

Hogwallow Items

Flim Dillard was in town yesterday after a match.

The train arriving at Tickville Tuesday morning lacked only a few sticks of wood of coming in on time.

Sidney Hocks says that when you see Isaac Helwanzer's whiskers moving you may know he is either talking or the regular wind is blowing.

Claud Hester was a pleasant social visitor in the Calf Ribs neighborhood Sunday afternoon. He let his mule go slow all the way for fear his new derby hat would jar off.

A stray cow followed Yam Sims to the Dog Hill church last second Sunday. The object of her attention was the new shuck collar worn by Yam's mule.

Little Fidelity Flinders spent one night last week with his grandma in Tickville. The bright lights almost strangled him.

It has been ordered that all the benches in the Hog Ford church be dusted off right good next Sunday morning, as Raz Barlow is scheduled to be present in his new serge suit.

Atlas Peck has missed a lot of straw from his straw pile on Musket Ridge. Suspicion rests on Miss Hostetter Hocks, as she looked much larger at church Sunday than she did the last time anybody saw her dressed up.

Fletcher Henstep went down to Pickens the other day to mail an important letter. As witnesses that he mailed the letter he secured Messrs. John Carey and Sydney Bruce, and if it fails to reach its destination Fletcher intends to sue the government. The contents of the letter are being kept a profound secret, but it is known among his most intimate friends that Fletcher sent off 85 cigarette coupons to get Miss Flutie Belcher a new fangled comb to wear in her hair. Its arrival here is awaited with intense interest and excitement.

The bargains are extraordinary; it is important to remember that there are at least two months of winter weather to be expected. There will be plenty of opportunity to use whatever you buy during this final clean-up, but perhaps never such an opportunity to buy such seasonable goods at such low prices.

The items listed are but a fraction of those presented by a sale of this size. The prices, though, are typical of the remarkable savings that prevail.
