"He Laughs Best Who Laughs Last."

A hearty laugh indicates a degree of good health obtainable through pure blood. As but one person in ten has pure blood, the other nine should purify the blood with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Then they can laugh first, last and all the time, for perfect happiness comes with good health.

WHERE WIVES TRIUMPH.

In the Philippines the law which relates to the property of married people is entirely in favor of the wife. Any property a bride may possess is never by any chance settled upon the husband, and if he is poor and she well off, he can only become at most an administrator of her possessions.

After death, unless she has executed a deed in her husband's favor, under a lawyer's eye, the property goes to her children and blood relations, but none to her husband.

A married woman retains her maiden name and adds to it that of her husband with the prefix "de" and the children bear the names of both parents.

The husband symbolically endows the bride with all his worldly possessions after the marriage. In fact, it is clearly a case in the Philippines of "what's yours is mine and what's mine is my own," as far as the women folk are concerned.

NERVOUS DEPRESSION.

[A TALK WITH MRS. PINKHAM.]
A woman with the blues is a very uncomfortable person. She is illogical, unhappy and frequently hysterical.

The condition of the mind known as "the blues," nearly always, with women, results from diseased organs of the body.

It is a source of wonder that in this age of advanced medical science, any person should still believe that mere force of will and determination will overcome depressed spirits and nervousness in women. These troubles are indications of disease.

Every woman who doesn't understand her condition should write to Lynn, Mass., to Mrs. Pinkham for her advice. Her advice is thorough common sense, and is the counsel of a learned woman of great experience. Read the story of Mrs. F. S. BENNETT, Westphalia, Kansas, as told in the following letter:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I have suffered for over two years with falling enlargement and ulceration of the womb, and this spring, being in such a weakened condition, caused me to flow for nearly six months. Some time ago, urged by friends, I wrote to you for advice. After using the treatment which you advised for a short time, that terrible flow stopped.

"I am now gaining strength and flesh, and have better health than I have had for the past ten years. I wish to say to all distressed, suffering women, do not suffer longer, when there is one so kind and willing to aid you."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a woman's remedy for women's ills. More than a million women have been benefited by it.

LAUGHTER-PROVOKING STORIES FOR LOVERS OF FUN.

Why She Was Away—A Wrecked Fad—The Exception—Their Up-to-Date Credentials—Their Horrible Mistake—Fully Explained—Hear Him Out, Etc.

He walked toward home with rapid strides. He heard his wife to greet: "Sometimes she couldn't wait, and so, She'd meet him on the street."

But, Oh! this time the house was dark. The blinds were all drawn tight. The dinner dishes, still unwashed, were scattered left and right.

No frying beefsteak could he hear, Nor boiling coffee smell; The once bright home was turned to gloom. For what he could not tell.

But through the mist that filled his eyes He saw a dainty note. He opened it and quickly read: "Dear John, I've gone to vote."
—Detroit Free Press.

A Wrecked Fad. "Do you keep chickens?" "Can't say I do. They were all stolen last night."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Exception. She—"All the world loves a lover." Despairing Suitor—"Yes, excepting the other fellow who loves the same girl."—Life.

Their Up-to-Date Credentials. "But the family hasn't the hall mark of ancient lineage, has it?" "No. Just the dollar mark of present success."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Their Horrible Mistake. Editor's Wife—"Wake up! There are burglars in the house, John!" Editor—"Well, what of it? Let them find out their mistake, themselves!"—Puck.

Fully Explained. "Breakfast late again—and I got Bridget up at five o'clock." "Yes, Harry, but you must remember it takes slow people such an awful long time to be slow."—Puck.

Hear Him Out. Waggle—"Yes, sir, a man never knows what happiness is until he marries." Mrs. W.—"I'm glad to hear you say that."

"And then it is too late."—Life.

A Guarantee of Quietness. "Are you sure that the room you have let is quiet?" "Ah! Rest assured of that. There is a singer in the next room, and it must be quiet or she couldn't practice."

A Sharp Hint. Father (calling from the head of the stairs at 1.30 a. m.)—"Fannie!" Fannie—"Yes, papa, what is it?" Father—"I wish you would ask that young man where he would like to have his trunk put when it comes."
—Chicago News.

A Hypocrite.

Mickey—"Wot's Jimmie doin' Diggin' bait?" Tommy—"Dat's de bluff he makes, but it's me private opinion dat he's spadin' de garden fer his mudder."
—New York Journal.

Must Try Something Else. Binks—"Say, old man, do you know of any cure for insomnia?" Jinks—"Counting 1000 is said to be a remedy."

"Confound it, that's what everybody tells me, but the baby's too young to count."
—Philadelphia Record.

A Decided Advantage. He—"I guess it is pretty well settled that the new people we have been taking will not be allowed full citizenship."

She—"Oh, won't it be nice to think that there are some people belonging to us who cannot call themselves just as good as we are?"—Indianapolis Journal.

Looking For a Grievance. "It's hard to be happy, once you've gotten a reputation for saying sarcastic things," remarked the sad-eyed man.

"What's the trouble?" "I've lost another friend. I complimented him on being the most cool-headed person I ever saw. He took it as an allusion to the fact that he is totally bald."
—Washington Star.

The Unexpected Answer. Hearing a faint rustle in the dark hallway below, the elder sister, supposing the young man had gone, leaped over the balustrade and called out: "Well, Bessie, have you landed him?"

There was a deep, sepulchral silence for some moments. It was broken by the hesitating, constrained voice of the young man: "She has."
—Boston Journal.

His Bones Wrecked. "Nellie," spoke the youth, with an air of confidence, "only say the word and you and I will sail together on the rough sea of life, bravely battling the waves, tripping our sails to meet the adverse winds that—"

"Oh, Geoffrey," interrupted the maiden, "Not in the age of the world. The man who takes me on that journey must offer me a first cabin passage on a steamer."

Whereupon Geoffrey sailed out of her presence with a decided list to port.

CHINESE ETIQUETTE.

The Russians Make Further Study of Oriental Peculiarities.

The Russians have been making something of a study of Chinese manners and etiquette, and their periodicals are reporting what has been learned. The latest number of Russkivestnik says it is not surprising that the Celestials consider European barbarians when they see continually what they consider bad manners and breaches of etiquette on the part of white men.

The proper thing, according to the Chinese notion, is diametrically opposed to the European idea. For instance, when a Chinese welcomes a visitor to his house, he does not remove his hat, if he happens to have it on. He puts his hat on if he is caught without it. The seat of honor at the table is at the left of the host.

It would be considered an offense if the guest inquired about the health of the hostess, or still worse, expressed a desire to be presented to her. A Chinese takes offense if told that he looks younger than he is. The older the man the more he is respected, independently of his qualities, and therefore, a Chinese wishes to appear older than he really is. He willingly forgives many offenses, but should any one happen to tread on his foot he will refuse to accept the most humble apologies. When a son dies in a Chinese family the bereaved father considers it proper to show strangers a smiling countenance, no matter what his sufferings may be.

The Russian newspaper asserts that there is a Minister of Etiquette in China known as Li-Joy. Ancient books on manners are accepted by him as authority. The books include 209 volumes. Some of the rules are Draconian in their severity. A Chinese cannot even build a house according to his taste. No matter how rich he is it is not proper for him to build a finer or higher house than that of his neighbor. Rank socially. In Chinese etiquette there are eight varieties of the bow. Ignorance of Chinese ideas of propriety with regard to the bow has often caused embarrassment.

A Chinese displeased with his situation, will not tell his employer the real reason for resigning, but will give poor health or the death of a relative as a pretext for leaving. Such things have led many persons to regard the Chinese as insecure, but this does them injustice. They are also unjustly considered to be cold, unemotional and indifferent to the sufferings of others. As a matter of fact this appearance of stolidity is only a specimen of the wonderful self-control, and the iron force of character with which this race is endowed.

ENGLISH GRIP CURS.

A Physician's Treatment that is Guaranteed to be Effective.

Dr. J. C. Ross writes from Manchester, England, in regard to the epidemic of grip in America. He says no matter how severe the form of the affection may be, it can be cured if properly treated with decoction of cinnamon within 24 hours of its appearance. His method, established on eight years' practice on cases of this class, is by means of cinnamon administered in large and repeated doses, so as to saturate the tissues of a patient suffering some fever of microbial origin, which, thus from a fitting nidus becomes an unwitting nidus for the reception of the microbe. The microbe then ceases to flourish and the fever has existed for course. If the disease has existed for three or four days the treatment practically yields no result whatever. Where the symptoms have not been developed more than three or four hours the patient can return to his work within 48 hours. The method of treatment is, if the influenza has not existed for more than 24 hours, to order the patient to take half an ounce of decoction of cinnamon every half hour until six doses have been taken. After this half-ounce doses are to be taken every hour until 24 hours have elapsed from the commencement of the treatment. At the expiration of the 24 hours the same dose is to be repeated every two hours until the temperature falls to normal. After that half an ounce of the decoction is to be given four times a day for two days. The patient is instructed not to leave the house for 24 hours after the temperature has become normal. Sometimes the patients complain that the cinnamon makes them feel sick, but there is good reason to believe that in such cases the feeling of nausea arises from the influence of the grip on the alimentary canal, and not from the cinnamon, because in every case where the treatment has been persistently continued the nausea has ceased.

Adventurous Career.

Col. Funston of the Kansas regiment that recently distinguished itself in the Philippines is only 28 years old. It is said "he has been a reporter, fought Indians, explored Death Valley, spent two years in Alaska, been assistant secretary of the Topeka & Santa Fe railroad, served under Gomez in Cuba in twenty-three fights, wounded, and was sick for ten weeks with the fever."

A Wonderful General Remedy. Dr. Sloan's Liniment is known by Europeans the world over. The fact that it can be used in any way that any liniment can be used makes it invaluable for strains, sprains, soreness in muscles and similar purposes. The fact, furthermore, that this remedy is remarkably penetrating in its qualities, makes it a most valuable remedy in cases of rheumatism, neuralgia, etc. Sloan's Liniment is used the necessity of excessive rubbing is done away with as it penetrates quickly to the seat of the trouble and thus relieves pain without the necessity of undue friction, which is liable to make swollen or inflamed joints tender, muscles, and tendons still worse. Dr. Sloan's Liniment can be given with great advantage internally in cases of colds, cramps, etc. This famous remedy will also be found as valuable for the use of man, either internally or externally.

A copy of his Treatise on the Horse, which is replete with much useful and valuable information in regard to the care of this noble animal, will be sent to any person writing Dr. Sloan, Boston, Mass., for it.
