"Steamer Ramm'd by Fog"—headline. Must have been some fog.

We wish the legislature had passed a law preventing corns on a fellow's little toe.

We always did admire a good liar, but that old groundhog suits us too well!

As the senator from Oklahoma views it, he doesn't want any more Gore spilled.

Anderson Mail had its office windows washed and next day the earthquake shock came.

That must have been a soft job the Russians had when they captured the town of Mush.

"Governor Signs Act With Teeth"—headline in Columbia State. Couldn't he use the typewriter?

We think President Wilson should send the Mississippi river a note if she doesn't behave herself.

Some men seem to think that money will do anything for them, while others will do anything for money.

'Tis said the very latest wrinkle in ladies' hose is called the "lampshade" stocking. Lamp that, Colonel Bob?

The Russians would no doubt have captured those 100,000 Turks if they had been in those forts. But they weren't there.

One year from next Saturday, March 3, Woodrow Wilson will be inaugurated president of these glorious United States for the second time.

"Carranza to Reduce Army"—headline. If Colonel Whiskers will be patient Senor Villa will do that little job for him with pleasure.

Woodruff Record says the population of that town is over 60 per cent women. How do we pity the bachelors of that town—and this is leap year!

While all this "preparedness" talk is going on would be a good time to prepare the ground for the coming "garden sass" we all love so much.

That speech of "Cyclone" Davis in congress recently sounded a great deal like the old Arkansas legislator's bellow about changing the name of Arkansas.

Like that eminent local jurist whose idea of a real good time is a ride on the "Pickens Doodle"—but what's the use?—Greer Observer. We heard what you said, but we don't know what you are talking about.

Mr. Roosevelt is quoted as saying in one of his numerous harrangues that President Wilson was afraid of only two men—"Me and the Kaiser." The only fear Mr. Wilson seems to have is as to the sanity of the ex-president.

A fire in a New Jersey town recently destroyed a large number of tenement houses, leaving hundreds of poor people homeless; which fire was started by a man who was chopping wood by candle-light. That shows the danger of a man chopping wood, either by candle-light or daylight, either, for that matter.

When one gets thru the three days of the Mardi Gras annual festival in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, he will certainly "stink good." It is estimated that a million dollars has been spent for siphons of perfume, which the populace in the South American city squirt into the faces and on the clothing of the passers-by during the festivities.

It hasn't been so very long since many of our foremost writers were roasting Russia for being a barbarous nation. But our people soon forget little things like the stories of Frank G. Carpenter, world traveler, used to write about "Darkest Russia," and are now saying nice things about the "Bear that walks like a man." The Russians are winning in the war at present, and most everybody loves a winner.

OUR WEEKLY RIDDLE.—What is that which is full of holes and yet holds water?
A sponge.

The time draws near,
We blithely wait
To greet the sweet
Old candidate.

Bothersome Fellows

Gaffney Ledger:
The fellow these days
Who gives us a pain,
Is the one who asks,
"Do you think it'll rain?"
—Pickens Sentinel.
The one doth us grieve
Is he who now and then
Makes bold to softly whisper,
"Can you spare me ten?"

The Brute!

Gaffney Ledger.
One of the meanest men we can think of just now is the gentleman who gets on the back side of the bed and permits his wife to get up and build all the fires, claiming he hates to crawl over her!
