

TILLMAN FAVORS ADEQUATE NAVY

CONFIDENCE IN WILSON AND THINKS CONGRESS WILL MAKE SUFFICIENT PROVISIONS.

DISPATCHES FROM COLUMBIA

Doings and Happenings That Mark the Progress of South Carolina People, Gathered Around the State Capitol.

Columbia. Special from Washington.—Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, chairman of the senate committee on naval affairs, held a brief conference with President Wilson a few days ago on proposed legislation for national defense. He said, after leaving the White House, that the chairmen of the senate and house military and naval affairs committees will meet in a formal conference at the White House after the president has received reports and recommendations from Secretaries Garrison and Daniels.

"I am for a safe and sane policy of naval and military expansion," said Senator Tillman, "and I believe that the people will endorse whatever programme the president proposes to congress. I think it is safe to say that President Wilson, in his recommendations to congress, will strike a happy middle ground between the damned jingo who would involve this country in war and the advocate of peace at any price."

"I take no stock in this talk about an appropriation of $500,000,000 for the army and navy and I do not believe that any other sane member of congress does. I believe that there will be increases in the naval appropriation for defensive weapons of warfare."

"In making up our programme we will not pay any attention to the infernal fool jingo who would lead the Democratic party into something from which it would never escape, but we will prepare to defend ourselves and not let the other fellow catch us with our breeches down."

"There is no real demand where I have been for an extravagant expenditure of money on a navy and an army just because a lot of foreign nations are in a bloody war. We are going to carry out the Democratic platform and provide an adequate navy. There will be a number of increases in appropriations for submarines and other defensive sea craft. By the time congress meets we will be able to come to some reasonable conclusion as to what we should play down."

Senator Tillman was at the White House about the time the news of the German concessions was carried to the president.

Asparagus Growers Organize.

Special from Alken.—A meeting was held here of the leading asparagus growers of South Carolina who have organized themselves into an association for the purpose of the better production and marketing of asparagus. This is one of the first co-operative associations of its kind in this part of the south and comprises as its field the entire state. J. B. Knight of Greenville is president, B. R. Tillman, Jr., of Trenton, secretary. Directors, D. B. Day, Trenton; F. T. Carville, Ridge Spring; B. M. Ashbill, Ridge Spring; B. R. Tillman, Jr., Trenton; M. C. Kitchens, Williston; J. L. Shuler, Williston; D. E. Crouch, Elko; B. M. Hair, Elko; Otis Abraham, Hattiesville.

It was estimated that the amount of asparagus that will be controlled by this association will approach 300 carloads next season with a steady and constant increase each year.

Cattle Tick Cost $90,000,000.

Washington.—The cattle tick cost the United States approximately $90,000,000 during the past year, according to estimates by Dr. A. D. Melvin, chief of the federal bureau of animal industry, recently. This includes destruction of the cattle, decreases in value of hides and in production of milk, etc.

Constables Make Heavy Seizures.

State constables operating in Charleston under the direction of Sheriff Martin seized 13,400 bottles of beer during August, according to a report filed with Gov. Manning. Other seizures were: 27 one-fourth barrels of beer, 18 one-eighth barrels of beer; 649 quarts of whiskey, 1,464 half-pints of whiskey, 37 quarts of wine and much champagne and brandy. One beer wagon was seized. Gov. Manning said that he was very much gratified with the report and that the campaign would be pushed harder.

LaRoque Succeeds Herbert A. Moses. Herbert A. Moses of Sumter resigned as private secretary to Gov. Manning and O. K. LaRoque will assume his new duties at once. "I resigned some weeks ago," said Mr. Moses, "but Gov. Manning and myself agreed it would be best for me to remain while he was on his recent trip. My resignation was caused by the necessity for me to return to my home in Sumter. The transfer will be made probably the end of this week." Mr. LaRoque is well known throughout the state.

Visitors to Get First Hand View.

Visits to the state, county and municipal penal, correctional and charitable institutions in Richland county will enable visitors who attend the joint meetings of the South Carolina Conference of Charities and Corrections and the Conference for the Common Good in Columbia on September 7, 8 and 9 to get at first hand a knowledge of conditions existing in them and of the problems with which those in charge of them are contending. Parties will be made up on the afternoon of September 8 and 9 to inspect the state hospital for the insane, the penitentiary, the state tuberculosis hospital, the state reformatory for negro boys, the new Richland county jail, the Columbia jail, the Richland almshouse.

The Conference for the Common Good, which held a very successful session in Columbia in 1913, will concern itself at its approaching meeting mainly with economic topics. The Conference of Charities and Corrections, which has held regular meetings for a number of years, will have under discussion this year the proper treatment of the short term prisoner and the best method of dealing with the feeble-minded.

At the opening session of the conferences at 8 o'clock on the evening of September 7, Gov. Richard I. Manning will deliver an address on "The Farmer's Problem in Marketing His 1915 Cotton Crop." Albert S. Johnson, secretary of the state board of charities and corrections, will speak the same evening on the "State Board of Charities and Corrections; Its Functions and Aims."

The program for the meetings of the Conference for the Common Good and the Conference of Charities and Corrections on the mornings and evenings of November 8 and 9 are varied and interesting.

Williamston Folk Want New County.

Special from Greenville.—Some 400 to 500 citizens of the Williamston section met in Williamston to discuss the feasibility of taking steps looking to the formation of a new county. The advocates of the new county hope to cut off parts of Anderson and Greenville counties, about 197 square miles from Greenville and 209 square miles from Anderson. This would make the proposed new county contain 406 square miles, which is six miles more than the requirements of the constitution.

The meeting held showed the enthusiasm of the people for the new county. J. C. Duckworth was elected permanent chairman of the movement. The citizens of Williamston have guaranteed to float from $25,000 to $30,000 in bonds for a court house and a jail, in case the county is formed. Williamston would be the county seat. Roughly speaking, the lines would run across Greenville county through Grove Station, thence toward Fairview and to the Laurens county line; thence down that line almost to Belton, and loop round then back to the starting point. No permanent surveys have been made.

Governor Manning Fills Vacancies.

Gov. Manning has announced the following appointments: L. Rembert Dixon of Bishopville, commissioner of state and county elections to take the place of Paul S. Dobson, who has moved out of Lee county. W. H. Willmon, supervisor for Greenville county, from September 1, 1915, to January 1, 1917, on recommendation of the Greenville delegation. Mr. Willmon succeeds himself. John L. Caskey magistrate for Lancaster county, to succeed I. T. Hunter, deceased. T. A. Patrick, commissioner of state and county elections, to take the place of F. A. Gross, now a magistrate.

J. F. Strain, magistrate for Cherokee county, to take the place of J. R. Hughe, resigned.

Address Southern Conference.

Special from Washington.—Members of the Southern Commercial congress asked D. C. Roper, first assistant postmaster general, to deliver an address at the seventh annual meeting which is to be held at Charleston December next. Mr. Roper promised to accept providing public business does not keep him in Washington. His subject will probably be "The Relation of the Parcel Post to the Farmer and Business Man."

New Charters Issued By Secretary.

The Merchants and Farmers' bank of Cherah has filed notice with the secretary of state of a decrease in capital from $125,000 to $100,000.

The C. L. Schmancke Grain Company of Charleston was commissioned with a capital of $3,000. The petitioners are: George M. Schmancke and C. L. Schmancke.

The Bultman Shoe Company of Sumter was commissioned with a capital of $11,000. The petitioners are: J. E. White, J. N. Brunson and E. W. A. Bultman.

The Bluffton Wharf company has been commissioned with a capital of $500. The petitioners are: D. H. Heyward, J. C. Snyder, B. B. Crosby, A. E. Mulligan and W. J. Frapp.

The Farmers' Warehouse company of North has been commissioned with a capital of $3,000. The petitioners are: J. M. Davis, J. A. Langston, J. B. Punkett, A. H. Jones, F. L. Witt and L. K. Etheredge.

The Ninety-Six Warehouse company has been commissioned with a capital of $1,300. The petitioners are: D. M. Lipscomb, J. C. Wier, W. F. Anderson, W. O. Self, J. B. Sloan.

HOLD MEETING IN COLUMBIA

Third Triennial Convention of Pelagria Experts in October Will Attract Distinguished Visitors.

Columbia.—It has been definitely decided by the several committees that the third triennial meeting of the National Association for the study of Pelagria will be held in Columbia October 21 and 22 next.

Surgeon General Rupert Blue of the United States public health service has assigned Drs. Lavinder, Goldberger and Voegtlin to represent the service at the meeting. Drs. Siler, Garrison and MacNeal of the Thompson-McFadden pelagria commission will attend.

The headquarters of the association will be at the Jefferson hotel, but the scientific meetings will be held in the amusement hall of the state hospital for the insane, through the courtesy of the regents and C. F. Williams, M. D., the superintendent and members of the hospital staff will contribute papers but their subjects have not yet been announced.

From foreign countries papers have already been promised. Among these are:

"Vitamins and Pelagria," by Dr. Eugenio Bravetta of the Provincial asylum at Mombello, near Milan, Italy. Dr. Bravetta is now surgeon in the war zone of northern Italy.

"Alimentation by Corn Products in Healthy Individuals and in Pelagria," by Prof. P. Albertoni and Dr. P. Tullio of the University of Bologna, Italy.

Drs. Sandwith and Sambon of London have been contributors to the previous conferences and will no doubt send articles for this meeting. It is essentially desired by the committee to have a paper on "The History of Pelagria in Great Britain" for this conference. An article on the historical side of pelagria in Egypt, Canada and other countries is also expected.

These papers have already been promised from this country:

"The Etiology of Pelagria," by Fr. George C. Mizell, Atlanta.

Papers are promised by Dr. Roy Blosser and Dr. R. T. Dorsey, Atlanta, but the titles are not given.

Dr. J. LaBruce Ward of Columbia, will read a paper on "Pelagria and Pneumonia in a Child of Three Years."

Other papers promised are: Dr. H. W. Rice of Columbia on "The Cause of Pelagria in Connection With 2000 Children."

Dr. E. B. Saunders of Columbia on "Central Nouritis in Pelagria," and Dr. J. W. Babcock on "Further Studies of the Medico-Legal Relations of Pelagria."

Fell Through Bridge.

Union.—R. L. Rochester, his wife and several children, one an infant, fell through the bridge into the "Forest" when they attempted to drive over Rice's bridge in a wagon recently. The bridge gave way and the team, wagon and occupants fell a considerable distance into the stream. They were severely bruised and the infant came near being drowned.

Increase Fire Fighting Efficiency.

Charleston.—The efficiency of the Charleston fire department is to be greatly increased when the new 1,000 gallon a minute, triple combination motor pumping engine.

SOUTH CAROLINA NEWS ITEMS.

School opened at Thornwell orphanage a few days ago with 350 in attendance. Cain's hotel, which has been run at St. Matthews for a number of years by Mrs. F. C. Cain, has been leased by W. P. and C. L. Prickett and they are now in charge. The women of Spartanburg will hold a mass meeting on the afternoon of September 12 in the interest of prohibition. The service will take the form of a mammoth prayer meeting.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By O. E. SELLERS, Acting Director of the Sunday School Course of the Moody Bible Institute.)

LESSON FOR SEPTEMBER 12

ELIJAH'S FLIGHT AND RETURN.

LESSON TEXT—I Kings 19:3-18. (Read entire chapter.) GOLDEN TEXT—Be still and know that I am God. Ps. 46:10.

Elijah's great victory over the prophets of Baal which resulted in their extermination is followed by a most notable prayer service on the top of Mount Carmel (18:42-45). So confident was the prophet that at the arising of "a little cloud," he hastily summoned the feasting king and urges his departure to his home, "that the rain stop thee not." The God whom Elijah had honored so signally that day laid his hand upon the prophet (18:46) so that he was able to outrun the king's horses to the entrance of Jezreel. There he is met by a messenger of the wicked queen (19:2) who had been the protector and provider of the slain prophets. Getting his eyes off of God and seeing only a vile and wicked woman Elijah not only ran for his life out of Ahab's domains but also "went a day's journey into the wilderness" to the protecting shade of a juniper tree (v. 4).

I. The Discouraged Prophet, vv. 4-8. Old and young, great and small, we all have our periods of discouragement and frequently despair. Christian's encounter with Giant Despair appeals to us all for it is so true to life. At Carmel, Elijah controlled the king; in his palace at Jezreel, Jezebel soon shattered his good resolutions, if he had any. We must recall that it was her prophets Elijah had destroyed. There is a suggestion in the fact that Elijah did not enter her presence (18:46). Yonder in the wilderness, his Gethsemane, Elijah prayed a vastly different sort of prayer than upon Mount Carmel. Jezebel is still in power. Heathenism is not overthrown, his efforts had been but trying to "dam Niagara with bur-rushes."

No one who has ever heard the oratorio "Elijah" sung will ever forget the bitter agony of "It is enough." The prophet who alone had been exalted to the heights was alone capable to sounding such a depth of human despair. The sources of his discouragement were his physical condition, his loneliness, inactivity, mental reaction and a feeling that his cause was lost.

God's first remedy was to feed his fainting servant and then give him a task to perform, viz., a journey to Mount Horeb (Mount of God), for God loved him just as truly now as previously at Carmel. In this new strength Elijah went "forty days" (v. 8; I Pet. 2:2).

II. The Encouraging God, vv. 9-13. God's second remedy was to give Elijah his word though this time it suggested reproof. "What doest thou here?" Elijah is out of place. In reply he begins to rehearse his loyalty to God, and how bad the others were and then in seeming petulance he adds, "and they seek my life." "I only," are the words of the selfish man and when Elijah used them he too was a backslidden servant. It is true that there was great apostasy in Israel but the prophet was far from being the only true servant remaining. (See 18:4; 20:13; 22:35, 41; 22:8). This is a favorite way the Evil One has for paralyzing our efforts. There is no evidence but that the 7,000 were as brave, certainly at that moment more so, than Elijah. God then continued his treatment by giving the prophet a vision of himself and of his methods for advancing his kingdom. A series of symbols made the truth plainer and more impressive than words alone could possibly have done. Leaving the protecting cave Elijah first met a wind which "rent the mountains," a type of Elijah's past activity. This was not God's chief power nor method. The mighty wind which destroys is as nothing compared to the silent forces which create.

III. The Result, vv. 14-18. As a sovereign remedy God now sets before Elijah three definite tasks to perform. Elijah still speaks of his faithfulness as though the success of The Cause depended upon him. The man who assumes that attitude in the work of God's kingdom will, like Elijah, soon be set aside. Elijah's first task was to avoid Israel. Elijah's first task was to avoid Israel. Elijah's first task was to avoid Israel. Elijah's first task was to avoid Israel. Elijah's first task was to avoid Israel.

Elijah's work is now that of fire and wind, but of the "still small voice." To others is delegated the more spectacular tasks which these typify.

In this connection (v. 17) those are strange words, "shali, Elisha slay." To fully understand them we must be familiar with that prophet's life and work, also with that accomplished by Jehu. (See II Kings 2:23, 24; Hos. 6:5, 6; Isa. 11:6.)

Elijah's third task was to appoint his successor and surely no harder task ever comes to any of us than to turn over our work to another.

FABLES IN SLANG

The New Fable of Everybody's Friend and the Line-Bucker.

In a sequestered Dump lived two Urchins, Edgar and Rufus, who went to the Post with about an equal Handicap. They got away together down the broad Avenue of Hope which leads one Lad over the hills and far away to the United States Senate Chamber and guides another unerringly to the Federal Pen near Leavenworth, Kansas. When Edgar was a Tootsey he received a frequent dusting with Extreme Violet Talcum Powder and was allowed to play with a flaxen-haired Doll named Celeste.

About the same time, Rufus began to take Cold Baths and was propped up to look at Pictures of Napoleon and John L. Sullivan and Sitting Bull.

At School each was a trifle Dumb. If Edgar fell down on an Exam, his Relatives would call a Mass Meeting to express Regrets and hang Crape all over the Place.

If Rufus got balled up in his Answers, his immediate Kin would pat him on the Back and tell him he was right and the Text-Book was wrong.

Edgar would emerge from the Feathers every morning to find his Parents all lined up to wish him a new set of Police Regulations.

They held up the Rigid Forefinger and warned him that he was merely a Grain of Dust and a Weakling and a poor juvenile Mutt whose Mission in Life was to Lie Down and Behave.

Rufus would be aroused each Sunrise by a full Military Band of 60 Pieces playing "Hail to the Chief who in Triumph Advances."

Between the Buckwheats and the Sorghum, the two Family Boosters would slip him the pleasing information that never since the Morning Stars pulled their first Harmonies had there bounded into the Arena another such Prodigy of Intellectual Brilliance and Physical Valor.

Consequently when Rufus hit the Fresh Air, with the McGuffey under the Arm, he wore his Chest about a foot in front of him.

He acknowledged with a Slight Nod the Salutation from some Member of the Town Board.

Edgar, staggering under a Ton of Restrictive Advice, would spot Rufus at a Distance and sneak into an Alley, because he didn't wish to get Blood all over his Clean Waist.

Whenever Edgar was forced into a Battle and came home smeared and disarranged, his Mother would go to her Room and Cry softly and Father would Paint a vivid Word-Picture of a Wretch standing on the Gallows with a Black Cap over his Head.

Then Edgar would crawl to the Hay-Mow and brood over his Moral Infirmities and try in a groping way to figure out his Relation to Things in General.

But, when Rufus appeared all dripping with Gore, his Seconds would cool him out and rub him with Witch Hazel and pin Medals on him and indicate to him on a Chart the exact latitude and longitude of the Solar Plexus.

His Parents made the Grave Mistake of backing him to the Limit. They pumped him full of Courage every Morning and set him out to Lick all Comers.

No wonder he became as pugnacious as U. S. Grant, as conceded as a Successful Business Man and as self-assured as a Chautauqua Lecturer.

Everyone disliked him intensely but just the same they stepped off into the Mud and gave him the entire double width of Cement Sidewalk.

Edgar, on the other hand, was one of the most popular Door-Mats that ever had "Welcome" marked up and down his Spinal Column.

All those who scratched Matches on him and used him as a Combination Half-Tree and Hitching Post used to remark that he didn't have an Enemy in the World.

They had corraled his Goat, so he had to play the Part himself.

It had been dinged into him that True Politeness means to wait until everyone else has been Served and then murmur a few Thanks for the Leavings.

Besides, his Parents had convinced him that if he went Fishing he wouldn't get a Nibble, and if he climbed a Tree he would fall and break his Leg, and if he tried to manipulate more than Two Dollars at one time, he would go Blink.

Therefore, when both were in College, Rufus acted as plunging Half-Back, with Blue Smoke coming from his Nostrils, and achieved the undying Distinction of being singled out by Walter Camp.

Edgar sat up on the Bleachers with 2,800 other Mere Students and lent a quavering Tenor to a Song about Alma Mater.

Even the Undergrads could not take the Tuck out of Rufus.

He was fresher than Green Paint and his Work was Raw, but he was so Resilient that no one could pin him to the Mat and keep him there.

When a Boy has been told 877 times a Day for many Years that he is the Principal Feature of the Landscape, it takes more than ordinary Doctoring to Cure him.

He left College thoroughly convinced that the World was his Oyster and that he had an Opener in every Pocket.

He began grabbing Public Service Utilities by Strong-Arm methods, whereupon a lot of Uplifters became excited and wanted some one else to head him off.

He put things Across because when he tucked the Ball under his Arm and began to dig for the Goal of his Immediate Ambition, all the Friends of Public Weal were scared Blue and retired behind the Ropes.

Edgar took his Degree out into the Cold World and began to make apologetic Inquiries regarding Humble Employment which would involve no Responsibilities.

He became an Office Lawyer of the dull gray Variety with a special Aptitude for drawing up Leases and examining Abstracts.

He could not face a Jury or fight a Case because the fond Parents had put the Sign on him and robbed him of all his Gimp.

But a Nice Fellow? You know it. Anyone who had a Book to sell, or a Petition to be signed, or a Note that needed endorsing came dashing right into Edgar's Office and Hailed him as the Champion Patsy of the Universe.

Not one of these ever ventured into the Lair of the Street Railway Czar, for he knew that Rufus might jump over the Mahogany Table and bite him in the Arm.

Even Edgar, when he made a Business Call on Boyhood Friend and loving Classmate, was permitted to wait in the Outer Room, resting his Hat on his knees, and mingling on terms of Equality with the modish Typist and the scornful Secretary.

And when they went away to look at some Properties, Rufus took the Stairroom while Edgar drew an Upper.

Any great Big Brute of a Man with a Tigerish Instinct for pouncing on each Good Thing and then hanging on to it like Grim Death, never can win the Esteem of the envious but anaemic Gallery.

Everyone at the Club referred to Edgar as a Good Old Scout, but when all the Push gathered at the Round Table and some one let fall the Name of the High-Binder, they would open up on Rufus and Pan him to a Whisper.

Then Rufus would enter in his Fur Coat, upsetting Furniture and Servants as he swept through the Lounching Room.

Immediately there would be an Epidemic of Goose Pimples and a Rush to shake Hands with him.

Rufus was sinfully Rich, but nevertheless Detestable, because his Family had drilled into him the low-down Habit of getting the Jump on the Other Fellow.

Edgar may live in a Rented House, but he will always have the Inward Satisfaction of knowing that he is a sweet and courteous Gentleman with Pink Underwear, and a Masonic Charm on his Watch Chain.

When Edgar answers the Call, the Preacher will speak briefly for the Text, "Blessed are the Meek."

If the Death Angel succeeds in pulling down Rufus, the same Minister will find a Suggestion for his Remarks in those inspiring Words, "I have fought the Good Fight."

MORAL: The Scrapper is seldom beloved but he gets a Run for his Ticket.

Useful on Occasion. "You mean to say Crimmon Gulch has an anti-gambling law!" "Yes," replied Three-Finger Sam. "We had to have some way of breaking up the game when a tenderfoot come along and gets to winning all the money."
