post-offices throughout the country will be designated as clerks. If this thing keeps on some of our postmasters will be earning their salaries soon.

German-sounding names are unpopular in London both from a social and business standpoint, and as a consequence there is a rush of people with those names to the courts to have them changed. Some take old English names and some take Irish and Scotch names. One man named Kaiser had his name changed to King, which was quite tactful. Another one, named Kuss, had his changed to Cuss, which was not much of an improvement.

How the legislature of South Carolina is going to make a law to prohibit the planting of cotton, or any other crop, for that matter, is beyond us. The supreme court of the United States, if not the state court, would knock a law of that kind sky-high at the first shot. Besides, there are ten other cotton states to take into consideration. If they should continue to plant cotton as of yore, the total elimination proposed in this state would amount to nothing as to the price paid for the staple. If all of the eleven cotton-growing states would cut the acreage in half for 1915 it is thought the price of the present crop would advance at once. As it now is, cotton is getting lower every day.

If the poor farmers could only gather together all the advice given them—free—and sell it as high as the lawyers charge for their advice they would get a good deal more for advice than they will get for their cotton crop at the present prices. And yet, with all the advice he gets, the farmer must work out his own problem. No one else can work it out for him. The farmer knows just as well, or better, than anyone else that to raise more grain and less cotton would be better for him and for the entire country, and yet he is waiting for the other fellow to cut the acreage of cotton first. It may be that the present gloomy condition in financial affairs, caused by the low price of cotton, will be a blessing in disguise.

A Letter That Does Us Good

Editor Pickens Sentinel: Your letter to hand, stating you could not send your paper any longer without cash in advance; that your paper and raw material was advancing every day. I am aware of the fact that you are following the law and doing your duty. I can't do without your paper if it cost me $5, so I enclose you a brand-new $1 bill that Uncle Sam has just made out of the high raw material. I sold 14 pounds of cotton to get this paper, while last year I only had to sell 8 pounds for my paper, so you see it has cost about twice as much this year as it did last.

This is a mighty pretty one dollar bill and I hate to see you leave me so bad, but I want to put this hard money where it will do the most good. The dear old Sentinel has come to my home so long I will say good-bye, dollar bill, go and bring me The Sentinel another year. Yours truly, J. A. ROBINSON. Easley, S. C., Oct. 13.

Warehouse Bill Passes Senate

Columbia, Oct. 14.—The McLaurin bill providing for a state system of warehouses for the storing of cotton and validation of the cotton warehouse receipt passed the Senate this afternoon by a vote of 27 to 11 and was ordered sent to the House. The bill provides for one commissioner at a salary of $3,000 per year to be elected by the General Assembly for a term of two years to handle the warehouse system. The bill carries an appropriation of $15,000 for salaries and expense of putting the plan into operation. The warehouse commissioner to have the power to acquire warehouse by lease or condemnation and to appoint such subordinates as necessary. He is to give bond in the sum of $50,000.

The bill provides for state validation of the warehouse receipt, the receipt to carry absolute title to the cotton and to guarantee the weight and grade. The Senate adopted the House concurrent resolution providing for one member of the house to be appointed by the speaker and one member of the Senate to be appointed by the Senate to accompany Governor Bleasdale to the conference of governors of the cotton growing states to be held in Memphis, Tenn., on Friday, expenses to be paid out of the governor's contingent fund. The police regulations committee reported that under the limitation of the activities of the session they were unable to report on the resolution of Senator Lawson, providing for all dispensaries in the state to be closed until the end of the European war. On request of the Darlingston senator his resolution went on the calendar.

The House refused emphatically to accept less than full pay for the extra session when it killed this morning the resolution from the Senate fixing $5 a day and mileage as compensation for members of the legislature. The administration bills on the House calendar to postpone the payment of taxes for 1914 were all killed this morning by an overwhelming vote. The resolution providing for referring the issuing of $10,000,000 in bonds to the qualified voters at the next election was defeated.

Rev. D. W. Hiott in Belton

Rev. D. W. Hiott of Easley was in town Saturday en route to Neal's Creek and Prospect, two of his churches. The hour of service at Neal's Creek Sunday at 11 a. m. and at Prospect at 4 in the afternoon. Baptism at both places Sunday—11 candidates at each church. Rev. Mr. Hiott closed a meeting at Mount Pisgah September 22, and at the close of the meeting baptized 34. He was ably assisted in this meeting by Rev. J. F. Vines of Anderson. The meeting was a very successful one spiritually. Mr. Hiott has been pastor of Mt. Pisgah since 1876, with the exception of a few years. He has filled this charge 20 years. There are only four members at Mt. Pisgah who were there in 1876. Some died and others chanced their membership. Mr. Hiott is 62 years old; was born and raised in Colleton county and has been preaching 44 years and is still a young looking man. He has hundreds of friends throughout South Carolina. He is at home anywhere in this true in old Colleton, the home of his childhood.—Belton Journal.

A Coincidence

That is a coincidence about the people at the first Philadelphia game of the world series as compared with the first Philadelphia game of 1913. Last year, the opening game was played at the Polo Grounds and the second game at Philadelphia. The announced paid admission at Friday's game was 20,562. The receipts were $49,839. In the first game in Philadelphia last year, the attendance was 20,563; the receipts $49,840. It will be seen that there was one more dollar.

A True Indictment

A good friend of ours, once a resident of Gaffney and therefore an admirer of her people and the people of the South in general, who now lives in Philadelphia, sent us the other day a clipping from the Philadelphia Inquirer, which, in our judgment, hits the nail on the head. Our friend evidently is aroused over the matter, as his letter indicates that he does not agree with the sentiments expressed in the article, but we are here to admit that the indictment is true—every word of it. We are really ashamed of our people that they should plead with the people of other sections for aid in the manner in which they have when there is no necessity to do so. Cotton has sold for a less price than is being offered for it today and we did not beg and whine to be taken care of. We have been in a thousand times worse shape financially and otherwise than we are today and we scorned to ask our friends in the North and East to come to our rescue. As a matter of fact The Ledger desires that the farmers of the South obtain every penny they can for their cotton crop, but we want them to obtain it in a many manner and not be dependent upon any one. Our people are too proud and self-reliant to appeal to the people of any other section of this great country of ours for help unless some real calamity overtakes us, and this has not been the case as yet. We submit the remarks of the Inquirer:

"Appeals from all parts of the South have come to the North and many a Philadelphian asking that cotton be bought for ten cents a pound and held for a rise while planters' making their annual settlements. Otherwise we are assured the South will be bankrupt. "When we consider that for generations the South has had the best cash crop in the world and that for ten years cotton has been raised at a great profit, the impotence of Southern financial institutions to care for the crop is significant. It shows that the South has not well conserved its resources. The West has not sent appeals for help in caring for its wheat and corn crops because the thrifty farmers have managed to get into good position, and Western financial institutions rival those of the East in banking power. The South has ever lived on the come easy go easy plan and never has accumulated a surplus for emergencies. "It is quite true that wheat is up and cotton is down on account of the war, but it is, nevertheless, no credit to the South that it is in such poor strategic position. All the time the Southern statesmen have been railing at the financial institutions of the East and condemning Wall street to perdition, there has been no effort to do anything but raise cotton. Now the South can raise almost everything that grows, has coal and iron and plenty of natural resources. The plain truth is that the average Southerner is not a constructive financier. Now he appeals to thrice formerly decided financial centres for aid not in the ordinary manner but begs, hat in hand, for dribs of money from individuals."—Gaffney Ledger.

Letter From Lonnie Jennings

Following is a letter received by Mrs. J. C. Jennings, of Pickens, from her son, who joined the United States army a few weeks ago: Angel Island, Cal., Sept. 28. Dear Mamma:—Arrived here this afternoon and it was sure a fine trip. We were four days and four nights on the road. We left Columbus barracks last Thursday morning and arrived in San Francisco today (Monday) at 5 p. m. We didn't stay but a few minutes in Frisco, but caught a boat and came right over here. This place is just four miles from Frisco and is on a high mountain, so you can see Frisco good from here. Will try to describe my trip to you. We were on a special train of twelve coaches, all pull man cars, and two dining cars, so you see they sent us away in good style. Will write you the different states we were in at meal times so you can see how fast we were traveling. We ate supper in Ohio Thursday; breakfast in Illinois Friday; dinner in Missouri Friday; supper in Kansas Friday; breakfast in Colorado Saturday; dinner and supper in New Mexico Saturday; breakfast, dinner and supper in Arizona Sunday, breakfast and dinner in California Monday. The country sure is pretty out here. If I live to get out of the army I intend to make the west my home. New Mexico is a pretty country. We stopped over for two hours in Kansas City, Mo., and they let us look the town over. It is a fine place. They also stopped over three hours in Chicago, Ill. Now believe me, that is some town. We also stopped over in Las Vegas, New Mexico. We crossed the Rocky mountains in Arizona and passed through fourteen tunnels one six miles long. San Francisco is a big town. It is the finest place I ever was in. It is nice and warm over here. I saw lots of prairie dogs on the prairies of Kansas and Colorado. They are little dogs just about the size of a big rat. We passed through lots of cowboys and Mexicans. In fact, it was a fine trip all the way round. I wouldn't take $500 for it. We leave here next Monday for the Philippine Islands, so don't write to me until you hear from me again. It will take us 30 days to get there, as it is 11,000 miles from here. This is a pretty place. It is on a large Island by the name of Angel Island. Well, my paper has run out so will close. With much love to all. Your son, LONNIE.

Prizes For Rural Schools

State Superintendent of Education Swearing has set apart $1,250 to be awarded by the School Improvement association, and it has been arranged to divide the amount into ten first prizes of $50 each and thirty second prizes of $25 each. The awards are to be made for improvement achieved between October 1, 1913 and December 1, 1914. Only rural schools are eligible for the competition, and all who propose to compete must first secure permission through the county superintendent of education, who will furnish such blanks as may be necessary, including score cards and the like. The prize money is to be paid out in checks to be deposited to the credit of the winning districts and to be used for further improvements.

When Colonel Bryan wants anything he knows how to get it, as note the manner in which he got the consent of the owner of Monticello, Jefferson's home, to sell it to the government. The eloquent and patriotic tongue and pen of the "Peerless Leader" accomplished that which many others failed to do.

One good result of the war has shown itself in Russia, where in the past two months the Jewish people have been authorized to become army and navy officers and the highest grades are accessible to them. It is believed that more important decisions will be made, and it is proposed in high Russian circles to annul all other restrictions affecting the Hebrew community. The Russian Bear must be getting short of fighting material.

$100 Reward, $100 The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one good disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh of the Bladder. It is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. It cures by destroying the foundation of the disease, and builds up the strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for literature to J. C. GILKINSON & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by Druggists. Beware of cheap imitations. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

NOTHING BETTER FOR WEAK WOMEN

"I Never Spent Any Money That Did Me So Much Good as That I Spent for Vinol." Bellefontaine, Ohio.—"I wish every tired, weak, nervous woman could have Vinol for I never spent any money in my life that did me so much good as that I spent for Vinol. My nerves were in a very bad condition, making me very weak, tired, and worn out and often drowsy headaches. I had tried cod liver oil, doctor's medicines, and other preparations without benefit. "One day a friend asked me to try Vinol. I did and soon my appetite increased, I slept better and now I am strong, vigorous and well and can do my household work with pleasure."—Mrs. J. F. LAMBORN, Bellefontaine, Ohio.

Nervous, weak, tired, worn-out women should take Mrs. Lamborn's advice and try Vinol for there are literally thousands of men and women who were formerly run-down, weak and nervous, who owe their good health to Vinol. It is the medicinal, tissue building elements of the cod's livers, aided by the blood making, strengthening influence of tonic iron, contained in Vinol, which makes it so efficient in all such cases.
