

The Advertiser.

LAURENS, January 1887.

Local and Special.

Our municipal election promises to be a quiet affair.

"Muddy Laurens" is the way the "teamed contemporaries" call it.

After all Claverius' neck was not broken—he died of strangulation.

Farmers in some sections report great damage to fall-outs by cold weather.

The directors and officers of the National Bank of Laurens, who have served since the organization, were re-elected on the 11th inst.

The First Quarterly Conference of the Methodist Church, will be held on the 22nd inst. at this place. Rev. J. M. Carlisle will preach on that day and Rev. T. G. Herbert, Presiding Elder, on the Sunday following.

Inasmuch as the editor has been absent during most of the past week, local news is scarce. We rely upon the valuable assistance of our County associates, and hope our readers will excuse the absence of local news. Banquets don't come often.

The Rubin School, Mr. Theo Jones, Principal, is now in a most flourishing condition, having sixty pupils enrolled. Miss Anna Mahaffey, a highly accomplished young lady, who recently graduated from the Laurensville Female College, has assumed the position of Assistant.

J. F. Martin & Co., are fully convinced that they need money more than ever.

So they have decided to inform their customers that now is a good time to buy them out. Put a little money in your pocket and come along and get anything you want, at your own price. But don't say anything about it to your neighbors!

A meeting of the Chatanooga Literary and Scientific Circle will be held in the Art room of the College on the 24th at 7:30 p.m. There will be an interesting and entertaining program, consisting of readings, recitations, etc., and an article of great interest on Barrois, whose memory all C.L.S.C.'s celebrate, will be read.

For Sale or Rent.
A neat store room at High Point, G. L. & S. R. R. A bargain offered, apply quick for terms. J. M. HAMPTON

Concert.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Waterloo Baptist Church will give a concert on Thursday evening last, at Anderson's Hall. The orchestra will commence at 7:30. The proceeds for the benefit of the church at that place.

Mr. Ben Bottom, the noted whistler and humorist will assist.

Attempted Arson.

On Monday morning a reporter learned of an attempt to burn the town. Coming at the rear of the Armstrong building, facing on Harbor Street, he found traces of the fire brand. The middle tones on this row has been unoccupied for several weeks. It is the property of Mr. Reason Quay and surely the man who would stick a torch to the property of this excellent and inoffensive old gentleman, is a hardened criminal indeed.

But as the work was done late Sunday night, with a high wind blowing from the close proximity of other wooden buildings, it would seem that this was an attempt to burn the whole town. The floor was thoroughly saturated with kerosene oil, which was poured through a cat-hole. From some cause the oil failed to ignite, and thus a most disastrous fire was prevented. Let this be a warning to our police. There are numerous old buildings in various localities throughout the city, that are unoccupied and a vigilant police force should watch those at night. A town of this size can ill afford to employ half a dozen policemen during the day to walk the streets with their hands in their pockets, while life and property are unprotected after sun-down.

CROSS HILL.

"K."

Now is the winter of our discontent made glorious summer by the dulcet vibrations of the "soft-say," the merry dance, the elegant soiree, the rabbit hunting, and slough-riding uphill, down hill, oh such fun.

Cross Hill shook off her lethargy and rushed into the Xmas festive arena with a determination to shake the estate. Crooking ears and everything that might impede the full enjoyment of the occasion was thrown to the winds, and the motto for the present is:

"Just let the wide world wag as it will, We'll be glad and festive still!"

We have had dancing parties, seedless, hot supper from "Maidenly to John O'Groats." Yet amid all the jollifications there were no mishaps, no misadventures except a sprained ankle, a turn over or two. Our maidens are fair, lovely, sociable, and our young men are light-hearted and gallant, and the consequence is we have had more sumin-consum in Cross Hill since the 25th Decem, than I have seen in many a day. Our boys are not lacking in energy and the time will soon come when they will cheerfully tax asilf the hills and the tow and dance to the music of the show-clad lasses.

We intend Mr. B. G. Smith and family are moving to Mr. B. Crisp's.

Walter Lee has left his circus for W. L. Lindsay, and he is returning to his first love, Cross Hill. And right gaily will we extend the right hand of welcome to William.

Our school commenced the 3rd Inst. Jno. C. Cook and Mrs. S. Y. Simpson, teachers. Sixty-five pupils on the roll.

If we can read the signs aright, the railroad is a certainty. Now is the time to make investments here. We have a good schools where the young men is taught to shoot! A Trial Justice office, where the old idea is pursued for shooting two chieftains; four number one physicians; two blacksmith shops; two steam mills and gins, and three stores, no grocery shop. We have an healthy a place as there is in the up country, and as good country surrounding to support it. So come on to all good citizens we will give a true Highland welcome.

We hear rumors of another removal from our neighborhood. We see Mr. Willis H. Barkdale hauling corn from his residence of last year, the plantation of the late C. Burns, to his own farm. Glad to see he is so well supplied with the articles. Mr. F. J. Owings late of Arkansas now occupies the Burns farm. We see Mr. D. T. Dial has recently completed a substantial tenant-house and has it occupied. By the way is it not good policy, when we build to build good houses for our laborers. Perhaps there would not be so much moving every winter if such were the case.

We observed several loads of cotton being unloaded at the gin house of Mr. R. H. Yeargin. He informs us that he has some 25 or 30 bales yet to gin. Though the bale staple was nearly all sold in this community. We also observed quite a number of sacks of corn at his mill.

Mr. Willis W. Yeargin had the misfortune to cut his leg pretty severely on last Monday morning and is still suffering from the wound.

We saw a petition to-day asking the Post Master General to remove the Post office of Highland Home, now kept at the residence of Mr. Jno. W. Sheekley to Thomas cross road. Such change would be quite convenient to many of those who receive their mail at that office.

We observed this week an excursion over the G. & R. R. given, we learn, to the merchants of Greenville, Laurens, and other places. That is very nice doubtless to the merchants, but it is not so nice to the farmers whose money goes to pay the road and whose supplies and productions furnish its freights.

But "such is life."

SUBSCRIBER.

The holidays having past, all of our farmers are beginning to look around and shake themselves together, and see the effects of the recent cold wave has made upon their small grain, etc.

The young man in question has excellent taste, and though rather small to many is without doubt the happiest man on yonder side of the creek?

Mr. R. M. Wasson has rented the farm of Mr. C. P. w. Sullivan for this year.

Mr. Sullivan moved to Greenville County.

Mr. J. C. Hall has moved into the Peretti house.

To go driving without a cushion is the latest "fad," introduced by a Tellico man.
