The buy-a-hat movement is now in full feather.

By the way, what has become of old man Vic Huerta?

Once upon a time the Augusta Chronicle came out and didn't say Tom Watson once!

Every farmer who reduced his cotton acreage this year helped to raise the price of cotton.

"Love ties the knot with a single bow." And it can't be untied in South Carolina, you know.

This cool weather makes us feel like saying: "Do your Christmas shopping early," but we won't.

If Carranza would only shed those voluminous whiskers maybe we could all recognize the old scout.

Travel certainly broadens some people. We know a person who gained ten pounds on a two weeks' trip.

We believe them ding-busted Philadelphians knew we had a quarter up on 'em and they laid down on us a-purpose.

The Newport style of the women carrying walking sticks has arrived in the South, minus the pet dog accompaniment, glory be!

As soon as Mrs. Galt's picture was published we have no doubt but that congratulations to President Wilson increased perceptibly.

If England, France and Russia would only import some of that beer the Germans are drinking, perhaps there would be a different tale to send out from Petrograd.

Some newspapers are quoting the high prices of foodstuffs in Germany. From a glance the prices are about the same in this country, and we have no war to make them high, either.

We'll wager Robert Gonzales a quart of Pickens county sorghum molasses to a Columbia square meal that the Clemson Tigers romp on the U. of S. C. football team next Thursday. We don't mind giving odds like this once a year.

A special from our Hogwallow correspondent says a rural policeman spent a part of this week behind a stump on Musket Ridge watching for a mysterious stranger who was seen in that locality recently with a roll of one dollar bills.

John Paul Jones has again been denied a niche in the New York Hall of Fame on the ground that it was uncertain whether John Paul was a patriot or a pirate. In these days of daylight piracy by big business, this seems rather ambiguous.

If of worldly goods
We had our share
Believe we'd go
To the state fair.

OUR WEEKLY RIDDLE.—Why should a horse never be hungry?
Because most of the time he has a bit in his mouth.

Standpat protectionists profess to believe that when the European war is ended enormous quantities of accumulated goods of various kinds will be dumped in America. The truth of the matter is that big business wants to get their "infant industries" protected some more.

We have an idea that William Waldorf Astor wishes he had remained an American citizen. It has been estimated that he will have to pay in the neighborhood of a million and a quarter of perfectly good American dollars as his share of the British war tax, according to the new rate, which is 33 1/2 per cent.

When Austria and Germany go thru little Serbia and trample it all out of shape and kill most of the inhabitants, the cry will go up: "Help the poor Serbs." And America, as usual in such cases of distress, will send shiploads of provisions and other necessities to the stricken ones. Americans just can't listen to a tale of woe without loosening up.

North Carolina newspapers are discussing "how come" that the editorial pages of their papers are not read by the general public. If they want their subscribers to read all of their editorials they should make them short and avoid saying anything the readers "do not approve of." Then they will soon find that the people do read their output. At least that's The Sentinel's experience.

We notice that a farmer writing in one of our farm papers says that farmers make more clear money on a 500-bale of cotton than they made on two bales last year, and figures it out this way: Last year two 500-pound bales at 7c per pound brought $70, less $7.50 per bale for picking, $1.25 for hauling and $2.25 for ginning, bagging and ties, $11 in all, or $22 for both bales. In other words, if two bales at 7c a pound was worth $70, it cost $22 to put it on the market, leaving a balance of $48. This year one bale at 12c will bring $60, less $11 to put it on the market, leaving a balance of $49. This is not counting the seed, which still further increases the farmer's balance. So according to these figures half a crop of cotton this year will bring the farmer more money than he got last year and he had more time to attend to other crops.

Yale Man's Life Saved in Big War by Coffee

Karl Llewellyn, the young Yale graduate who volunteered in the 8th Prussian Infantry at the beginning of the war, owes his life to a comrade who was killed. Llewellyn was wounded at the battle of Ypres and was left lying between the hostile lines for twelve hours. When night came he started to crawl back to the German lines, only to fall unconscious. When he recovered consciousness he saw a dead comrade lying beside him. On his belt was a flask of coffee. Llewellyn managed to unfasten the flask, and was sufficiently stimulated by the coffee it contained to reach the trenches.

Yet you will find people in this peaceful country today who substitute all brands of stumpy water for a cup of good coffee. If you will try the famous

SLEEP

AUTHOR UNKNOWN.

(So He giveth His loved sleep.—Psalm CXXVII.)

He sees their footsteps falter when their hearts grow weak and faint; He marks when their strength is falling and listens to each complaint; He bids them rest for a season, for the pathway has grown too steep; And folded in fair green pastures, He giveth His loved ones sleep.

Like weary and worn-out children, that sigh for daylight's close, He knows that they oft are longing for home and its sweet repose; So He calls them in for their labors ere the shadows around them creep; And silently watching o'er them He giveth His loved ones sleep.

He giveth it, oh, so gently, as a mother will hush to rest; The babe that she so softly pillows so tenderly on her breast; Forgotten are now the trials, the sorrows that made them weep; For with many a soothing promise He giveth His loved ones sleep.

He giveth it, friends the dearest can never this boon bestow; But He touches the drooping eyelids, and placid the features grow; Their foes may gather about them, and storms may around them sweep; But, guarding them safe from danger, He giveth His loved ones sleep.

All dread of the distant future, all fears that oppressed today, Like mists that clear in the sunlight, have noiselessly passed away; Nor call, nor clamor, can rouse them from slumbers so pure and deep; For only his voice can reach them who giveth His loved ones sleep.

Weep not that their toils are over, weep not that their race is run; God grant we may rest as calmly when our work, like theirs, is done; 'Till then we would yield with gladness our treasures to him to keep; And rejoice in the sweet assurance He giveth His loved ones sleep.

Fall Announcement

PICKENS' BIGGEST AND BEST STORE

In point of merchandise—facility for display—variety of stock—dependable character—value for the price and liberality to the customers, we have determined that no store in Pickens county shall surpass us. Make a judicious comparison and you will decide in our favor. Look over the following and if you find anything listed below that appeals to you, come in and we will take pleasure in showing you. Competition is outclassed. We have always been hard to beat on qualities, harder to beat on styles, and hardest to beat on prices. When comparing prices—don't forget to compare qualities. If you find prices as low as ours you will find the qualities inferior.

Clothing

For Men

The Frenchman who threw his watch in the fire because it was German silver hadn't anything on the German who smashed his French plate-glass window front. If you are neutral, we have some fine suits made of English fabrics and dyed with German dye-stuffs, the best dye-stuff the world knows. While they are killing each other we can wear the peace products of both.

A beautiful suit for $20.00. A good one for $15.00. A fair one for $10.00 to $12.00 and a tolerable one for $8.00. We will tell you frankly what you are getting at the price. What good would it do to tell you we have the best clothing in the county, you would say, "Oh, they talk big like all the rest." Come in and see with your own eyes whether or not they are better.

REMEMBER—A man fell out of a Zeppelin and was identified by his clothes. Clothes will identify a man dead or alive. You can't look much better than your clothes.
