Editorial Correspondence From the Capital.

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 18, 1878.

The future alone can place a proper estimate on the value of the services rendered to the State by the present General Assembly. At present much of its legislation is approved by the public, and many of its acts are, perhaps, properly reprobated, yet the unanimous adoption to-day of a concurrent resolution to adjourn sine die on the 22nd instant, will command itself to the public as a wise and timely measure. My friend, Capt. Cooper, of Berry, who, by the way, the pet of the House, alleges that the length of the session is properly attributable to the reluctance of the married representatives to resign the unaccustomed freedom which they have enjoyed for the past two months. I can and do hope that they may rest in peace when restored to the bosoms of their families and to the retirement which many of us are so well fitted to adorn. The last week was devoted to the discharge of routine work. A ver large number of acts and joint resolutions, principally of local interest, were raised by the General Assembly and approved by the Governor, and a still larger number are being enrolled for publication. The vote on the compromise resolution relative to the bonded debt revealed the fact that the republican party is still a unit in its opposition to the democracy. A few democrats, Hon. Samuel Dibble, Ficken, Mackell and Miller, on legal, moral and constitutional grounds, voted against the compromise, while the republican members, without exception, united in opposing it, and it is anticipated that the holders of doubtful fraudulent claims against the State will contribute largely to the campaign fund of the republican party in the struggle of the coming fall. I am sure from all that I can learn, that such will be the case.

The last legislative fight was upon the phosphate question. The majority report of the special committee assigned special territory to the several mining companies, asking incorporation, while the minority favored the grant of general licenses to all companies making application therefor. The majority report was adopted by the House and a bill passed and sent to the Senate chartering some fifteen companies, and giving to them nearly all the territory in which phosphates are known to exist. Four of these companies, the Cooper, Oak Point Mining Company, Marine and River Mining and Manufacturing Company and Beaufort and Port Royal Company, monopolize the most valuable phosphate deposits and have exclusive control of them for the next ten years. If energetically worked they will, without doubt, enrich their stockholders and contribute some hundreds of thousands of dollars to the treasury of the State.

The House Committee on ways and means have reduced the tax levy to five mills for State purposes. In addition a school tax of two mills, county tax of three mills, past indebtedness tax of one mill and building tax of two mills will be levied in Barnwell—so that our tax will aggregate thirteen mills, payable in two installments, in May and October. A penalty of six per cent. will be imposed on the first installment if not paid promptly, but no executions will be issued until the close of October.

A bill to redistrict the State gives us the promise of a Democratic Congressman at the next election from the fifth district, which will be composed of Edgefield, Aiken, Barnwell, Orangeburg, Colleton, Hampton and Clarendon, the district is a large one, and the candidates will be numerous.

The House today cleared its calendar, and waits upon our august Senate for a completion of its portion of our work. Until I see you in the flesh, good by.

H.

Common Justice Demands It.

Grady Wright, Esq. of the Chronicle & Constitutionalist, who is now in Washington, writes thus in his paper concerning the prospects of our distinguished fellow citizen the Hon. G. D. Tillman:

The Committee of Privileges and Elections has not yet reported upon the contested election case of Tillman vs. Smith, from the Fifth District of South Carolina. Such contests are disposed of in alphabetical order, and South Carolina is the State last on the list. The investigation, however, is in progress and a report will not be long delayed. Colonel Tillman has made out a very strong case in favor of his right to the seat, and I am inclined to think the committee will award him the place. If this should not be done it may be considered that a new election will be ordered, on the ground that no legal objection was held last November.

In this event common justice will demand that Tillman's resignation and election be annulled, on the ground that no legal objection was held last November.

A Voice from Georgia.

What the Augusta Evening News thinks of Gov. Hampton and his policy: "The Democracy of Abbeville, S. C., met in the Court House last Thursday and organized for the fall campaign. The greatest enthusiasm prevailed, marked with the utmost harmony. It is hardly necessary to add that resolutions were unanimously passed endorsing Gov. Hampton's policy as eminently wise, and declaring it the duty of the Democracy to renominate Hampton, and that it is his duty to accept. This is the first big gun of the campaign, and it is now in order for other counties to fall into line and start the ball. Hampton is the man for South Carolina, and the only man in the State to keep her head above water. Just so sure as the malcontents over there begin to seriously wrangle among themselves and force Hampton, through self-respect, to refuse to be considered as the cat's paw, just so soon will South Carolina relapse into negro rule and Radical malevolence. For any man—especially a South Carolinian—to question Hampton's honesty and purity of motives in his official conduct of the past two years is a political wonder, and can only be accounted for upon the hypothesis of "self," to the utter indifference of the good of the State. The trouble in South Carolina will be to get Hampton to give his consent to resign save his State in the face of recent demonstrations of a few men who should support him."

Augusta, Georgia.

The following article, taken from the New York Dry Goods Bulletin, will serve to show what a correspondent of that paper thinks of Augusta:

"Among the growing cities of the South few, if any, have brighter prospects than the one heading this article. The enterprise displayed by its citizens is really worthy of all praise. Northern capital is seeking investment in some of the numerous industrial concerns that are constantly springing up in Augusta. But there is room for plenty more, and with a view of laying interesting and valuable information before our readers, we propose to dedicate a portion of our space to a description of some of the principal industries now established in that city. Our information is derived directly from our special agent, who is traveling through the Southern States, and is at present in the above named city. We publish below letters from him containing a very interesting account of the largest mills in the place; and our sketches of other houses are equally reliable, being made up from notes forwarded by him for that purpose.

The population of Augusta is now about twenty-five thousand—within the limits of the city proper—while some five thousand more reside in the immediate neighborhood, having their business located in the city. A large amount of wealth is centered in Augusta, which is said to have more capital invested in stocks, bonds and industrial enterprises than any other city in the State. It is one of the best inland markets for cotton, and this year about one hundred and seventy thousand bales of it will be received and sold there. Few towns can boast of a better system of railway communication than Augusta, as the Georgia Railroad, the Macon and Augusta Railroad, the Port Royal Railroad, the South Carolina Railroad, the Augusta and Savannah Railroad and the Charlotte, Columbia and Augusta Railroad all centre there, while work will shortly be commenced on the Augusta, Knoxville and Greenville Railroad. Besides this complete railroad system, the city offers extraordinary and unusual facilities and advantages for the establishment of different kinds of mills, owing to the great water that it enjoys. The dimensions and capacity of the canal are as follows: Length of main canal (or first level), seven miles; minimum water-way, one hundred and fifty feet at surface, and one hundred and six feet at bottom, and eleven feet deep, giving a total area of 1,400 square feet, while the three levels combined have a total of 14,000 horsepower.

Augusta occupies the centre of a fine agricultural region, and is one of the best markets for fertilizers in the South; while the climate is exceptionally fine, greatly favoring the cultivation of fruits, vegetables and general crops—so much so indeed, that the watermelons raised in the neighborhood have a very widespread reputation, and are shipped to all parts of the Union.

On the whole, the present prospects of Augusta are bright and cheerful, while the industry and enterprise of its inhabitants seem destined to class it among the most prosperous cities of the South.

Democratic.

ELKO, S. C., March 18.—Please allow us room in your columns to announce the formation of a democratic club at Elko, S. C. R. R. In accordance with instructions received from the State and county executive committees, through your columns, the citizens met at Elko on Friday, 16th of March, and after necessary explanation by an acting chairman, the citizens were invited to enroll their names and thirty-eight names were enrolled. We then proceeded to elect a president, and after balloting it was found that our friend J. A. Miller was unanimously elected—than whom no better could have been chosen. Our esteemed friends J. W. Hair and S. S. Owens were elected vice-presidents, and your humble servant secretary. We are now in working order, our motto being "Onward to Victory."

There will be a meeting of the colored citizens on Saturday, 23rd inst, for the purpose of forming a colored club. I hope to send you good news from them.

Our meeting days will be, for the present, Friday before the third Sunday in each month. The post-office of the secretary will be Elko, that of the president at Williston, and where duty calls there you will find us. With best wishes for the success of your valuable paper, I remain yours very truly, Wm. Y. Hart, Secretary Elko D. C.

HYMNICAL.

WESBURY—McMILLAN—Married, at the residence of the bride's father, on the evening of the 7th inst, by the Rev. J. G. Williams, Mr. W. W. Wessbury, of Orangeburg, to Miss C. E. McMILLAN of Barnwell.

OBITUARY.

Wieg, at Williston, on Thursday, the 14th of February, 1878, of diphtheria, after a short illness of one week, NATTIE LEWIS BURKHALLER, the only daughter of M. R. Burkhalter and Emma F. Burkhalter. She was born on the 25th of August, 1871, and died at the early age of six years five months and sixteen days, when the tender blossom was sweetest to the parents' hearts. No one but those who have been called upon to sustain a similar bereavement can measure the depths of paternal sorrow, or appreciate the keen anguish of the bereaved. The innocent little, the daily weaver, the evening knitter of stockings, and the silent playthings on the shelves, the little dresses in the wardrobe and the cradle chair that once held the dear departed one, are precious memories.
