WHITMAN BILL KILLED IN THE SENATE; AIMED AT HIGHWAY COMMISSION ACT.

BOTH HOUSES ARE BUSY

Upper House Upholds State System of Roads in Slaughtering Measure—Other Matters.

Columbia. The senate killed the Wightman bill to allow the supervisor and county commissioners of Saluda county to use 80 per cent of the automobile license fund in the county, at their discretion.

By the killing of the Saluda bill the senate refused to disrupt the state highway act and thus begin an undermining of the highway commission, according to several senators who spoke against the measure. The senate was apparently surprised at itself as the bill drew forth a long debate, but when the vote was reached the balloting was overwhelmingly against the measure. The vote was 24 to 11 to strike out the enacting words, this being on the motion of Senator Young of Charleston.

The concurrent resolution offered by Mr. McInnes in the house providing for conferences between the railroad and highway commissions during the year in an effort to derive a plan to eliminate dangerous grade crossings was slaughtered by a vote of 23 to 6. Senator Wightman moved to strike out the resolving words and after a short debate pro and con the resolution was killed.

Senator Hubbard's joint resolution to prohibit the planting of cotton in South Carolina for one year in order to eradicate the boll weevil was killed on a viva voce vote. This resolution would not have taken effect until similar laws had been passed by Louisiana, Georgia, Alabama and North Carolina, but the senate did not strike the bill to be along the right lines. Senator Moore moved to strike out the resolving words and this was done.

The senate likewise struck out the resolving words of the Elerbe concurrent resolution asking the tax commission to lower the assessments on land by 25 per cent. The resolution was characterized as "confusing and useless." Senator McGhee moved to strike out the resolving words and the vote was 14 to 8 to kill the resolution.

By a vote of 16 to 15 the senate killed the Simonhoff marriage license bill to require all males to present certificates from reputable physicians that they were free from venereal diseases before they could procure marriage licenses.

The senate also passed and returned to the house the university trustee bill enlarging the board of trustees of the University of South Carolina to 21 elective members by 1926. One amendment adopted by the senate merely changes the years as the bill was introduced last year and this clerical change was necessary, but a last minute amendment offered by Senator McGhee to provide that no member of the general assembly shall be eligible to be elected a trustee under the terms of the act may provoke opposition in the house. The senate agreed to the amendment.

By a vote of 26 to 10 the senate adopted a resolution at the beginning of the session giving all the revenue measures now before the body and those yet to come right of way over all matters, with the exception of local, uncontested matters. Later an attempt was made to get up the income tax bills for the purpose of sending them to third reading with the understanding that the debate come then, and this brought on considerable debate as to the advisability of such procedure.

The brokers' license tax bill, a newcomer among the series of revenue measures in the house, was reached on the calendar, but action on it was delayed on the objection of Julius S. McInnes of Darlington. Jesse S. Leopold of Pickens is the author of the bill.

Duplicate bills were introduced in the house and senate to provide for the transfer and annexation of 8,900 acres of Lexington county territory to Richland county and to alter the county lines so as to conform thereto. The bills are sponsored by the Richland county delegation.

The territory affected by the bills lies in the extreme northeastern corner of Lexington county. Fourteen square miles of territory make up the plot, which is bounded by Broad river on the east and north, on the south by Richland and Lexington counties and on the west by Newberry county.

The house also refused to concur in the amendments of the senate on the gasoline and inheritance tax bills. The senate insisted on its amendments and a free conference committee consisting of Senators Johnson, McColl and Laney was appointed for the inheritance tax measure on the part of the senate.

An unfavorable report was made by the finance committee on the bill by Senator Wells to require state colleges and other state institutions as well as county supervisors to purchase supplies from the home market where practicable.

The ultimate passage by the house of the Sheppard-Barnett "bad check" was foreshadowed when the house, after considerable discussion of the measure pro and con, sent the bill to third reading by an overwhelming majority. The one test vote taken showed a majority of 75 to 34 favoring the measure, and the bill is expected to encounter little, if any, opposition when it comes up for third reading.

The bill, which was first introduced last year with the idea of supplying teeth to the check law of the state, provides "that it shall be unlawful and felonious for any person in his own name, or as an attorney in fact for any other person or persons or as an officer or agent of any corporation or unincorporated association, society or company, to obtain money or other property of any kind or nature whatever, with fraudulent intent by means of a check, draft or order, of which such person is maker or drawer, or which, though he is not maker or drawer, he, with like intent, utters or delivers or aids or abets another to utter or deliver. If such check, draft or order is not paid by the drawee, the person making, drawing or uttering the same shall be deemed guilty of the larceny of such money or property or thing of value obtained on such credit, and the fact that such maker or drawer did not have on deposit with the bank, person, firm or corporation upon which such check, draft or order is drawn, sufficient funds to pay the same in full when presented, shall, as against the maker or drawer of such check, draft or order, be prima facie evidence of fraudulent intent, and any person so convicted shall be punished by fine or imprisonment in the discretion of the court. Provided that, if such check, draft or order be paid, with costs and interest, upon notice, or at any time previous to the trial or examination of such person, or if such person be not tried or examined, if such check, draft or order be paid before indictment by a grand jury, no such presumption shall arise: Provided, further, that if the amount of the check, draft or order be less than $20, the offense may be triable within the jurisdiction of the magistrate's court."

Prospects for an adjournment of the general assembly within the constitutional 40 days look rather slim at present with the senate legislative mill grinding exceedingly slow in comparison to the house. Those in touch with the inner workings of the assembly seem to think that several extra weeks will be necessary unless "more gas is turned on" and the mill speeded up. One official said that if much more speed was not shown within the next week he was convinced the two bodies would be here until April 1. That, however, is probably a little far-fetched.

Highway Engineer Resigns. Charles H. Moorefield, state highway engineer, has placed in the hands of the chairman of the state highway commission, R. Goodwyn Rhett, his resignation, effective at the pleasure of the commission.

Mr. Moorefield's action grows out of the construction put upon a letter written by him to Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the federal bureau of public roads, a copy of which was submitted to members of the ways and means committee of the house last week, when highway matters were under consideration before that committee.

Certain leaders in the general assembly have insisted that such a letter was an indiscretion on the part of Mr. Moorefield. In tendering his resignation to Mr. Rhett, chairman of the highway commission, Mr. Moorefield expressed his willingness to retire if his elimination would harmonize elements here that have been opposing the highway department and its program. It is understood that certain leaders in the house and the senate have assured Governor Cooper that Mr. Moorefield's retirement would eliminate the fight on the highway department.

Charles O. Hearon, of Spartanburg, member of the state highway commission, who was in Columbia recently expressed surprise at the turn the fight on the state highway department had taken in the demand for the resignation of Mr. Moorefield, state highway engineer. It is possible, he said, that Mr. Moorefield's letter might have been an indiscretion, but in no way indicated disloyalty or lack of interest in the development of highways in South Carolina.

UNUSED TO EVENING DINNER

Grownup Recalls Embarrassing Incident Which Occurred in Her Childhood Days.

As a child in our family I was accustomed to having dinner at noon and a light supper in the evening, but because there were several of us, and my mother considered it too harmful to have a heavy meal at night.

We had as a friend a woman who lived several blocks away. One day she called to me as I was returning from school and asked my two brothers and me to come to dinner the next day.

The following day the three of us went to her house at noon. She looked a little surprised as we came, but said nothing. After about a half an hour we wondered when we were to have dinner. She asked me why we were back from school so early that noon.

"We came to dinner," I said. "She smiled and said, 'My dear, we have dinner this evening.' I called to my two brothers, and fled in embarrassment.—Exchange.

A Sure Remedy.

A certain young doctor will have to improve his methods or he will never have enough patients to maintain himself. A woman came in to see him a few days ago. She looked haggard and pale.

"Well, madam," he said, "what is it?" "I'm troubled with insomnia," she sighed. "What shall I do for it?" "Sleep it off, madam; sleep it off," he advised.

She Knew.

A capable housewife was trying to impress upon her maid the need of system in her work. After carefully explaining her own methods in her work, she asked: "Now, Olga, just what do I mean by system? Do you understand what system means?" "Ja, ja," giggled Olga; "seestein means deln' thegnst the hardest way." —Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

CONCERN WAS FOR MOTHER

Of Course Little Frank Was Not the Least Bit Afraid of the Darkness.

The family has moved from a gas-lighted house to one where there is electricity; and baby Frank, standing on tip toe, can just reach the two push buttons inside the rooms. They are a source of great amusement and he never fails to press them whenever he passes.

A few nights ago his mother came from the upper rooms and announced bedtime. Little Florence ran upstairs immediately. Frank, up to his usual tricks, pushed the button, and off went the light. The overwhelming darkness frightened the little fellow. After a minute he asked: "Mother, are you there?" "Yes, dear," said his amused mother. Another pause. "Mother, are you 'fruid'?"

"No, dear, are you?" "No, I ain't 'fruid, but you better put the light on. I'm 'fruid you will be 'fruid."

To win a race a Jockey doesn't put extra weight on the horse that helps him succeed

No man or woman who wants to succeed in the race of life can afford the handicap of headaches, insomnia, indigestion and debility. Nor can they afford to take anything that may keep up a continual irritation of the nervous system.

Yet this is what many people do who drink excessive amounts of tea or coffee. For tea and coffee contain caffeine, a substance that is sometimes very injurious. Many doctors say that caffeine raises the blood pressure, irritates the kidneys, and over-stimulates the entire nervous system. Also that it is especially bad for growing children, or for any one who has any tendency to nervousness or insomnia.

If you want to avoid a possible cause of headache, insomnia, or nervousness, it might be well to stop taking tea and coffee for awhile, and drink rich, satisfying Postum, instead.

Postum is a delicately-roasted, pure cereal beverage—delicious and wholesome.

Order Postum from your grocer today. Drink this fragrant, healthful beverage for awhile, and see if you will not feel brighter, more active, and more resistant to fatigue—as so many thousands of others have felt.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.
